Ford retaliates, puts quotas on Canada beef

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Saturday ordered quotas on imports of Canadian cattle and beef in retaliation for restrictions Canada imposed on U.S. exports three months ago.

Ford's action came in a proclamation from the White House and followed weeks of intense pressure from U.S. ranchers seeking even broader restrictions on beef imports to help them fight a combination of increased operating costs and declining profits.

U.S. cattlemen who had been pressing for the quotas have insisted they would not drive retail prices up sharply because there already is an abundance of beef available.

Import quotas on foreign beef have been suspended in the United States since July, 1972, when former President Nixon acted to reduce inflationary pressures.

The action will apply to Canadian cattle, beef, veal, swine and pork.

In Ottawa, a spokesman for the prime minister's office said the Canadian government would have "no official comment at this time.

"Obviously it's something the government will have to study to determine what the actual effect will be," he said, adding he did not expect any official statement before the first of the week.

A White House spokesman said later that because the restrictions are retroactive to Aug. 12, 1974, the date Canada imposed its quotas, the Canadian quotas will already have been filled for the year ending next Aug. 12.

The spokesman also said the total amount of Canadian beef involved would amount to less than 1 per cent of overall U.S. domestic consumption.

As a result, he said, "we feel the inflationary impact will be minimal" on higher retail prices.

It was estimated the loss to Canada would be higher than $100 million.

The proclamation said, "Canada has imposed unjustifiable restrictions on cattle and meat imports from the United States."

The spokesman said the action was intended to force removal of the Canadian quotas.

"If the Canadians remove their restriction, we will remove ours," he said.

Under the Canadian limits, U.S. producers were allowed to export about 82,000 head of cattle and 17.9 million pounds of beef and veal.

The quotas announced by Ford allow Canada to export 17,000 head of cattle, 50,000 live hogs, 17 million pounds of beef and veal and 36 million pounds of pork.

The White House was authorized under the Trade Expansion Act of 1962 to impose such restrictions if foreign countries established quotas the United States deems unjustified.

The spokesman said the action was taken for three reasons:

—U.S. objection on general trade policy grounds, like similar protests of import restrictions by European countries and Japan.

— Consideration of the Canadian quotas as excessive.

—Failure by Canada to consult U.S. officials in advance of its August restrictions.

CALM AFTER THE STORM

Downtown Buffalo, N.Y., is quiet and winter-laced in the late hours Saturday after a freak storm blew in from Lake Erie. The storm closed the airport, schools and a number of factories.

There will be no war—Israel, Arabs assure Kissinger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Israel does not intend to attack its Arab neighbors and has been assured by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger that the Arabs have no plans to start a new Middle East war either, Israeli ambassador Simcha Dinitz said Saturday.

Dinitz acknowledged that his country has taken some precautionary defense measures, but told reporters after a 90-minute working luncheon with Kissinger that press reports about military mobilization in Israel were greatly exaggerated.

"Israel is a peaceful country. It has no intention to attack anyone," Dinitz said.

"I am happy to say that assurances I received from the Secretary of State as conveyed to him by our neighbors indicate the other side does not have aggressive intentions either. Naturally I will convey these impressions of the Secretary of State to my government," Dinitz said.

The Ambassador said that his term "the other side" meant specifically Syria.

In the troubled Middle East, meanwhile, Israeli Defense Minister Shimon Peres said both Israel and Syria had alerted their armed forces on the uneasy Golan Heights frontier. Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam said the Israelis planned an attack and warned his country's forces were ready.

State Department officials said the Israeli mobilization amounted only to a few thousand men. Israel currently has about 150,000 men in its armed forces.

As Kissinger and Dinitz entered the Secretary's private dining room, Kissinger was heard to tell Dinitz emotionally: "There will be no war."

Aides said Kissinger was upset with American news media reports indicating that another war in the Middle East was imminent. He also was understood to be very disturbed that remarks he made Friday in a news conference — apparently intended to calm the Middle East situation —had been interpreted by reporters as an indication hostilities were about to break out.

Kissinger met Dinitz on the eve of President Ford's departure for official visits to Japan and South Korea and talks in Vladivostok with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Earlier Saturday, Kissinger had breakfast with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin. State Department sources said the tense Middle East situation obviously came up during the Kissinger-Dobrynin meeting, although the meeting itself had been scheduled earlier for a final discussion of the Ford trip.

After his meeting with Dobrynin, Kissinger went to the White House where he spent an hour talking with Ford. Both men appeared relaxed when photographers were admitted to the Oval Office at the end of their meeting.

Fierce West Bank uprisings

TEL AVIV (UPI) — In the fiercest uprising since the first year of Israeli occupation, rockthrowing Arab demonstrators clashed with security troops in four cities on the West Bank of Jordan Saturday.

Israeli military sources said one girl was killed and dozens were injured on both sides. They said arrests ran into the scores "but not the hundreds." A curfew was clamped down later in the day in West Bank towns.

A military source said the girl "was hit on the head by a stone" in the northern town of Jenin and died later of her injuries. She was buried shortly afterwards. Arab sources said the girl was hit by a military vehicle.

Troops fired into the air to disperse a demonstration of high school students in the marketplace of the southern city of Hebron. Chanting "Al Fatah, Long Live Arafat, Palestine," the students hurled rocks at soldiers and border policemen before the gathering was broken up.

Further north in Halhoul, youths briefly blocked the Hebron military governor's car with a barricade of boulders. When the driver got out of the car, the sources said he was pelted by a flurry of rocks and injured slightly.

Another stone barricade on the Ramallah-Nablus highway was removed by troops.

The military command said a fire broke out in a Hebron restaurant owned by Jewish settlers, damaging the building in which it was located.

The incidents were the worst since 1968 when West Bank Arabs battled occupation troops in the streets. Israel captured the territory from Jordan in the 1967 Middle East war but Jordan has since given up all claims to it in favor of the Palestinian guerrila movement headed by Yasser Arafat.

Leaves today on first leg

Ford's historic journey

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford flies to the Far East today for an historic debut in world power politics aimed at pleasing the Japanese, reassuring the South Koreans and —most delicately — getting to know and starting to work with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

His Oval Office desk thick with briefing papers, Ford met Saturday with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for a final review of the trip. Kissinger will accompany the President as guide and adviser —the role he played so often for Richard M. Nixon.

The President was scheduled to leave from Andrews Air Force Base at 9:45 a.m. EST today for a seven-hour and 50-minute flight to Anchorage, Alaska. He was to deliver a speech in Anchorage before flying on to Tokyo.

The trip is historic both for the United States and for Ford.

Diplomats have stressed that leaders around the world will be watching closely Ford's performance at the Soviet summit. The outcome will, they say, in some measure determine U.S. influence elsewhere —just as have previous first meetings between U.S. and Soviet leaders.

In addition, no U.S. President has set foot in the Land of the Rising Sun in the century since Commodore Perry opened Japan to the world. Nixon hoped to be the first to do so, but his plans were thwarted by his forced resignation.

Ford's journey to Tokyo, to meet Emperor Hirohito and to visit Kyoto —the holy city of Japanese culture specifically spared by the United States from atomic devastation 29 years ago —recognizes Japan's rise from post-World War II occupation to a position of equality among world powers with global economic and political might.

Hirohito is scheduled to spend more time with Ford than the once-divine emporer has spent with any other world leader in his half a century on the throne of Japan. Ford will be in Japan from Nov. 18 to Nov. 22.

Woman is injured by pursesnatcher

A 77-year-old Upland woman was knocked to the ground and seriously injured Saturday night by a pursesnatcher on 9th Street.

Marie DeRose of 244 Garnet Way told police that she did not see the person who attacked her. Her hip was broken when she was knocked down in front of 137 W. 9th St. in Upland at 5:20 p.m.

She was admitted to San Antonio Community Hospital. Police said that the bandit escaped with about $200 in cash.

'Cold turkey' effort fails

Town couldn't kick the smoking habit

NORWOOD, N.J. (UPI) — This northern New Jersey community tried to kick the smoking habit "cold turkey" Saturday, but most residents apparently chose to keep puffing their cigars, cigarettes and pipes.

The effort, patterned after an old movie titled "Cold Turkey" that organizer Patricia Harrison saw on television recently, was believed the first organized attempt to get an entire town to quit smoking.

But only 50 resolute residents of this town of 4,398 showed up for a public tobacco-burning ceremony on "Cold Turkey Day" proclaimed by Mayor Raymond McKenna, himself a 12-cigar-a-day puffer, and organized by Mrs. Harrison, a housewife who said she and her husband Harry consume some 60 cigarettes a day.

And many of those who did were schoolchildren too young to have taken their first drag, and the rest were town officials, policemen and members of the state chapter of Group Against Smoking Pollution (GASP).

Gathered around a four-foot high metal basket, Mrs. Harrison officially went on "Cold Turkey" at 3:05 p.m., as her husband exhaled smoke from his last cigarette. She held up packs of cigarettes in both hands, and dropped them into the basket.

"This is it, this is it," she said, smiling up at a cluster of news photographers and children while a soccer game progressed nearby and several newsmen were puffing on cigarettes. "Hooray, hooray."

McKenna passed over five cigars. His wife, Hazel, stopped smoking last night and was sucking on a lollipop.

Rev. Gerald Heinen, pastor of Immaculate Conception Roman Catholic Church, next walked up to the basket and dropped in his pack of cigarettes. Retired bank employe Raymond Blanchard parted for the last time with his pipe, followed by Brooks Smith, carrying a tobacco tin and carton of cigars.

Then Mrs. Harrison, dressed in a pants suit in the crisp autumn air, set fire to the basket.

Mrs. Harrison is confident that community pressure will keep her and others from reaching for a cigarette or a cigar. She had unsuccessfully tried using hypnosis and clinics.

"I want each and every one of us to live a very long and healthy life," Mrs. Harrison said.

SNIPER'S TARGET

Pomona Police Officers Steven Straus and Gary Elofson examine the spot on the shattered rear window of their patrol car where a sniper's bullet hit the window about 7:30 p.m. Saturday as they were southbound on San Antonio Avenue, south of Monterey Avenue. Both officers ducked forward, they said, when they heard a loud explosion. The officers think the sniper may have been in a field at the rear of Hughes Market.

National health insurance plan for the poor

No firm pledge for grain

ROME (UPI) — The World Food Conference, convened at the urging of the United States to discuss the world's hungry, gaveled to a close Saturday night without a firm pledge for the 10 million tons of grain deemed necessary to alleviate starvation now.

The conference passed several resolutions to help the longterm food problem —such as an early warning system on future food crises —but failed to come up with the food needed to feed starving masses immediately.

The United States, the world's major food exporter, said the conference achieved "everything we wanted." However, America was the one nation which failed to make a pledge to the food aid program.

"This conference was not called to get food to people tomorrow," U.S. ambassador Edwin M. Martin said on the final day. "It was called to plan for the next 10 years to keep crises of this kind from recurring."

"The Stockholm conference on the environment did not result in people breathing less smog," Martin said. "And probably the population conference in Bucharest did not result in a drop of births on the next day."

The conference produced four major objectives:

—A fund to develop agriculture in poor nations.

—Establishment of a World Food Council to coordinate the work of other agencies on food production, nutrition and aid.

—A worldwide information and early warning system.

—Agreement in principle that 10 million tons of food is necessary for emergency relief each year.

It was on the last point the conference failed. Only Canada among the major food producers came up with a definite commitment to provide a definite quantity of food to help feed the world's hungry.

The United States said it could not make any promises, saying such a pledge would contribute to inflation in America.

The World Food Council would be empowered to make recommendations to governments, the United Nations Secretary General or the U.N. General Assembly.

Reinecke backers in fund drive to pay legal bills

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Supporters of former Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke have launched a fundraising drive declaring he "never asked for a pardon" in an effort to help him defray legal bills of $130,000, it was reported Saturday.

The Sacramento Bee said leaders of the ill-fated Reinecke gubernatorial campaign have brought in more than $10,000 in the appeal to also help wipe out a $28,500 campaign deficit.

The Friends of Ed Reinecke Committee, making use of more than 20,000 mailing labels left over from the campaign, have sent out appeals saying "your help is needed now."

The appeal declares: "Ed Reinecke never asked for a pardon," and he "never plea bargained."

Heading the fund are Harold S. Dobbs, a San Francisco attorney, and Clifford R. Anderson Jr., an attorney from Los Angeles.

Reinecke resigned as lieutenant governor Oct. 2 hours before being given an 18-month suspended sentence for perjury after a federal jury convicted him of lying during a U.S. Senate hearing.

Manhunt; police officer captive

PERRY, Fla. (UPI) — The FBI, state troopers and sheriffs' deputies combed parts of four Southeastern states Saturday night in a massive manhunt for an "extremely dangerous" accused murderer holding a veteran state highway patrolman hostage.

Maj. A.E. Reddick, directing the manhunt from this little Florida Panhandle town, said authorities were searching for John Paul Knowles, 28, of Jacksonville, Fla. Reddick said Knowles had abducted trooper Charles E. Campbell of Perry at shotgun point Saturday morning.

"A massive manhunt is underway through Florida and three bordering states for ...Knowles, an extremely dangerous individual," said W. M. Alexander, special agent in charge of the Jacksonville office of the FBI.

Reddick said officers were looking for a blue car that had been seen pulling away from Campbell's abandoned patrol car shortly after the abduction. He said the first two digits of the license plates indicated it was a rental car from Miami.

Knowles, who had escaped from a Jacksonville area jail July 26, after serving time for breaking and entering, was wanted in connection with the murders in Milledgeville, Ga., Nov. 7, of Carswell Carr and his 15-year-old daughter Mindy.

He also was wanted in a murder case in Bruton, Ala.

Earlier Saturday, police at Fort Pierce, Fla., found Barbara Tucker, 31, who authorities said had been abducted by Knowles at her home at West Palm Beach last Thursday. She told police she had been released by Knowles.

There had been a new warrant out for Knowles since Friday but police speculated that trooper Campbell had not been informed of it.

Trio found guilty in 3 slayings

FARMINGTON, Utah (UPI) — An all-white jury Saturday convicted three black airmen in the robbery, torture and murder of a group of whites in the basement of an Ogden stereo store.

An 11-man, one-woman jury deliberated 10½ hours before finding Dale S. Pierre, 21, Trinidad, W.I., and William A. Andrews, 19, Jonesboro, La., guilty of three counts of first-degree murder and two of aggravated robbery.

The jurors found Keith Leon Roberts, 20, Lawton, Okla., guilty of robbery.

The three airmen, all stationed at Hill Air Force Base when the crime occurred April 22, were charged with the $24,000 robbery of the Hi Fi Shop, the torture of five persons, and the murder of three.

The robbers herded the victims into the store basement, bound them, forced them to drink drain cleaner, and shot them one by one in the head. One victim was sexually assaulted, and one was strangled and had a plastic pen kicked deep into his inner ear.

Prosecutor Robert Newey said he will ask for death penalties on the murder convictions. The Second District Court jury begins its sentence hearing Wednesday.

Roberts, whom the prosecution accused of masterminding the crime, was the only one of the three defendants not identified by the testimony of Orren W. Walker Jr., who survived the ordeal.

Walker's 20-year-old son Stanley; Sherry Michelle Ansley, 18, and Mrs. Byron Naisbitt, 52, were killed by a man the older Walker identified as Pierre.

Walker and Courtney Naisbitt, Mrs. Naisbitt's 16-year-old son, survived. The Naisbitt youth remains blind, paralyzed and unable to recall the killings. Walker identified Pierre and Andrews as his assailants.

The prosecutor characterized Roberts as the "architect...clever enough not to involve himself if possible" in the crimes, the burly Andrews as the "heavy work man" who carted the stereo equipment from the store, and Pierre as the "executioner without regret" who methodically shot the victims.

Walker told the court Andrews poured the drain cleaner into cups while Pierre gave it to the victims to drink. He said Pierre raped Miss Ansley and then methodically shot all five victims in the head.

Walker said Pierre also kicked a ballpoint five inches into his ear as he tried to play dead.

Senate may be asked to okay it, but chances slim in '74

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate may be asked to approve national health insurance for the poor and for victims of bank-breaking illnesses during the waning days of the 93rd Congress, informed sources said Saturday.

But the chances of insurance legislation being passed and sent to President Ford this year remain extremely slim.

Still interested in national health insurance this session of Congress, despite the many strikes against it, are Democratic Senators Russell B. Long of Louisiana and Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, Senate insiders say.

"It's really all in Long's camp," said Geoffrey Peterson of Ribicoff's staff. Long has not unveiled his health insurance strategy.

Long, however, has not tasted the bitter health insurance defeats suffered by Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, who tried and failed before the election recess to put together an insurance bill.

Mills' committee couldn't resolve differences on how to finance national health insurance and whether to make it mandatory or optional for workers and employers. A lame duck Congress cannot be counted on to resolve such disputes.

Another strike against passage this year is disinterest shown by the Democratic leadership.

Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia at a news conference last week said he didn't foresee the passage of insurance legislation by the lame-duck Congress. House Speaker Carl Albert didn't even mention the subject at a briefing on legislative priorities.

Moreover, neither the administration, the American Medical Association, the private health insurance industry nor the American Hospital Association — among other proponents of insurance reform —can agree on legislation.

Any attempt by the Senate to push through a bill likely would be rebuffed by the House. Mills has labeled the Long-Ribicoff approach a "piecemeal" effort and said he firmly opposes it.

Through a new payroll tax on employers and workers, Long-Ribicoff would provide so-called catastrophic insurance for most families and replaces medicaid for the needy with broader health care benefits. Catastrophic benefits would begin after 60 days of hospitalization in one year or $2,000 in family medical expenses.

"Catastrophic insurance is the roof," Mills said during Ways and Means deliberations. "But I think we need the floor and the walls along with the roof."

State's health care system labeled 'cookbook medicine'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Los Angeles doctor has described California's health care system for 2.4 million needy as "cookbook medicine."

Dr. Barry Warshaw told a state assembly hearing that the Medi-Cal system is so buried in red tape that it "makes many doctors refuse to accept Medi-Cal patients."

Doctors are especially annoyed by "prior authorization" -the requirement that the system approve a treatment plan before a physician can begin treating a patient, he said.

His disputes over the best methods of treatment with Medi-Cal led to the charges of "cookbook medicine."

Almost one-third of his patients are covered by Medi-Cal, he said, and he must spend two to three hours a week filling out forms to get paid for their treatment, he said.

James E. Randlet, associate director of the California Medical Association, which represents 25,000 physicians, voiced similar complaints and said "what prior authorization does is to place paperwork and red tape in the way of treating a patient."

Other doctors also had similar complaints, but Jerry Green, head of the state Department of Health's financing system, defended the plan, which he argued "delivered health care to those entitled to it at reasonable cost."

California's physicians collected about $300 million in fees from Medi-Cal last year.

The committee also heard criticisms from pharmacists, dentists, optometrists, hospitals and nursing homes.

Council to take up proposal to hike pay of city employes

The Upland City Council will consider proposals Monday night to raise the salaries of city employes.

Councilman Harold Bailin raised the possibility of a salary increase for city employes at the Nov. 4 meeting of the Upland governing board, pointing out that the city had an unexpected fund balance excess of approximately $200,000.

Bailin suggested that the balance excess should be allocated to the city employes because the 7½ per cent pay hike the employes received last spring was inadequate.

Councilwoman Ina Petokas opposed the salary boost at the Nov. 4 meeting, proposing instead that the employes be given a one-time-only bonus of $178.88 each.

At its next meeting on Monday, Nov. 18, the Upland council also will consider a proposed ordinance to restrict the use and construction of billboards in the city.

City Atty, Donald Maroney, in a letter explaining the drafted ordinance, stated that there currently are 18 billboards in Upland.

Councilman George M. Gibson has urged his colleagues to ban all billboards in the city.

Burglars strike at Morretti home

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Former Democratic Assembly Speaker Bob Morretti had his east Sacramento home burglarized of household items valued at $500, police reported.

Police said Morretti, a retiring Van Nuys assemblyman and unsuccessful gubernatorial candidate, recently reported the theft of a set of matching table lamps, glass ash tray stand and floor lamp.

Morretti said the items were being stored in his garage while the home was being refurbished, police said.

Chrysler nationwide shutdown looms

DETROIT (UPI) — A United Auto Workers vice president said Saturday night that all signs point to an extended nationwide halt next month in automobile production by Chrysler Corp.

The UAW assessment, by vice president Douglas A. Fraser, came after a day of silence on reports that Chrysler may shut down its entire domestic auto production for all of next month.

"I would say all the evidence we have, reports we're getting, would indicate a shutdown is at hand for an extended period of time," Fraser said.

"There is substantial evidence that it will happen."

Chrysler, the nation's third largest carmaker, employs about 113,000 assembly line workers but —like General Motors and Ford —is suffering from a sales slump and a heavy backlog of unsold cars.

Fraser said he, UAW president Leonard Woodcock and other union officials would meet with Chrysler executives Monday, joining Detroit Mayor Coleman A. Young in discussions originally intended to deal only with a proposed shutdown of one Detroit auto assembly plant.

Chrysler confirmed the meeting, but declined to confirm or deny reports sweeping Detroit that it plans to close all six of its U.S. car assembly lines for all of December.

Fraser said such a shutdown would have "devastating" effects on Chrysler workers and the economy itself. He said such a voluntary shutdown would be unparalleled in the industry.

The union prefers a staggered production and manpower cutback to reduce the impact, especially during the upcoming holiday season, Fraser said.

The meeting Monday, union and company executives said, was intended originally to deal with a proposal to shut the 67-year-old Jefferson Avenue plant in Detroit. That plant will cut back to 3,500 workers starting Monday.

But both union and company sources said the wider production cutback might also come up for discussion.

Saxbe to release report on Hoover program

Secret plan to disrupt radicals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General William B. Saxbe will release a report Monday which labels "abhorrent" parts of a secret program which the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover utilized to disrupt radical organizations in the United States, it was learned Saturday.

A committee headed by Assistant Attorney General Henry E. Petersen spent months searching FBI files for details of seven operations conducted for 15 years under the code name "Cointelpro," Justice Department sources told UPI.

The department has already made public Hoover directives aiming Cointelpro —through infiltration and tricks —at New Left groups across the country.

Also released last summer was a 1971 Hoover directive canceling Cointelpro operations without explanation. There was speculation that Hoover became concerned about the FBI's public image during the last of his 48 years at the helm before his death at 77 in 1972.

The Washington Star-News published Saturday a 21-page draft copy of the new report outlining some of the Cointelpro operations which it said "can only be considered abhorrent in a free society."

But the report added that much of the Cointelpro project was justified and legitimate, and said a "a fair, accurate and comprehenisve understanding" of all the activity should be made with due consideration to the problems Hoover was dealing with.

One section of the draft report covers 2,337 operations of FBI agents in five programs, starting with one directed against the Communist Party U.S.A.

The Socialist Workers Party, the Ku Klux Klan, Soviet espionage, black extremists and New Left groups became successive targets.

The draft report charged that some of the Cointelpro activities resembled "dirty tricks" in political campaigns and included:

— Sending anonymous communications to families of individuals advising them of "immoral or radical" activities of the individual.

— Informing employers, credit bureaus, and creditors of alleged immoral or radical activities of members of the Communist Party U.S.A.

— Leaking information to civic and religious leaders to gain their support in opposition to the targeted groups and promoting pressure on state and local governments and employers and landlords to disrupt them.

— Leaking information to newspapers and reporters considered friendly to the FBI about arrest records of individuals in the targeted groups.

—Sending out anonymous letters about suspected individuals who campaigned for election to local office.

The draft report said the committee could find no evidence that any attorney general or anyone else outside the FBI in position to approve such a program was ever consulted or even informed of its existence.

"Knowledge of the programs was closely held within the bureau and the documents authorizing at least three of these programs —New Left, black extremists, and white hate groups —specifically instructed all responsible bureau personnel that 'under no circumstances should the existence of the program be made known outside the bureau,'' it said.

'Super Bowl of intellects' throws Ford, sponsoring ITT for a loss

PALM COAST, Fla. (UPI) — The Ford administration's economic strategy took heavy criticism Saturday at "the Super Bowl of intellects," a symposium attended by 13 of the nation's reputedly most brilliant men and women.

So did the ITT Development Corp., which merely happened to be the sponsor of the event.

And one panelist, Dr. James Watson, a Nobel prize-winning biologist from Harvard, even drew a gasp from the audience when he commented on a question about his views on religion, "God is a cop-out."

The participants were brought together for a two-day verbal free-for-all to exchange "Great Dialogues on the Human Condition."

The lineup, in addition to Dr. Watson and faculty members from Florida's university campuses, included William Buckley, Arthur Schlesinger, Truman Capote, Kate Millett, Saul Bellow, Dr. Gunnar Myrdal, Vernon E. Jordan Jr., Dr. Sidney Hock, Leslie Fielder, Lionel Trilling, Harold Rosenberg and Dr. E. T. York.

Dr. Nelvin M. Tumin, professor of sociology and anthropology at Princeton University, was the moderator.

Dr. Myrdal, the aging Swedish sociologist recently awarded a Nobel Prize, was on a panel with Watson and novelist Bellow discussing "Human Nature and Human Destiny." He said President Ford's plan to whip inflation won't work.

"Ford's so-called war against inflation is rhetoric, flowery, and not reality," he said. "You know and I know the American people are not ready to make the kind of sacrifices they did in the First World War and the Second World War."

Jordan, executive director of the National Urban League, suggested a "full employment program" by creation of government jobs "to tend the parks, to protect the environment, to heal the sick, to teach and care for the children, to do all the crucial jobs that have been neglected in favor of going to the moon or building bigger and better bombs."

One of the ITT officials responsible for bringing the group together referred at one point to the get-together as "a Super Bowl of intellects," probably little suspecting that ITT itself would come in for a roasting.

Ms. Millett, a sculptress and feminist leader, rapped ITT and said she found it "ironically subversive" to be holding the discussions under the auspices a "giant capitalist corporation, a multinational cartel..."

Victory gardens back in Southland

TORRANCE, Calif. (UPI) — Remember the World War II victory gardens?

The concept has returned to this Southern California community, in the form of 52 plots in a city park. Only this time the enemy is inflaton.

The garden program is a $3,000 project authorized by the city council. Fencing and water lines have been installed, and each 400 square foot plot will be assigned on a first come-first serve basis in January.

Torrance councilwoman Katy Geissert said if the program is successful, it may be added to other areas of Torrance.

"It's become almost essential with the prices at the grocery store," she said. "As long as we have city land that's not developed right now, we feel that's an ideal way to use it."

West Virginia ideological battle

What's behind the book controversy

By BRUCE A. COOK

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Nailed to a tree along a country road is a weathered piece of canvas bearing this message in black paint:

"Jesus wouldn't read the books."

Scrawled beneath in faded lipstick is this response:

'Jesus wouldn't bomb our schools, either."

"Jesus wouldn't read the books"

Ezra Graley, a smiling, hardjawed minister, raises his arms in the glare of lights on an auditorium stage and tells 2,000 cheering followers they're fighting for the same ideals American soldiers died for on battlefields in Korea and Vietnam.

At Dupont High School, 17-year-old Susie Balcom, a senior, looks out a window at a group of anti-book pickets.

"I'm so sick of it," she says. "It's ridiculous. I think the books are great. They tell it to you straight."

The books —which have caused nearly three months of unrest in this coal and chemical industry heartland —are in a language arts series for all grade levels in Kanawha County.

There are 325 titles, 90,000 books in all. They cost more than $500,000. They were selected by a special committee with the backing of Schools Superintendent Kenneth Underwood and the Board of Education for 45,000 pupils in 121 schools.

Schools in California, Nevada, North Carolina and other states use many of the same texts, produced by such publishers as D. C. Heath, McGraw-Hill and Scott, Foresman & Co.

But here, particularly in the hills and hollows near this capital city, the books touched off a wave of trouble which started with peaceful picketing and led to violence.

Since the first organized protests by clergymen and parents calling the texts everything from "downright pornography" to a "Communist plot," there have been shootings, street fights, school bombings, blockades, boycotts and strikes idling up to 10,000 coal miners.

From "Man in the Expository Mode 2" by McDougal, Littell & Co. are phrases such as this: "All praise to Allah that I went to Boston when I did. If I hadn't, I'd probably still be a brainwashed black Christian."

Such passages run rampant through the books in an effort to destroy the traditional Godfearing values this country was built on, protesters say.

From a Webster-McGraw-Hill series: "You sons of bitches... you stupid damn wretch."

UNDERWOOD

MOORE

Excerpts by the hundreds are ticked off by the protest groups, sometimes listed in newspaper ads. Pro-book forces say they're taken out of context.

"The books tell it like it is in America," Underwood has said. "There has been so much confusion. Many of the people complaining the most haven't even seen the books."

Alice Moore, the dark-eyed minister's wife who first announced opposition to the texts to fellow school board members months ago, says the entire drift of the book adoption is anti-God anti-family, anti-America.

While she has stuck to her position which has left a minority of one on the five-member board, she has stayed out of the protest on the streets and believes her fight eventually will be won in the courts.

The relentless crusade against the texts has been led by three Fundamentalist preachers, Graley and the Revs. Marvin Horan and Avis Hill. Horan abandoned his job as a truck driver to devote full time to the protest.

From a selection titled "Jump Rope Jingles and Other Useful Rhymes":

"Sally drank marmalade
"Sally drank beer
"Sally drank everything
"That made her feel queer."

"Why," asks Hill, "should such trash be in our children's schools?"

There has been little outside influence in the protest, although at times leaders of groups from other states have appeared at local rallies to lend their support.

"We're looking for some people," Kanawha County Sheriff Kemp Milton said recently after snipers fired bullets into three school buses and a state police car.

No one was injured in those incidents, but in September during mass picketing in Charleston, a truck driver was shot and seriously wounded and a man who fired a pistol into a crowd of protestors was nearly beaten to death.

Underwood, 46, an Indiana-born educator who came here 2½ years ago from Fargo, N.D., to take the $32,000-a-year superintendent's job, has been a main target of the protesters. He said many of them would oppose him under any circumstances because he's not a native of West Virginia.

"I get the feeling," he says, "that many West Virginias don't like outsiders."

"Dr. Underwood came in here to help us individualize instruction, to help create an educational system to fit the needs of all children and not just one group or another," said schools information officer Mike Bell.

"This book adoption ties in with doing that. We are in effect working with different kids at different levels.

"Dr. Underwood really had very little involvement with the individual selection of the books. He had faith in the textbook selection committee."

"Jesus wouldn't bomb our schools, either"

The books were removed from schools for six weeks and stacked in a warehouse while they were reviewed by a special citizens' committee.

After the review and study of the committee's reports, the school board voted 4-1 Mrs. Moore objecting to return 95 per cent of the books to classrooms. The D.C. Health "Communicating" series for elementary level children and part of the "Interaction" series for higher grades went into school libraries.

From "America Reads" by Scott, Foresman:

"Damn fool," "Kill that damn thing," "My God," "he's a mean son-of-a-bitch."

Some children have not been to class since schools opened Sept. 3. Nearly one-third of the county's pupils were absent at the height of the parental boycott, but school officials said there was no way of telling how many stayed home to oppose the books "or because of intimidation and threats."

"In some areas," Underwood said, "It's neighbor against neighbor."

SORROWFUL SOPHIA LOREN

A tearful actress Sophia Loren attends funeral of actor-director Vittorio De Sica Saturday at the Church of San Lorenzo in Rome. De Sica, post World War II film innovator, died Wednesday in Paris of lung cancer. He was 73. De Sica was in Paris to appear at the premiere of a new film he directed with Miss Loren and actor Richard Burton. But cancer claimed his life the day before the premiere.

Pomona Valley Council of Churches

Marathon walk to fight famine

More than 1,000 particpants, including an 84-year-old blind man, a television celebrity and a set of high school-age twins, will begin the 10-mile course of the Walk for the Hungry today.

Walkers will meet at Palomares Park in Pomona at 1 p.m. with proceeds from the event to be used to help feed the world's starving through CROP, a program of Church World Service. Sponsoring the walk is the Pomona Valley Council of Churches.

Bob Perry of La Verne, who is legally blind, plans to walk the entire 10 miles and earn $1 per mile from each of his nine sponsors. Perry is a retired school teacher who sports a white beard and includes in his walking attire a jaunty hat, a cane and sneakers.

Ralph Waite who protrays the father on the "Waltons" television series, also will be among the walkers on Sunday. He plans to walk the 10 miles.

Bonita High School students Dean and Dale Davis, twin sons of Mrs. Dorothy Davis of La Verne, will run the course of the Walk for the Hungry as will the Rev. Jerry Van Houten of Upland.

Also participating in the event will be Marjorie Smith, and 80-year-old Ontario resident, who worked for Church World Service for many years.

Ask for ID

Warning issued on door-to-door solicitors

Pomona City Administrator Jerrold Gonce has warned all city residents to ask for identification of persons who call at their homes and identify themselves as city employes.

The city, said Gonce, has recently received complaints from residents who have been harrassed by persons claiming to be representatives of the city.

All city personnel doing field work, Gonce continued, carry laminated identification cards and should present them to homeowners when they call.

Similarly, Gonce said, employes of the Valley Association of Cities also carry identification cards and should be asked for by residents when contacted.

Area colleges joining forces with libraries

Some area colleges and universities are participating in a program that will permit students to use library facilities of 21 colleges in the newly formed Inland Impire Academic Library Community.

Students from participating colleges will be able to use their library cards from their home town colleges to check out books at any of the 21 participating schools.

Members of the cooperative effort includes Antelope Valley College, Azusa Pacific College, Barstow College, California Baptist College, Cal State, San Bernardino, Cal Poly, Chaffey College, Citrus College, College of the Desert, Crafton Hills College, La Verne College, Loma Linda University, Loma Linda, Loma Linda University, Riverside; Mt. San Antonio College, Mt. San Jacinto College, Palo Verde College, Riverside City College, San Bernardino Valley College, UC Riverside, UC Redlands and Victor Valley College.

What's going on around here...

THE AMERICAN HOST PROGRAM is seeking valley families to house and entertain English-speaking teachers visiting the area next summer. The teachers will spend 10 days with a family before returning to their homeland.

The purpose of the program is to show the American way-of-life to foreign teachers so that they may pass on a new and better understanding of America to their students and friends.

The American Host Program arranges all transportation. Host families are asked to meet their guest when he or she arrives in the area and are required to provide a private room, meals and arrange for the teacher to meet persons and see places of interest.

For more information interested persons are asked to write to the American Host Program, Hotel Commodore, Suite 2100, New York, N.Y. 10017 or call (212) 683-6367.

POMONA ADULT SCHOOL and the Pomona Recreation Department are offering a series of community sings Mondays from 9 to 11 a.m. in Pilgrim Hall at the Pilgrim Congregational Church.

Frank Cummings, minister of music at the church, is song leader.

Cummings is a retired Pomona teacher. He has been minister of music at the Church for 40 years. He served as song leader for the Pomona Rotary Club for 17 years.

All those who enjoy community singing may attend the Monday morning programs. Admission is free.

BEVERLY KEENE, a Pomona College senior, is an official observer at the United Nations World Food Conference now underway in Rome.

Miss Keene is attending the conference under the auspices of "Bread for the World," a new independent American organization composed of businessmen and university professors. The goal of the organization is to lobby on major issues affecting world hunger.

MARIE FLETCHER

ASTROLOGY will be duscussed by MARIE FLETCHER at Citrus College Auditorium, at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 26.

Mrs. Fletcher is self-employed as a counseling astrologer, and teaches astrology classes at San Jose City College and Mountain View Recreation Center. She also writes a weekly Dial-a-Horoscope service and writes a periodical newsletter, "Astroliners by Maris."

Admission to the lecture-discussion is $1.50 for adults, $1 for students, children (under 12) and senior citizens.

LA VERNE COLLEGE again has awarded a $500 scholarship to Chino's Don Antonio Lugo High School for its counseling department.

Each year the college awards 30 such scholarships to schools participating in their counselor workshops. This year's award will go to the most deserving student interested in later attending the college.

WILLISTON WIRT, an 11-year staff member of the Pomona Public Library, will detail for members of the University Club of Claremont the lives and wives of some great Americans at the club's noon meeting Tuesday at Griswold's.

In doing so, Wirt will continue a tradition which he established five years ago — brining to the club a Thanksgiving program based on his esearch on early American history.

GARY A. KNIGHT, former assistant dean of the Claremont Graduate School, has been named director of admissions at Colorado Woman's College.

Knight had been with Claremont Graduate School since 1972.

Council meeting is canceled

The Pomona City Council will not hold its regularly scheduled meeting Monday due to the city's participation in the All-American Cities competition Monday and Tuesday in San Diego.

The City Council and city administrator are attending the San Diego event.

The next meeting of the council will be held Monday, Nov. 25.

Two brothers to be sentenced for gem robbery

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — Two brothers will be sentenced Dec. 5 on charges of first degree robbery, burglary and assault with a deadly weapon for the $240,000 robbery of Tiffany's Jewelry Store in Beverly Hills last year.

Herbert Miller Jr., 23, and his brother Donald, 19, were found guilty by a Superior Court jury after little more than one day of deliberations.

Four others, including another Miller brother, Robert, 21, have been convincted and sentenced. Their father, Herbert, 46, still faces trial for the holdup. A security guard was wounded in the robbery Nov. 21, 1973.

Only $84,186 worth of the jewelry taken has been recovered.

Body of pilot near wreckage

SANTA MARIA (UPI) — The body of a pilot found about 30 feet from the wreckage of his plane was identified Thursday as Henri M. Rosso, 44, a freelance architect from Meadowlark Ranch in the Santa Ynez Valley.

The Santa Barbara County sheriff's office said Rosso took off in his Cessna 150 from the Santa Maria Airport Wednesday night in heavy fog and crashed just past the end of the runway.

Historic U.S.-Japanese summit meeting

JAPAN— H T K — SUNDAY

By ROBERT CRABBE

TOKYO (UPI) — The United States and Japan reach a dramatic milestone in a 120 year love-hate relationship on Monday (Nov. 18), when President Ford steps of Air Force One in Tokyo for a five-day visit to the Land of the Rising Sun —protected by what promises to be the largest police guard in memory.

Never before has an American president in office come to the teeming Japanese capital, where the roar of baseball crowds and the rhythms of American pop music blend with chants of "Fuodo Hantai!" (stop Ford) from left wing demonstrators.

Waiting to greet the 38th American president is Emperor Hirohito, 124th Japanese sovereign in a line founded 2,634 years ago, and a more controversial figure is 56-year old Prime Minister Kakuel Tanaka, who is fighting for his political life over charges of corruption.

But Ford's arrival also will see thousands of left wing demonstrators mobilized by Japan's Socialist and Communist parties, who oppose the entire American role as military protector of Asia's non-socialist countries.

A police spokesman for the Tokyo Metropolitan Police Department said 100,000 policemen will be mobilized for protection of Ford in view of left wing opposition to his visit and recent terrorist bombing attacks against major companies.

Although the demonstrations are expected to be smaller this time, the leftists forced cancellation of an attempt by President Eisenhower to visit Japan in 1960 when an unpopular Japanese premier was trying to ram a revised Japanese-American military treaty through the parliament.

Snake-dancing, slogan-chanting left wing demonstrators surged through Tokyo for weeks, and finally forced Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi to quit.

Despite the left wing opposition, Ford will be accorded an elaborate welcome.

Ford comes to Japan as both as the United States' chief executive and its ceremonial chief-of-state. He will be in Tokyo Nov. 18-21 or a round of ceremonial meetings and banquets with the Emperor, and talks on Japanese-American relations with Tanaka.

Nov. 21, Ford goes to Kyoto, Japan's old capital and center of traditional Japanese culture 300 miles southwest of Tokyo. On Nov. 22 he departs from the air port at nearby Osaka for South Korea.

Landing in Tokyo on Monday afternoon, Ford will be whisked by helicopter to the Geihinkan, Japan's palace for visiting foreign chiefs of state. Built in 1909, it was inspired by Buckingham Palace and other homes of European royalty. Emperor Hirohito lived there when he was crown prince.

Recently rebuilt at a cost of $33.7 million as a guest house, the Geihinkan is decorated with French art. Japanese gardeners are salting its spacious grounds with hundreds of chrysanthemum plants in full flower.

Because of the fear of street demonstrations, Hirohito will not go to Tokyo International Airport to greet Ford. Instead, he will come to the Geihinkan on the morning of the 19th for a welcome ceremony.

It will be the first time the Emperor has not welcomed a foreign chief-of-state at planeside. Ford also will be the first chief-of-state to enter Tokyo by helicopter rather than car.

After the official welcome, Ford and Hirohito, 73, will drive to the 234-acre estate in central Tokyo where the emperor lives like a country squire in a neighborhood where property costs $1,000 a square foot.

Surrounded by a network of moats, the palace compound was laid out in the 17th century as a fortress of the shogun, Japan's military dictator.

Hirohito, revered as a deity by Japanese before World War II, is a grey-haired man five feet three and one half inches tall. He peers out at the world through rimless, thick glasses.

In 1945 he branded the idea of his divinity as a "myth" at the suggestion of General Douglas MacArthur, who ran the American occupation.

Ford's call on the emperor will take place in the "Imperial Palace Building." It is a $30 million structure completed in 1968. Outwardly it reflects traditional Japanese architecture. On the inside it is a modern office building, also equipped with kitchens and banquet halls.

Hirohito works there, but lives in a 14-room single story house at another part of the palace grounds. Ford will not see it.

Ford's talks with stocky, husky voiced Tanaka will be held in the colorless official residence of prime ministers, across the street from the Diet (parliament).

Tanaka, a self-made construction millionaire, captured his country's top political job in 1972. Failure to control Japan's 22 per cent a year inflation has made him unpopular. Polls show public support for him at less than 20 per cent.

Last month, a Tokyo news magazine charged Tanaka used cabinet jobs during his career to enrich himself through land deals.

Tanaka denied it at a news conference Nov. 11. He shook up the cabinet to strengthen his hold on the government. Angry rivals in the ruling Liberal Democratic Party are trying to push him out. For appearances' sake, there will be a truce during the Ford visit.

Ford's problem will be to get through four hours of talks with Tanaka without doing anything to affect the unstable Japanese political situation.

Ford flies to Kyoto Nov. 21 for an afternoon of sightseeing that includes the old royal palace, and the Nijo castle, another former home of Japan's military dictators.

The castle is famous for its built-in security arrangements, including secret rooms for guards. It also has floors that were built to squeak —and still do —so that the castle's occupants could never be taken by surprise.

The president will stay one night at the Miyako, Kyoto's top luxury hotel. From a mountainside it overlooks an 1,100 year old city, crowded with hundreds of Shinto shrines and Buddhist temples.

Ford also is scheduled to see the Kinkakupi temple of the Zen Buddhist sect. Built beside a lake in the 15th century, it was destroyed by fire in 1958 and rebuilt. It is one of Japan's best known architectural treasures.

Anti-Ford rallies have drawn smaller crowds than expected. The largest was 26,000 persons who attended an Oct. 21 gathering at a Tokyo Park.

The campaign against the visit looked like a complete failure until Oct. 8. On that day Japanese newspapers published statements by a retired U.S. Navy rear admiral that American warships visiting Japan were armed with nuclear weapons.

The Japanese government had denied this for years. The country has a "nuclear allergy" stemming from the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in World War II.

The testimony by retired Rear Admiral Gene Robert Larocque lent the campaign against Ford far more steam than it might have had otherwise.

Ford's Korean visit

Delicate political ground

SEOUL (UPI) — President Gerald Ford will find plenty of friendly folks when he visits South Korea this Friday, but he will be treading on delicate political ground.

Although a warm and enthusiastic welcome virtually is guaranteed, Ford might well be asking himself the question: "Is this trip really necessary?"

Diplomats and other officials believe it is.

Despite the high political fever running against the strong-armed rule of President Park Chung Hee in Korea, Ford could not bypass a country almost 35,000 American troops died and where 38,000 still remain to protect what the dead defended.

To visit Japan and the Soviet Union and miss neighboring Korea, still one of the United States' closest allies, would come close to a calculated insult.

Still, though, Ford is keeping the trip as short as diplomatically possible. The delicate domestic political situation undoubtedly is one of the main reasons.

The brevity of the trip may save him from some of the potential political embarrassment. But he cannot sidestep the political issues without some repercussions, however slight they may be.

The president will stay about 24 hours. In that period, he has to squeeze in two meetings with Park and visit American troops stationed 30 miles north of the capital and just below the demilitarized zone that separates south Korea from the Communist North and symbolizes history's longest armistice.

If official Korean-American ties are so close and the people are so friendly to Americans, what makes Ford's visit so delicate in terms of domestic politics?

There is smouldering unrest among a wide sector of society against Park's harsh rule and his heavyhanded use of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency to put dissidents down.

Some of the dissidents — particularly students and clergymen, who are playing leading protest roles —are hopeful of meeting with Ford to air some of their grievances.

Ford's tight schedule may preclude any such meeting.

If it does, the dissident leaders are hoping at least for some sign from Ford that he is aware of their grievances and that some of them may be justifiable.

No gesture at all to at least some of the dissidents probably would strengthen the already strong hand of Park. It also may cause many of the dissidents to lose heart in their struggle for lifting some of the highly restrictive measures imposed by Park.

No more cut, squeeze and trim

Demo-controlled Senate, Assembly eye spending in Brown's 'New Spirit'

By JOHN R. BALZAR

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Emerging from eight years in the "cut, squeeze and trim" fiscal vise of Gov. Ronald Reagan, Democrats in the legislature are preparing a deluge of programs to test out on the "new spirit" administration of Democrat Edmund G. Brown Jr.

A budget surplus of about a half-billion dollars awaits the legislature when it returns Dec. 2 for a week-long "organizing" meeting. The two-year working session starts Jan. 6.

Beyond the surplus, Gov.-elect Brown has promised no tax increases during his first year.

But Democrats, having reinforced their majorities in both houses during the elections, are expected to re-offer a spate of spending and policy measures which were rejected by the retiring Republican Reagan.

In a series of post-election interviews, legislative leaders set forth some of their first goals and priorities.

High on the list of Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy, D-San Francisco, is a bill to provide public financing of state elections. He said it will be one of the "very few" measures he will personally carry.

McCarthy said it will make provisions for a combination of public and private support for both primary and general election campaigns. The cost to the state treasury, he said, "will depend, like everything else, on the state of the economy."

Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego, and several other ranking lawmakers said the primary task for the legislature will be to meet a court-ordered restructuring of the state's school financing system.

The complex problem of equalizing school district tax rates and educational opportunities is certain to cost the state large sums of money. Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles has estimated the price tag at $1 billion.

The current reliance on widely varying property tax rates for the majority of school dollars was declared unconstitutional this year by a Los Angeles Superior Court judge in the famed Serrano case. The judge gave a six-year deadline to completely revamp the system.

Both Mills and McCarthy must stand for election in their respective houses to retain their leadership positions. Rival Democrats have tested the waters for potential challenges, but the two men express open optimism of overcoming any opponents.

In the general election, Democrats picked up a net of seven Assembly seats, gaining better than a two-thirds majority in the house for the first time this century. The partisan lineup now is 55 Democrats and 25 Republicans.

Democrats picked up a net of three seats in the Senate, and now outnumber Republicans 25-14 with one vacancy. There will be another opening in January when Democratic Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally is sworn in as lieutenant governor.

Some of the other major Democratic proposals:

—Education. McCarthy says one of the first bills to be acted upon next year will be a measure giving school districts a one-time allocation of extra state money to help them meet inflation. He said it would be similar to a $74 million bill vetoed last session by Reagan.

—Housing. McCarthy also supports early enactment of legislation creating a state agency to help low and middle-income Californians finance new housing through multimillion dollars bonds. This is another proposal rejected by Reagan.

—Parks. Mills says he will push to appropriate about $40 million of the surplus immediately for acquisition of park and conservation lands. Also this session, the legislature will have to grapple with a proposed master plan for coastal development in the state.

— Transportation. Mills, McCarthy and other lawmakers expect proposals to increase the state's role in planning and financing mass rapid transit systems.

— Public Employes. The newly-elected governor and many Democratic legislators support broad new collective bargaining rights for public employes, including arbitration and the right to strike. Reagan has strongly opposed the idea.

For their part, Republicans, who won only 28 of 100 legislative seats up for election, were bracing to act as "watchdogs" over what they fear might be Democratic excesses.

"If they don't want to give us a seat on the 50-yard-line much less let us play in the stadium, we'll be forced to act as the loyal opposition," said Assembly GOP Whip Dixon Arnett of Redwood City.

He predicted Democrats would run through the budget surplus "like a greased pig."

How will the new governor get along with the legislature?

"I expect to agree with Jerry Brown on a wide range of programs ... in the vast majority of instances," said McCarthy, who, as speaker, is the state's most powerful legislator.

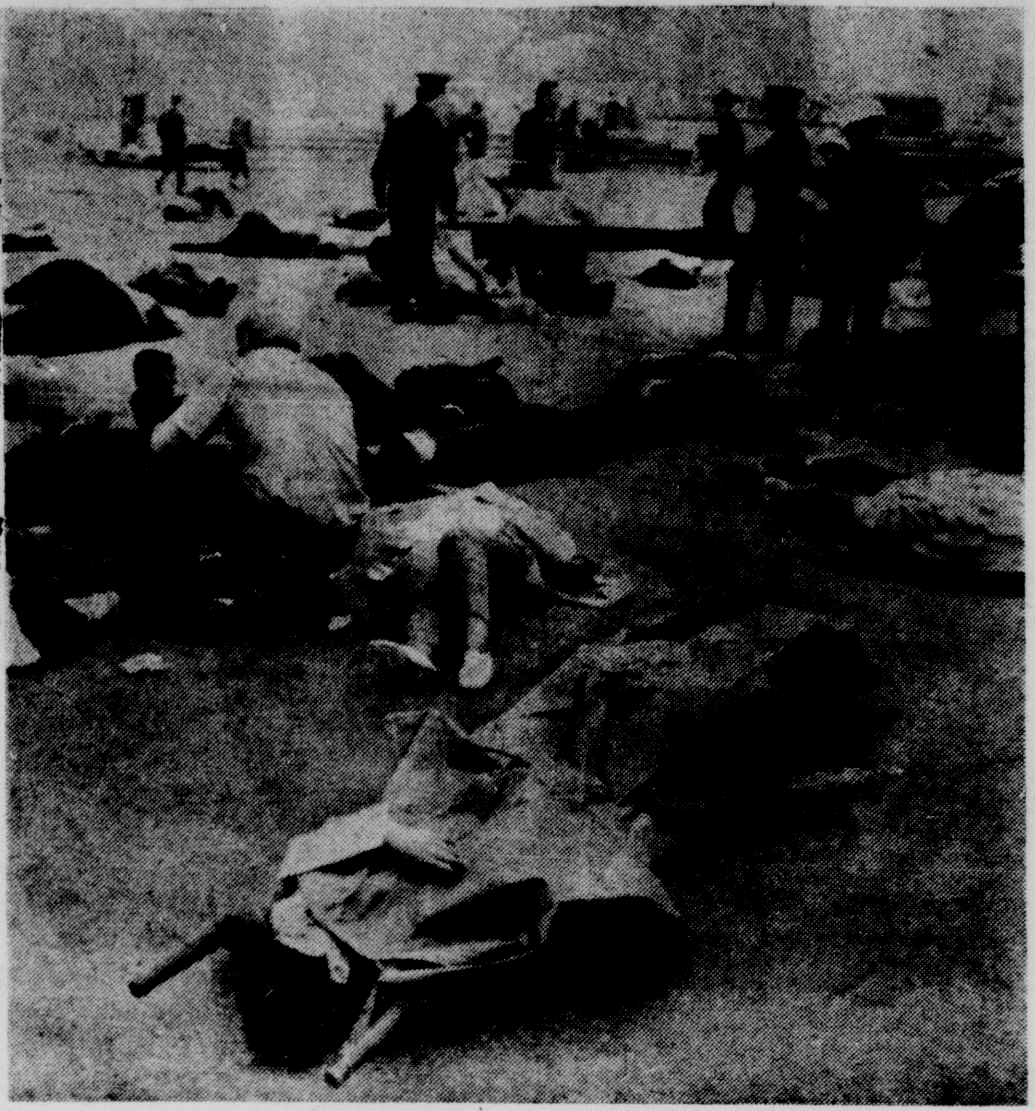
To test emergency services

Mock 'train wreck' drill 'injures' 100



IT'S ONLY A DRILL

At the scene of Saturday's mock train wreck a victim, on the left, is being loaded into an ambulance. In the center, first aid is administered to victims. On the right Ted Abreu winces as Jack Lindstrom applies makeup to simulate a serious burn. Other mock injuries included fractures, back injuries with paralysis, amputation, lacerations and non-injured psychitric shock victims.

Train derailed and 100 people injured in the heart of Pomona Saturday?

No. Not this time. Saturday's disaster was a mock disaster, a training exercise for hospitals and emergency services.

Pitiful victims with realistic-looking wounds whose cries of anguish rent the foggy morning air, were expertly made up and rehearsed amateur actors, playing their roles with gusto.

With a cast of hundreds, the disaster exercise was planned and staged by the Pomona Office of Emergency Services and Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Community participants in the exercise were the police and fire departments, sheriff, coroner, Red Cross and Explorer Boy Scouts of Claremont and Pomona.

The scenerio went as follows: at 8 a.m. disaster victims (student nurses from Mt. San Antonio College) were made up at the heliport, reporting to the Southern Pacific Train depot at 8:45. At 9 the exercise began. All hospitals and agencies were alerted to the disaster.

At 9:30 the first casualties were to be transported to hospitals, but the make-up took longer than expected and the exercise began late. Casa Colina took 15 victims, Garfield Cottage, 15, Park Avenue, 20 and the rest went to Pomona Valley Community Hospital. After emergency treatment those who could be moved were taken to Julene Convalescent Center, Pomona Psychiatric Hospital of Churchman's Center. A few shock victims with no physical injuries went straight to Pomona Psychiatric Hospital.

At the scene of the disaster, first aid was administered by teams of police, fire and Explorer Scouts. Victims lying about on the ground, groaning and moaning in simulated pain, raised their heads and their hands and waved at a passing frieght train. In the engine, and a few minutes later, in the caboose, expressions of shock and dismay could be seen on the faces of the train personnel who had not been told about the mock disaster and found their train hurrying through a disaster scene with cheerful, waving victims scattered about on the ground.

Primary objectives of the exercise were to develop and refine in-hospital and emergency disaster capabilities and to educate the community on the importance of disaster preparedness.

There were a number of problems which had been unforseen. This was the object of the exercise, to be sure that the well laid plans worked in practice. The hope was that now the procedures can be refined further.

One of the problems was with one of the communications posts set up at the scene. The reception was evidently not as good as expected and it was thought that perhaps the heavy fog made some difference. The other communication equipment performed well, giving a good basis of comparison on various types of equipment for emergency use.

Saturday's exercises marked a first for the Pomona area. The four community hospitals had previously participated in disaster exercises but had not actually tested their own facilities and personnel in a simulated major disaster.

Much of the impetus for exercises of this type arose from the 1971 earthquake. Los Angeles hospitals were deluged with patients, inquiries, police and emergeency personnel. Since they were not prepared to cope with a disaster of such proportion, confusion reigned.

Burglaries up alarmingly

Burglaries and thefts climbed sharply in Claremont during July, August, and September, but the police department cleared 54 per cent more cases during that period than a similar period in 1973

Police Chief Charels Lines reported that burglaries rose 20 per cent from 86 to 111, theft was up 35 per cent from 160 to 216, and auto theft had risen 70 per cent from 10 to 17.

Lines broke down the burglaries as 81 residential, 14 commercial, two schools, 13 at the Claremont Colleges, and one auto break-in at the colleges.

Assaults had gone down from 19 to 18 this year, robberies remained the same—four, and a forcible rape was reported during each three-month period.

Lines reported 120 cases were cleared during July, August, and September as against 78 last year. Fifty-nine were cleared by arrest, as against 37 last year.

Although $140,268 worth of property was reported stolen, police recovered $172,009 worth of stolen property the same period.

Most of that was from the June burglary and theft of $150,000 worth of art objects and books taken from the School of Theology in June.

Officers spent 365 man hours in court during July, August and September, 1973, as against 315 man hours this year.

Increased popularity forced move

Stringent bike rules effective Jan. 1

Starting Jan. 1, bikes ridden on the streets will be required to bear certain lights and reflectors.

New safety provisions are necessary because the increased propularity of bike riding has been accompanied by more bike accidents, said Capt. W. C. Jones, area commander of the California Highway Patrol.

So far this year in the local area, there have been 37 bike accidents with 38 persons injured. In one accident, two persons were riding on the same bike.

Equipment required includes a white reflector on the front; a white or yellow reflector on each side, forward of the bike's center (usually a two-way reflector anchored in the spokes); a white or red flector on each side to the rear of the center; and a red reflector to the rear.

In addition, if a bike is to be ridden at night it must be equipped with a white light on the front and visible for 300 feet.

A rider may also equip his bike with a red lamp on the back, visible for 300 feet, he said.

Reading clinic for valley teachers set for Saturday

Foothill Reading Council will hold a "Teacher Made Reading Aids Fair" Saturday from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at Griswold's Inn in Claremont.

Displays will feature reading games, and reading activities; activities for reluctant and skilled readers; learning disability activities; and bi-cultural, bilingual reading activities and materials.

In addition the council will be selling reading task cards, which were made by members of the council.

School districts to be represented at the fair include Upland, Pomona, Fontana, Ontario-Montclair, Chino, Etiwanda; Bonita and Central.

For more information interested persons are asked to call Peggy Howard at 987-5100.

Motorcyclist hurt in fall

A 24-year-old Upland man was reported in good condition today at San Antonio Community Hospital after being injured in a motorcycle accident.

James P. Glaccum of 1312 Primrose St. suffered bruises, abrasions and other injuries when his motorcycle struck a dirt embankment and rolled over on Mt. Baldy Road, near Baldy Village Friday.

Cite 3 cities in drunk driving suit

Three West End cities have been named as defendants in a class action suit seeking recovery of fines paid by alleged drunk drivers whose convictions were overturned.

Chino, Upland and Montclair are named in the suit apparently being filed against a number of Southland cities by two Palo Alto attorneys, Leslie C. Nichols and Rubin Tepper

Eugene Demchuk, city attorney, for Montclair and interim attorney for Chino, said the suit is "vague, inadequate and defective."

He said the suit would not be processed and would be returned to the claimants because "it does not conform to the government code." The suit does not state for what period recovery of fines are requested, or exact amounts sought.

Because of controversy over breathalyzers used in drunk driving investigations by police, and the fact a number of convictions were overturned by the state Supreme Court, the attorneys believe they have reason for a suit, Demchuk said.

"I'm just speculating on that," he added. "The suit is vague."

The suit lists as calimants, Charles Gonzales of Daly City and Sam Berry and Henry Battle, both of Menlo Park, plus "all other similarly situated (persons)."

Convictions of the claimants have been "declared . . . unconstitutional and void," the suit states.

Also, the attorneys said, defendants in the cases have retained money paid by respective claimants, and the defendants "have no lawful right, title or claim to said money."

School chiefs eye state fund plan as salvation

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

Most administrators in the valley's low-wealth districts are looking towards Sacramento with renewed hope.

The state Board of Education is considering a plan to finance education in public schools in California which is built on a flat statewide tax rate. This would go into effect in 1975-76 and reach its objective of equal wealth for all districts by 1979-80.

To impoverished districts such as Pomona, Bonita in La Verne and Ontario-Montclair, administrators are welcoming the plan and rooting for its passage by the legislature. However, one high school district administrator is critical, claiming the plan will not meet the needs of his district.

The plan was proposed to the state board by a blue-ribbon committee appointed by the board.

It urges first that a statewide property tax of $4 per $100 of assessed valuation be levied to replace most local school property taxes over a five-year period.

It is meant to assure that every district has funds to provide a quality-level education by the end of the five-year period. It includes a power equalizing plan to eliminate the revenue-raising advantages of wealthy school districts.

Committee members determined that a quality education in 1975-76 would cost $1,231 per pupil on the elementary level, and $1,409 per pupil at the high school level.

However, it said sufficient revenues probably could not be raised in one year to support that level and proposed to make up the gap in four yearly steps.

The committee estimated the first year's average expenditure would be $1,130 per pupil in elementary schools ($101 below the so-called quality level) and $1,293 in high schools ($116 below level set).

Dr. Garrett C. Nichols, assistant superintendent of business services in the Pomona Unified School District, said "the plan sounds very good.

"It would increase our revenue a considerable amount. Even at $200 per pupil, with our 20,000 average daily attendance (ADA) that would be $4 million."

Pomona now spends $1,075.37 per pupil.

Nichols said that the $4 tax rate would result in a 52 cent per $100 valuation drop in the district tax rate. "This would lift the burden from property owners here," he said.

"This plan is a Robin Hood thing," said Nichols, "take from the rich and give to the poor. It probably will receive the most opposition from wealthy school districts and from farmers, who enjoy low tax rates, but I think it has a good chance of passing."

Nichols said he had been informed by Los Angeles County schools' counsel that high-wealth districts in the county were aware the plan was coming and were prepared to accept it if it would bring programs in low-wealth districts up to their level, and not the reverse.

"This plan certainly would benefit Pomona," said Nichols. Administrators balanced the 1974-75, $25 million budget by using reserves, and estimate a $3 million deficit in 1975-76 unless more state funds are provvided or the tax rate is increased in Pomona. An attempt to increase the rate was defeated Nov. 5.

Supt. James T. Johnson Jr. of Bonita school district said, "anything would help Bonita and the other low-wealth districts." The district is at present spending $914 per pupil, per year with a $3.90 per $100 assessed valuation tax.

The district this month lost a tax override increase election of $60 per pupil and plans to present the proposal to the voters again in March.

"Basically we are in favor of the concept of the new plan," Johnson stated. "But there is a need to broaden the funding from just the property tax."

He believes that while some kind of state property tax, particularly on non-residential property is necessary, some other method of taxation also would be advisable.

"We need some form of funding that would last more than one or two years," he emphasized. Johnson recalled that Senate Bill 90, first considered a panacea for school finance woes, has proved insufficient. "Continuity in finance for at least 10 years is important," he said.

Chaffey school district consists of six high schools in the West End. Although a low-wealth district, the new educational tax plan would not benefit the district, according to Supt. Allan Smith.

"I am in favor of equalizing the districts and in terms of the equalization factor, the plan is good. But in terms of today's inflation the plan is way below the needs of the district," he said.

Chaffey now spends $1,282 per pupil per year and without additional funds will be short in excess of $2½ million by next year, he said. The suggested $1,409 per pupil for grades nine through 12 would not be sufficient considering the inflation rate.

"The public still would be asked to provide additional funds to the local districts in order for them to function," Smith predicted.

Chaffey district plans to ask for a tax override. Its proposition will be submitted to the voters in March and is expected to be adopted by the board early in December. The district lost a tax override election last June.

Claremont Supt. Richard Kirkendall said "this plan encompasses all the elements that I have felt were needed. I endorse it and support it as being a significant answer to school finance probems.

"The important provision is the power equalizing plan and that is the main reason I support it. With power equalization a penny levied in a low wealth district would generate as much money as in a high wealth district. Today this isn't true and the low wealth districts are at a significant disadvantage to the high wealth districts."

Claremont, which will decide by Dec. 2 about a tax override election in the spring, will have a $1,200,000 deficit by next fall if it gets no aid. The district spends $1,119 per pupil with a general purpose tax rate of $4.88 per $100 assessed valuation.

Ontario-Montclair school district last year spent only $887.70 per pupil. "I think the plan is bound to benefit us," George Duerr, deputy superintendent, stated. "We're one of those districts that the Serrano-Priest ruling is all about. The plan has to help districts such as ours."

The general purpose tax rate in the district which has elementary and junior high schools is $2.39 per $100 assessed valuation.

Regimes change, but state doesn't

The sun is setting in California on the Ronald Reagan Administration and will soon rise on the Jerry Brown Administration.

The difference in the posturing of the two administrations promises to be that of day and night, too.

In 1966 Ronald Reagan swept into office over Edmund G. Brown, Sr., the new Governor-elect's father, by a spectacular margin. The Reagan call was for citizen leadership, fiscal economy, squeezing the fat out of government, an end to cronyism and the like.

Edmund G. Brown, Jr., who succeeds Reagan, is not a fiscal conservative by word or deed. Jerry Brown is of a young generation and the style is that of most other young men in their mid 30's.

The change of style in the two administrations won't be confined to age, whatever that is. Reagan battled a hostile legislature almost throughout his eight years in office. Few were the issues the legislative leadership and the Governor joined on the same side. It was partly political, of course, partly philosophical and partly the historic adversary positions of legislative and executive branches of government.

Jerry Brown will have a legislature in friendly hands — friendly certainly in the sense of partisan affiliation — and for a period of time in his administration there shouldn't be too much political infighting between the governor and the legislature. That may come as issues sharpen and personalities clash, but at the outset the new Brown administration should have a most friendly reception for its program when presented to the legislature early next year.

So California's gubernatorial image is to shift from conservative to liberal. How much legislative substance there will be to the image change remains to be seen, but there will be some. A cycle has run its course. Like the eras of Earl Warren, Goodwin Knight and Pat Brown, the Reagan period is in its twilight.

Strangely, as in past changeovers, the state will go along. There will be changes in emphasis and in governmental and business climate. It is the same state, however.

Japan makes, the third world takes

The energetic Japanese, who have been called the "Yankees of the Orient," have been getting the Yankee-go-home treatment in recent years.

Since 1970, writes research economist Masao Sakurai in the Japan Economic Journal, the office of a Japanese enterprise was destroyed and its president killed in a coup d'etat in Cambodia. In Peru, an Isuzu Motors subsidiary was ordered to withdraw and the affiliates of Taiyo Fishery Co. and Mitsui & Co. were nationalized. In Indonesia, the branches of the Toyota Motor Co., Nippon Paint Co. and Honda Motor Co. were burned in anti-Japanese demonstrations.

In Qatar, the Qatar Oil Co. was ordered to liquidate after a demand was raised by local enterprises for participation in its management. In Abu Dhabi, the Abu Dhabi Oil Co. was requested to accept 51 per cent local control. In Kuwait, Arabian Oil Co. was compelled to accept 60 per cent local capital participation, and a similar demand has been made by Saudi Arabia.

In Ethiopia, antigovernment guerrillas destroyed the office of Nippon Mining Co., forcing it to suspend operations. In Zaire, the subsidiaries of Nissan Motor Co. and Toyo Kogyo Co. were taken over. In Thailand, some Japanese companies were requested to withdraw their staff members and families back to Japan.

Such disputes have kept pace with the increasing volume of Japanese investments abroad. As of March, 1974, these exceeded $10 billion. The total is expected to bulge to $46 billion by 1980.

A noteworthy fact, says Sakurai, is that private corporations account for about two-thirds of these investments. This is in striking contrast to the United States, whose far larger overseas investments are government-based to the extent of more than 50 per cent and are protected by various treaties.

Although their losses are indemnified under a special insurance system, Japanese foreign investors are otherwise left completely "naked," says Sakurai.

A number of moves have been made toward multinational agreements to protect overseas investments. The World Bank, for example, is studying a plan to set up an International Investment Insurance Assn.

In the meantime, expropriation or nationalization by the burgeoning recipient nations continues to be the trend.

President Ford's associate counsel, Dudley Chapman, allegedly tried to conceal the fact that a secret White House fund was used to pay government aides to serve as "advance men" during the 1972 campaign.

Chapman informed government auditors that the fund belonged not to the White House but to the Republican National Committee and the Nixon campaign committee.

This has been disputed by the General Accounting Office, which has just concluded a secret investigation. "Contrary to Mr. Chapman's statement," the GAO found the fund "was a White House account".

The failure to disclose the existence of such a political fund in the White House until two years after the campaign period, charged the GAO, "appears to constitute a violation of the act."

The case has been referred to Attorney General William Saxbe for action.

The secret fund, listed on the books as "The White House Subsidiary Account," was opened in October 1970. Since 1971, its treasurer has been Wilbur Jenkins, the chief White House administrative officer, a career employe, who confessed to GAO accountants that he "made bank deposits for the subsidiary account and signed the checks.

But Jenkins apparently was the fall guy for Nixon aides who really controlled the fund. He told the GAO auditors that Bruce Kehrli, then the White House staff secretary and later a minor Watergate figure, "approved and directed all such transactions."

Exactly how the fund was manipulated is still a mystery. It was used to pay the political expenses of Nixon "advance men," including luncheons and cocktail parties that they arranged for political purposes.

We have learned that at least $10,000 in cash was slipped into the fund by Nixon campaign treasurer Hugh Sloan, who delivered the money secretly to Kehrli.

But this didn't cover all the political expenditures, so some of the taxpayers' money apparently was spent on the campaign. After the Watergate case broke, a second secret $5,000 was siphoned from campaign coffers into the fund as "reimbursement to White House — Campaign Expenses."

The existence of the White House fund remained a secret until March 1974, when a cryptic reference to it turned up in the liquidation papers of the Nixon finance committee.

This aroused the interest of the GAO, which got the runaround for months before its auditors finally gained access to the records. They found that the fund, in violation of federal law, had failed to file any campaign statement for more than two years. This forced the White House to submit a belated filing. But even after President Ford's takeover, his associate counsel continued to deny to the GAO that the White House had run the mysterious fund committee.

FOOTNOTE: Chapman disputed the coverup charges, saying, "I don't think the GAO knows what they're talking about." There was no delay in turning over the papers to GAO, he told us. Kehrli, now a Los Angeles construction official, told us the fund was set up to make sure political expenses were not paid for by the taxpayers. He said Nixon-era White House lawyers assured him there was no need to register the fund as a committee.

ELECTION RIGGING?: The crusading attorney who broke up the corrupt former United Mine Workers hierarchy, Joseph Rauh, has taken on a new client.

Representing the underdog, as usual, Rauh is battling to overthrow the leadership of the United Steel Workers' controversial District 31. This is the largest district in the AFL-CIO's largest union.

The district is now in the middle of a rerun of a 1973 election, which was thrown out by the courts after evidence of ballot fraud and election irregularities.

Sam Evett, the hand-picked candidate of the Steel Workers hierarchy, won the 1973 election for district director. But the evidence was strong that Edward Sadlowski, the reform challenger, should have won. A new vote was ordered.

Now Rauh has charged that the Labor Dept., which has always been allied with the old-line union powers, is secretly favoring Evett in many little ways.

In an emotional private appeal to Labor Secretary Peter Brennan, Rauh reminded him of the United Mine Workers case. In 1969, Rauh had warned Brennan's predecessor, George Shultz, to take action to prevent bloodshed.

But Shultz did nothing. Later, dissident candidate Jock Yablonski, his wife and daughter were murdered in their beds by allies of incumbet Tony Boyle.

Any violence in the Steel Workers election, warned Rauh, "will be on your conscience just as Shultz's failure to act will always be on his."

FOOTNOTE: United Steel Workers official Elmer Chatak, now on leave to manage Evett's campaign, denied that the "minor infractions" in the last election affected its outcome. He called Rauh's charges of new campaign irregularities "completely unfounded." The Labor Dept. told us they are working hard to ensure fair elections and are favoring neither candidate.

WATCH ON WASTE: The National Science Foundation has just given out a $28,000 grant titled, "Techniques and Language Development for Human-Computer Interaction in Music Composition and Research." Stripped of the fancy language, the grant will teach computers to read musical notes. Presumably another grant would be needed to teach the computers to play an instrument or sing in a barber shop quartet.

WASHINGTON WHIRL — Top antipoverty officials Bert Gallegos, Louis Ramirez and William Sawyer flew to Seattle recently, first class, at an extra $106 each. The luxury was particularly inappropriate because they were visiting a struggling Indian economic project . . . We recently reported that Rep. John Wydler, R-N.Y., had spent $12,000 of the taxpayers' money to mail out an illegal newsletter to his constituents. After the article appeared, Wydler sent out another mass mailing which also apparently violated the law. The House Mailing Commission, we have learned, will meet this week to consider action on the incidents . . .

A few weeks ago, the FBI rushed into Washington's German Hi-Fi Center and seized several miniature mikes and tape recorder accessories, which had been stocked as incidental items. The raid came after the center's president, Robert Dorsen, remarked on television that the FBI was one of his customers for this equipment. Now the Justice Dept. has quietly dropped the case but has not returned the equipment.

Just in jest

As usual this has been just another day in which we were spoon fed some bad news and some good news by experts whose primary purpose for being it would seem is to keep us utterly confused. And today this is particularly true on the food front.

First, we are informed that the cost of popcorn in our movie theatres could go as high as $1 a bag. — Then, according to the Consumers Union, we should not only check our tuna for mercury but also make sure it doesn't contain rodent hairs, moth wings, and parts of insects and maggots. — Although millions of people are starving throughout the world, the National Marine Fisheries Service tells us that fishermen are throwing billions of pounds of protein-rich fish back into the ocean to die because they are not the kind of fish for which there is a ready market. — And the Oklahoma Cattlemen's Association claims the entire beef cattle industry is on the verge of economic collapse.

But thank goodness all is not lost! To brighten an otherwise frightening day, a high government official informs us that if we bake our own bread it will cost us half as much. — Another government expert says that sunflower oil and sunflower bread may be the magic break-through that is going to save us from starvation. — A cattle raiser contends there is no excuse for high meat costs. Markets could drop at least 30 per cent from their retail prices and still make a profit, he says. — And wonder of all wonders! A couple of scientists announce they have discovered grain alcohol in the Milky Way. Now all we have to do in order to go on a happy binge and drown our sorrows is to find a way to get there.

RAY CROMLEY

Too many straws on camel's back

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — In physics, when a system becomes unbalanced through internal or external forces and an eccentricity or pronounced wobble begins to develop, it is usually a sign the system will break down unless remedies are applied.

Our election system is becoming so erratic it now threatens an eventual breakdown in government.

Item. Statistics indicate growing numbers of voters are deserting the Democratic and Republican parties. But in most races, independents have no part in choosing candidates. Thus, the party base by which nominees are chosen is becoming smaller, convincing many of us none of the men running represent us or our views.

Item. There is evidence small contributions are becoming less important in political campaigns for national office, publicity to the contrary notwithstanding. Incumbents place increasing reliance on donations by special interest groups, further eroding public confidence.

Item. Activist groups labeling themselves public interest but political in everything but name, talk with authority, and wrap themselves self-righteously in the role of judge and jury, but refuse to accept the responsibility of putting up men and women for office. They claim to be above the dirty struggle. But the purity of bystanders is meaningless; we need good men and women as candidates. The irresponsibility of these self-styled "pure" organizations is frequently enormous, as evidenced by a recent press conference organized by one of the more famous. The statements made were, in every respect, the self-serving type familiar to every reporter who has attended political rallies. If the newsmen present had been listening to Defense Secretary James Schlesinger or Secretary of State Henry Kissinger they would have harshly attacked the intriguing mathematics and the clear omissions in the political anlysis presented. But because this was a public interest group allegedly free of bias, most reporters present nodded their heads in mesmoerized agreement, questioning nothing that was said.

The growth of these "nonpolitical" "nonpartisan" groups is resulting in a proliferation of hatchet jobs falsely labeled as research in the public interest. Though these organizations have no public ties with any political party, most are obsessed with one ideology or another and are therefore clearly as partisan, in their own way, as Republicans and Democrats. The candidate not subscribing to their particular ideology is a villain and he has little or no defense.

Item. Increasing numbers of men in public life are being attacked with terrible one-sided persistence. No personal details are spared. Virtues and strengths are ignored. Every mole and defect, imagined or real, is described, frequently with unbelievable distortion. Half truths are reported vigorously — with explanations catching up weeks later. This trend, which began well before Watergate, will convince honorable men and women considering whether to run for office that their reputations will end up in shreds once they throw their hats into the ring. It is essential that we be informed of conflicts of interest and of wrongdoing by candidates and office holders but based on the stories now circulating about candidates we seem to be not after truth, but smear.

In some respects the scenario is similar to that of the French revolution in its later stages of political cannibalism.

Heartline: I am a widow on Champva. Now that I am 65, they tell me at the V.A. Center that since I am eligible for Medicare, I must lose my Champva. Is this true? —B.I.

Answer: This is correct.

Heartline: I am receiving a railroad retirement disability annuity. How much can I make and not lose any benefits? —H.O.

Answer: Your disability annuity is not payable for any month in which you earn over $200, but the withheld payments will be restored if your annual earnings are less than $2,500. However, your earnings may raise a question about your recovery from disability even if they are less than $2,500 a year.

Heartline: Could you explain to me what fully insured and currently insured means under Social Security? —E.T.

Answer: For all types of benefits a worker must have worked under Social Security a certain length of time. Generally all types of benefits are payable when a worker meets this fully insured requirement, whereas some types of survivor benefits may be paid if a worker worked only shortly before death and was currently insured.

Heartline: I am over 65 and self-employed. Do I have to file an income tax return if I make less than $2,800 this year? —A.S.

Answer: Yes. If your net earnigs are over $400 from self-employment, you must file regardless of age.

Heartline: My father-in-law is 84 years old. He is drawing Social Security and he is not a citizen of the U.S. He is from the Philippines and would like to move back. Could he still draw his Social Security there? — B.H.

Answer: Yes, his benefits will be the same if he is a citizen of the Philippines.

Tatooed criminals not often murderers

The criminal least apt to sport a tattoo is the convicted murderer. The felon most likely to be tattooed is the thief. Next most probably tattooed, the armed robber. After that, in order, the rapist, the kidnapper and the criminal convicted of attempted murder. Or so report researchers at the University of Tennessee.

A MAN NAMED Mr. Mood opened a motel in the Blue Ridge Mountains. And he called the place "The Mood." But that's not the point. The point is it may be the only motel in the country that advertises its own theme song. Namely: "I'm in the Mood for Love."

THE NEW SEAGOING supertankers are so long that a lot of the seamen, who sleep in the stern but work up forward, ride to their jobs every day on bicycles.

SHOPPING

Q. "Don't most husbands take their wives with them when shopping for suits?"

A. Not most. But two out of five do so.

THE SOCIAL SECURITY files in New York City contain the case of a little girl who started collecting benefits as a disabled worker at age 3. Before she came down with a serious ailment that disqualified her from the job, she had been employed as a model in TV commercials.

MAILMEN in Egypt complain about biting camels much as mailmen in this country complain about biting dogs . . . TWO OUT OF FIVE college girls wear their hair parted in the center chin-to-shoulder length . . . APPROXIMATELY 95 per cent of South America is closer to Europe than is North America.

STATURE

Was none other than C. H. Brower who said, "A man of stature has no need of status." He is the fellow who also said, "You can't sink someone else's end of the boat and keep your own afloat." And, "Chicken Little acted before her research was completed."

CONTRARY to the general impression, the Negro population of New York City hasn't changed all that much over the last couple of centuries. In 1790, it comprised 19.3 per cent of the citizenry there. In 1970, it stood at about 19 per cent.

IN GAMBLING LINGO, can you identify "the hidden percentage?" It's a psychological characteristic. The Nevada boys count on it, heavily. Average gambler does not tend to be as willing to win as much money as he's willing to lose. In other words, when he wins, he's inclined to take some and run, but when he loses, he's apt to plunge desperately.

ANN LANDERS

Reader can't understand why people monkey around, taunt chimpanzee

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is the world going bonkers or am I getting to be a crochety old woman?

I read recently that psychiatric treatment had been ordered for Jackie, a chimpanzee whose mind became disturbed because so many humans taunted him.

The zoo's curator ordered that the ape be put on tranquilizers several months ago when he began smoking the lighted cigarettes thrown into his cage by ignorant fools. Jackie was then placed in a private cage and the crowd barrier was lengthened to keep the public farther away.

But people continued to throw bottles, stones, fruit, nuts and other objects. Jackie's condition grew worse. Now he is withdrawn, depressed, and under psychiatric treatment.

I cannot for the life of me understand why anyone would get pleasure out of taunting a helpless animal. Please explain. — Disgusted With The Human Race.

Dear Gus: Forgive me for being corny but it takes all kinds of people to make a world. Since a zoo is a public place it attracts every segment of society—ignorant fools as well as animal lovers and decent people. Sorry about what happened to Jackie. It speaks poorly for the human race.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need your help to save my marriage. My wife and I have been sleeping together for four years. When I say sleeping together, I mean that's all we've been doing. There is very little of anything else.

My wife claims she has a mental block against sex and refuses to perform her wifely duties. I keep telling her our marriage is in danger because I need more affection. Last night she suggested that I find a nice girlfriend to "calm me down." I could but I don't want to. I didn't get married to go out and cheat on my wife. The whole idea is repulsive to me.

My wife also has a bad back, which doesn't help matters any. Will you please give me some advice so we can enjoy a healthy marriage? I am 27 and she is 25. Thank you, Ann.—Over-Slept

Dear Mr. O.: Your choice of words gave me a clue. A man who considers marital sex a "wifely duty" needs counseling. And a wife with a "bad back" who encourages her husband to go out and find a girlfriend needs a physical checkup and some mental overhauling. I hope you will go together for joint counseling. And beware of phony counselors. The woods are full of 'em. Check with the American Association for Marriage and Family Counselors,, 225 Yale Avenue, Claremont, California, 91711.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A few days ago I was playing my clarinet in the back yard and this guy who plays the flute came over, so we were having a duet. Two girls we know dropped by and asked if they could be our "audience." We said OK. I got called inside for a few minutes and I gave my clarinet to one of the girls to hold. She knows the value of a musical instrument because she used to play the flute herself.

Well, the other girl, I'll call her Judy, took my clarinet out of her hands and tried to take off the mouthpiece. She broke my reed. It costs 40 cents.

Who do you think ought to pay for the reed, Judy or the girl I handed it to?—In Need of a Reed

Dear Need: The girl who tried to take your clarinet apart should offer to buy you a new reed. But look, kid, it cost you 13 cents to mail this letter and the envelope and paper must have come to at least 2 cents. There's 15 cents right there. For another quarter you can buy a reed yourself, which I suggest you do, rather than get into a hassle with the girls.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Lander's booklet, "Marriage—What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

AT WIT'S END

Plumbing is a trap for family unity

By ERMA BOMBECK

My husband crawled out from under the bathroom sink, rose to his feet, summoned the entire family about him and said, "I suppose you all wonder why I have gathered you here today."

We all nodded soberly.

"I have just cleaned out the trap under this washbowl and I would like to inventory the items I have removed: 14 toothpaste caps, one shampoo cap, a blue baloon, a plastic naval officer, a wine bottle cork, three rubber bands, a dime, and a class ring from a girl's school in Peoria."

"If it's silver, the dime is mine," said my son.

"Don't interrupt . . . a Barbie bra, a pencil stub, a tooth, possibly human, a luggage key, 17 rusted bobby pins and 85 pounds of hair. What are we going to do about it?"

"Are you suggesting a garage sale?" I ventured.

"I am not suggesting a garage sale," he said between clenched teeth. "I am suggesting that this family stop littering the plumbing. Do you know what really aggravates me?"

"I know," said a son raising his hand. "The night we left on 32 lights and no one was home."

"No, it was my feet hanging out the window last summer on our vacation."

"You are all wrong," I said. "It's standing in front of an open refrigerator door like you're waiting for change."

"This is not a game show," said my husband evenly. "This is serious. We are the only family in the block who has a live-in plumber who retired at age 23 to live out the rest of his life in Hilton Head. A week has not gone by that something in this bathroom has not bubbled, hissed, dripped, trickled, or run over. I don't mind admitting I'm not the world's greatest plumber . . . why are you snickering?"

"I'm sorry. It's just that no one reseats a toilet with Play-Doh."

"I do the best I can living with four people who are not ready yet for indoor plumbing. Now, here is the plan. In the future, if you have hair falling out, either place it in the nearest receptacle or braid it back into your original hair. Replace all caps on their original bottles or tubes and report any suspicious gurgling noises your hear immediattely."

"By the way, dad," said our son, "here's a President Ford WIN button that was stopping up the drain in the shower. Why were you wearing a WIN button in the shower?"

I could hardly wait for the answer as my next question was, "Where?"

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Man does not live without sweets

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I went into a department store this week and asked the floorwalker where I would find sugar cubes.

"In the jewelry department, of course," he said. "Where else would we keep precious granules?"

I hate jewelry departments. Jewelry salesmen seem to know instinctively that I'm not the type likely to blow a wad on some exquisite bauble or gewgaw. Consequently, there is a certain aloofness in their attitude and manner.

I stood around several minutes drumming my fingers on the counter tops. Finally one of the salesmen gave a resigned shrug and said, "May I help you, sir?"

"Yes. I would like to see some sugar lumps, please."

The clerk stuck a loupe in his left eye and peered at me disdainfully.

"Sugar cubes, sir?" he said with rising inflection. "Frankly, I doubt you can afford them. The 11 o'clock quotations just arrived and the price has doubled again in the past hour.

"Might I show you some diamonds instead? Or perhaps some nice emeralds, sapphires, rubies or pearls?"

"They wouldn't do," I replied stubbornly. "Some friends of mine are celebrating their sugar wedding anniversary this week, so I need a gift that's appropriate."

"What size gift did you have in mind, sir? One lump or two?"

"I was thinking of something suitable for a pitcher of lemonade."

The salesman lifted an eyebrow and glided over to a wall safe. After fiddling with the knobs, he swung it open and extracted a velvet tray upon which rested at least 50 dazzling white sugar cubes.

I gave a low whistle. "Suffering sucrose!" I gasped. "There must be a king's ransom there."

I knew I was being gauche but I couldn't help myself. The perfectly refined collection simply sent my senses reeling.

As to what happened next I am not entirely sure. All I remember is signing a bunch of forms and telephoning my banker.

When my head cleared, I was walking out of the store with a receipt for 10 matched sugar cubes which even now are being gift-wrapped for delivery on the Dalperdangs' anniversary.

I can hardly wait to see the look on their faces when they open the package.

It's a gesture I'll probably regret when the monthly installments start coming due these next 20 years. But what the heck!

Man does not live by unsweetened lemonade alone.

LAST PLAGUE OF MANKIND

By any name, flu bug means misery

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — It has a lot of different names and comes from many different places but when it hits you the name is the same—misery.

This is the flu, a virus whose changing nature and periodic cycles make it the last great plague of mankind.

The nation is in an interpandemic period right now, which means that the flu bug expected this winter won't be the universal type that hits practically everyone.

But don't get too confident, warned Dr. Edwin D. Kilbourne, chairman of the microbiology department, Mt. Sinai School of Medicine, at City UNIVERSITY, New York.

"Another new virus is expected by the end of the 1970s," Kilbourne told delegates here this week at the annual meeting of the Council for the Advancement of Science Writing, comprised of science writers from throughout the country and foreign lands.

The flu that has swept the country in 10-year cycles since the early 1900s is made up of new and unknown viruses, and each time it strikes, medical science has to develop new vaccines to contain it, said Kilbourne.

The problem is that it's impossible to pre-develop a vaccine until the exact type of virus is identified which doesn't occur until persons start feeling the miseries symptomatic of the disease.

In the flu eipidemic of 1918, when thousands died, they expired from a secondary cause, pneumonia, primarily because medical science did not have enough knowledge of the disease to develop methods to fight it, he said.

"For the past 30 years, we've had effective vaccines but we still have problems with vaccines."

From 1918, the flu scourge was pandemic again in 1929, 1940, 1950 and in the early 60s. Whatever the bug, it still has oriental titles—Asian flu, Hong Kong flu—mainly because most of the flu viruses eminate from Asia. The reasons are still unknown, said Kilbourne.

He said certain domestic animals, such as horses and swine and fowls such as turkeys, chickens and ducks have identifiable flu viruses of their own but there is no natural transmission to man.

"However, it's possible that a genetic inter-action can occur which would produce viruses that would affect humans."

Medical science is working on new approaches for combatting the virus microbe including genetic tailoring of vaccine viruses, induction of local immunity within the body, anticipatory selection of various mutants, and standardization and increase in antigens.

"The best immunity is by natural infection," said Kilbourne, which means, in essence, the body can throw it off once it has developed it's own system.

While science is working on the problem, Kilbourne warned to prepare for another 10-year cycle for one more decade.

For Monday, Nov. 18

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Resistance you'll run into will be caused by your initial appraisal of the situation from a selfish viewpoint. Broaden your outlook.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Think over what you say to others very carefully or something will slip out that you'll have difficulty retracting.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something you're now involved in calls for more resources than you have at your disposal. A helpful ally is needed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A situation that you're anticipating negatively is going to turn out far more pleasantly than you think.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A responsibility that presently confronts you will pass from your hands temporarily. Later, however, it will stymie you again.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your views are now in opposition to some friends of yours. In order to placate everyone, a compromise is called for.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A way will be found to get something you've wanted. It's not for you alone but is to be shared with others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll be able to put to use for your own benefit a lesson you've gained from a painful past experience.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A situation that appears to be unprofitable has more merit to it than shown on the surface. Dig a little deeper.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you run into opposition today, don't meet it head-on. You'll gain your ends if you behave in a tactful manner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your first tendency today is to do things the hard way. Be more imaginative. Look for paths or less resistance.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't let your pleasurable interests command time and attention that you should be giving to more serious matters.

Your Brithday Nov. 18

Patience and determination are called for this year in order to realize all the rewards you'll be capable of achieving. Handle minor setbacks in stride.

Cop plays vice baron to nab corrupt officials

NEW YORK (UPI) — So this individual person, of which one does not ever call him slender, he ups to Petey Johns and he is saying to him, says he with a smile resplendent, "Call me Bill. I'm the bagman."

That's how a Damon Runyon character might have described the start of the saga of Police Sgt. Edward M. Caffrey, who went undercover to become coowner of a Times Square massage parlor that served as a house of prostitution.

Caffrey, whose gravelly voice, stocky build and salt and pepper hair fit the Runyonesque mold, said he officiated at a baby shower for a pregnant prostitute, met a building inspector who composed odes to his own corruption and exposed part of the seedy web of payoffs and kickbacks that has enveloped midtown New York.

Caffrey's work resulted Thursday in indictments against the co-owner of the parlor, the poetic building inspector and a corrupt police officer.

Sporting a beard, a thick New York accent and the alias "Peter Johns," Caffrey posed as an ex-convict to filter into the night life scene.

There he met Mike Foglio, the indictments said, who was looking for a partner to buy into a massage parlor called the "Rap Studio."

Caffrey put up a $2,500 down payment and together with Foglio, they paid the total $20,000 purchase price at the rate of $150 a day from profits at the parlor.

"It was actually a house of prostitution," Caffrey said, employing five to seven girls.

In September, Caffrey said, while the parlor was being refurbished, a short, pudgy man entered, and "He wasn't at all bashful. 'Call me Bill. I'm the bagman,' he said with a smile."

The man identified in the indictments as William Hobson, a building inspector for the city's Housing and Development Administration and a member of the mayor's Midtown Task Force to clean up Times Square.

Hobson "demanded an initial payment of $250 and $100 a month later," a spokesman said.

The indictments charged that at least one $50 payoff was made to Hobson, the author of a parody on Robert W. Service's poem "The Face on the Barroom Floor."

The poem as recited by Investigations Commissioner Nicholas Scoppetta ended "He then went to his pocket and a roll he then withdrew; Of brand new 20-dollar bills and he offered me a few."

The indictments also charged that payoffs totaling $300 were made to Officer Herbert W. Engelhardt, a member of the detail known in police parlance as the "pimp posse."

So good was Caffrey's act, a spokesman said, that he was arrested three times by honest officers on various charges, all of which were dismissed.

Caffrey said he made about a $10,000 profit in the operation. It was donated to the police widow's pension fund.

NOBUSUKE KISHI

. . . to Nobusuke Kishi?

TOKYO (UPI) — Nobusuke Kishi wanted to leave his mark as the first statesman to invite an American President in office to Japan. As premier in 1960, he found President Dwight D. Eisenhower willing to accept. But bloody anti-American riots prevented the visit.

Demonstrators stormed Parliament compounds. Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, was mobbed at the airport when he arrived to make arrangements. Kishi, who had ignored newspaper warnings against the Eisenhower trip, finally asked Eisenhower to cancel and then resigned in disgrace.

Kishi, now 78, looks to the scheduled visit of President Ford with mixed feelings. Premier Kakuei Tanaka now will be listed as the first to play host to a U.S. President in office.

Kishi, since his resignation, has kept his Parliament seat. He has been at odds with Tanaka and was particularly bitter when Tanaka went to Peking and normalized relations with China at the expense of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist China. Some politicians who believe Tanaka may be on his way out have forecast that Kishi could wield influence if a man close to him succeeds to the office.

"There will be some demonstrations by leftists against President Ford's visit," Kishi says. But they will be entirely different from the heated ones in 1960. Those planned against Ford definitely will not be that intense.

. . . to William E. Miller?

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (UPI)—William E. who? . . .

Ten years ago, when he made a campaign speech at an eastern university, a big banner greeted him: "Here's riddle, it's a diller —who the hell is William Miller?"

William E. Miller, a seven-term New York congressman, was running for Vice President of the United States. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate, had plucked him from relative obscurity as his 1964 running mate.

President Lyndon Johnson and Hubert Humphrey won in a landslide. Miller returned to this community, where he still lives, and to his Buffalo, N.Y., law practice. He became chairman of the Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority but resigned this spring from the $30,000 post.

"I'm practicing law and serve on two bank boards," he said. "I play golf and play cards at the club. I'm completely out of politics, and I like it this way. Gives me time with my wife and children."

Miller says he has no regrets about running but he adds half jokingly: "I learned that if you're truthful and forthright in politics you can't win."

"But I enjoyed campaigning," he adds, "and I enjoyed meeting people, and I made a lot of friends I still have. I admired Senator Goldwater. I still do. And I feel he would have made a good president."

He said plans are underway for a Goldwater-Miller ticket reunion in Washington in December.

Pioneer nears Jupiter flyby

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — Pioneer 11 sped within 11 million miles of Jupiter Thursday with all systems "working perfectly," scientists reported.

The spacecraft, already inside the orbit of the gaseous Jupiter's four outer moons, is heading for a Dec. 2 flyby of the brightly banded planet.

Pioneer 11 has already begun to return pictures. A colorful miniature Jupiter now occupies about one inch on a 21-inch television screen at NASA's Ames Research Center, which operates the spacecraft.

There's trouble in River City, USA

★ MOOD OF AMERICA ★

MASON CITY, Iowa (UPI) — There's trouble right here in River City. It isn't just Watergate, which is still on a lot of people's minds, but about how they're tearing down a local train depot.

In neighboring South Dakota, the fencepost talk about politics often turns to the early frost that killed almost everything that managed to survive the summer drought, especially the corn and soybean crops.

In the vast, lonely stretches of the upper Middle West, scores of towns have lost passenger trains that once were their main link with the world beyond. It is more a symbolic loss than anything else, but a loss nevertheless.

In Mason City, Meredith Willson's hometown immortalized as River City in "The Music Man," the Rock Island line's depot was torn down recently for lack of use, and the Milwaukee Road depot stands idle.

In Rochester, Minn., home of the Mayo Clinic, some entrepreneurs banded together several years ago to convert the Chicago & North Western depot into a restaurant, where a couple can dine in one of several passenger coaches still on the tracks and dance alongside an old steam locomotive.

A coast-to-coast vacation left this reporter with an impression many Americans this year are concerned mostly with the ordinary stuff of life—weather, crops, weddings, deaths, what's different in town.

This seemed true in suburban Chicago and San Diego, Tucson, Ariz., and Hubert Humphrey's little hometown of Doland, S.D.

And yet, never far from the surface, there was a hardness of opinion about Watergate and the right or wrong of Richard M. Nixon and his pardon by President Ford. No matter where they stand, the people are unequivocal and vocal in their opinions.

In Pierre, S.D., a middle-aged woman emerged from First Methodist Church on a sunny Sunday noon and made a disparaging remark about Nixon to a friend. "What DID he do?" the other woman asked. When the first didn't have a quick reply, she repeated, "What DID he do?"

One evening in Prairie Village, Kan., an upper-middle class suburb of Kansas City, a barechested resident bit into a prime steak he had just forked off the charcoal grill on his patio.

"What you reporters in the East have to realize is that you just don't understand how people think back here," he said as he chewed.

Once staunchly pro-Nixon, he felt betrayed when Nixon resigned and angered when Ford granted the pardon. Now, he is fed up with all Washington politicians.

The drought withered grain from Kansas to Minnesota during the summer. Then a Labor Day frost, followed by premature killing frosts later in September, browned corn and beans before the kernels reached full maturity.

Some farmers will be hurting for feed this winter. Others were more lucky or farsighted.

P.C. Hamilton, an aggressive, hard-driving rancher near Pierre, S.D., irrigated his corn out of the Missouri River and it grew Iowa-size. The frost didn't hurt him because he chopped the corn and put it in huge flat silos.

Legislation in Congress that is intended to preserve old train depots, too late in some localities to save their landmarks, is part of the nostalgia kick of the 1970s that has reached into the hinterlands.

Record crowds attending state fairs in St. Paul, Minn., and Huron, S.D., reveled in the sideshows and rides, the oldfashioned, beribboned exhibits of baby beef and farm equipment, strawberry preserves and dried flowers, school children's posters and penmanship.

In Rochester, Minn., the Mayo Clinic is adding a huge new psychiatric institute to its complex. Urban renewal in Minneapolis and Wichita, Kan., has produced striking, esthetically designed new city cores.

In Mason City, the banks of Lime Creek and Willow Creek are still cruddy and cluttered. Folks are talking about doing something to clean them up, and to revitalize sagging Federal Avenue, the main drag.

In Nora Springs, Iowa, 10 miles east of Mason City, the talk of the neighborhood is a religious revival among the 200 youngsters in the local high school. Some of them, barely of in their teens, have spread throughout the area holding worship services, without prompting from parents or churches.

But most of the crops are good, especially around the tiny hamlet of Portland, Iowa, midway between Mason City and Nora Springs.

People hereabouts are starting to say that maybe things won't be so bad after all.

Sign offering killer reward is taken down

CARY, N.C. (UPI) — Signs offering a $500 reward to anyone killing a burglar inside South Hills Shopping Center here have been taken down.

"I was getting too much controversy, too much sensationalism," said shopping center owner Wavid J. Martin.

Martin erected the signs, which also offered $200 for burglars brought in alive, at each end of the mall earlier in the week in an effort to end a rash of burglaries.

Stores in the mall have been burglarized five times since July. Similar signs at a service station he owns had ended burglaries there about eight years ago, Martin said.

Police Chief J.W. Boles and other officials had warned that anyone who shot a burglar could face murder charges or lawsuits.

"I'll leave it up to the Cary police," Martin said.

Consumers seek middle man action

By MICHAEL J. CONLON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If there is a "middle man" in the system which is bringing despair to farmers and high meat prices to consumers, it probably is the system itself.

The supermarket industry and the big processors contend it's the price everyone has to pay for modern, high-volume stores and the conveniences they bring.

But some consumer groups are suspicious of that argument, believing the real answer is a more vigorous antitrust approach on the part of government.

"It's ridiculous when farmers are selling calves for $10 or $13 each when it would cost them that much to buy, feed or transport them," said one researcher at the Agriculture Accountability Project, a private consumer group. "Yet you go into a supermarket and try to buy calves or veal and it's not 10 or 15 cents a pound, which is what that price averages out to.

"The real answer is to enforce the antitrust laws of this country so that the supermarkets and the giant processors have to pay a fair price to the farmer and pass on to the consumer the cheap prices they've been paying," he added.

Both that group and the Consumer Federation of America, the nation's largest consumer group, feel President Ford's recent pledge to hold down beef imports is meaningless, since it will have little impact on meat counter prices. Most imported beef, they argue, winds up in hamburger, pet food or other places where it is not likely to make that much of a dent in the average budget.

There is evidence the government is devoting more and more of its resources to antitrust enforcement; but the market system is well established and the legal route is such a slow one that neither farmer nor consumer can expect to see much change very soon.

Before we leave the subject of food, it may be of some interest, somewhere, that the Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp. has presented its first award for the cleanest Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant in America. The winner was Edwin Pate of Laurinburg, N.C., who holds forth under the Col. Sanders sign at Lumberton, N.C.

If you're in the market for a pickup truck, camper van or other light truck, you might want to take a look at the government's latest miles-per-gallon tests on such vehicles.

Topping the list is a Chevrolet Vega panel truck, getting 22 miles to the gallon in the city and 31 on the road.

The Inflation Fighter

One of the best ways to keep food bills down is to avoid impulse shopping. First check out ads, then plan menus around the best buys — this especially makes a difference with meat, poultry and seafood. Fill out the list with other necessary items.

Try to stick to it. It isn't always easy when you pass about 250 items a minute. But impulse purchases can amount to one-half of the average shopping bill.

Also compare prices for the items on your list. Surveys show that six out of 10 shoppers don't bother, even though unit-pricing makes it easy for even the mathematically inept.

Figuring the cost of different meats isn't as simple as looking at the price tag, unfortunately. Learn to figure the cost per serving of cooked meat, instead of the price per pound.

The amount of bone, fat and waste in a piece of meat makes a difference in how much meat there is to serve.

A piece of lean, boneless meat, which might be more expensive in the store, may really be more economical.

In general, buying the best quality you can afford is a wise decision for items you expect to use often or keep for many years. But lower-quality, less-expensive items make more sense if you plan infrequent or short-term use.

Of course, you can't depend upon the higher-priced item being better quality. You must consider workmanship, design, style and durability in relation to price. Shop around until you are aware of the various features available, and the prices they command.

There's magic in knowing "when" to do something, as well as "how" to do it. If you have a flexible work schedule, try to avoid doing errands when everyone else is — at the lunch hour and right after work. Take your lunch early or late and avoid the lines. It also helps break the monotony of a too-regular work schedule.

Seasonal shopping is another case where knowing "when" pays. Buy fresh fruit and vegetables in season, take your vacation out of season, buy home furnishings in February and August, and look for next year's holiday decorations immediately after this year's festivities.

When was the last time you cleaned out all the extras in your car trunk or back seat? Do you really plan to carry that outboard motor around until next summer?

Remove all but essential safety gear from your trunk. Excess baggage costs you a one per cent increase in gasoline cost for each 50 pounds.

Anything that adds to friction or air resistance increases fuel consumption. Snow tires and tires with studs reduce mileage. And gravel roads may be more scenic, but they also reduce fuel economy by 35 per cent compared with smooth, paved surfaces.

Judi travels with custom $5,000 doll house

NEW YORK (UPI) — Judi Hampton is an active young New Yorker, a Columbia University graduate, a student of modern dance who also is working toward a Black Belt in Judo. She has a $5,000 custom-made doll house.

The doll-house is not a hobby, however, but part of Judi's job as a consumer affairs advisor for Mobil Oil Corp. whose latest assignment is taking her around the country advising consumers on "house winterizing."

Heat saving measures, always a timely topic in terms of economy, became urgent with the fuel shortage last winter, and wise householders have been concentrating since on energy saving.

Judi Hampton, who spent several weeks "in the field" learning what the experts recommend, says her suggestions on conservation could cut fuel bills by half. Using her special doll house to illustrate, she makes the following recommendations:

Insulate your house properly, and save up to 30 per cent on heating bills.

Get that burner tuned. Upgrading the efficiency of burner and boiler or furnace may save up to 25 per cent of fuel bill.

Lower the thermostat just 6 degrees, and save up to 20 per cent.

Repair leaky faucets. A leak of one drop per second adds up to 650 gallons a year. That's a lot of money down the drain— for water and the energy to heat it if it's a hot water leak.

Take showers instead of baths. They use less water. A fine spray head uses less than a coarse spray.

Unless you have a large family, keep your water heater set at 140 degrees Fahrenheit. This is an adequate water temperature for a normal house with a dishwasher. For every 10 degrees the temperature is raised above 140 degrees, hot water costs increase by 3 per cent.

Run dishwasher and washing machine only when you have a full load. A smaller load requires just as much hot water and electricity.

Be sure major appliances—dishwasher, clothes washer and dryer, refrigerator-freezer, stove—are operating at maximum efficiency.

Other easy but often overlooked ways to conserve include closing house doors promptly to keep heat inside, and trying to keep children from running in and out. Some experts estimate fuel bills are three per cent higher for each child in the family.

Don't allow rugs, draperies or furniture to block heat outlets.

Don't be a thermostat fiddler. Switching room temperatures back and forth wastes fuel.

Close fireplace dampers when not in use.

Unplug instant-on television sets when not in use. When plugged in, a small amount of current is being used continuously.

Steam engine maker eyes Detroit battle

By EDWARD A. FULTON

DALLAS (UPI) — Leonard Keller says he would like to put Detroit out of business, and he and a Japanese businessman have taken a first step in that direction.

Keller, scientist, inventor, businessman and president of the Keller Corp. in Dallas, invented the KROV expander, a component of a Rankine-cycle engine —in simple terms, a steam engine. And he has contracted with Sung Baik Kim of New York and Asia to put it on the world market through his manufacturing plants in Japan and Taiwan.

"We'll try to put Detroit out of business if we can," Keller said. "I feel that we are on the threshold. We offered the engine to Ford, Chrysler, General Motors, and they said they didn't want it. American Motors was the only one that was a little interested, but they haven't made a decision yet.

"The reaction from most of them was the same. They say they won't build it unless public opinion demands a steam car or unless Japanese imports begin to present economic disaster."

Keller said he sold Asian rights to the steam engine to Sung Baik Kim for $1, primarily because the Asian was willing to spend whatever was necessary to produce prototype motors for cars, generators, golf carts, vacuum pumps, compressors, lawn mowers, whatever, an expenditure of an estimated $1 million in six months. Keller said the first engine —to be a replacement item for Japanese taxi internal combustion engines —should be on the market by the first of next year.

Energy

Instead of the $1 million licensing fee Keller had imagined for his machine, his corporation will receive its money through royalties on each engine sold.

Sung Baik Kim was given the right to license any manufacturer in Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, China and Southeast Asia to build the machines, but Keller Corporation retained the right to license Toyota and Nissan companies in Tokyo.

Under the contract, a separate corporation was established between the two for marketing of the engines in the United States.

A key point in the contract, Keller said, was that Sun Baik Kim must give the Keller Corporation one of each machine developed for a separate use, and Keller can then use that prototype to sell the system in the United States.

The applications of the machine are wide, and its superiority to an internal combustion engine is clear, at least to those close to its development.

"The first engine will be a total replacement unit for the Japanese taxi industry," Keller said. "When their current engine wears out, they can replace it with this engine and cut their operating costs in half. That's why we waived all license fees: to get this machine on the world market."

Keller said a golf cart likely would be the next key development, for use in the United States as a golf cart and in Asia as a personnel carrier for industry. Compressors, vacuum pumps and generators likely would follow.

"Consider this," Keller said. "The generator would have a low, low operating cost in generating all of the power for a home, an office, apartments a shopping center and industry. It runs on kerosene, diesel, all of those fuels.

"This opens the way for development of a total energy package that can replace public utilities. This machine could form the basis for a solar energy package, and I expect the early customers will be hotels, motels, factories."

The KROV—Keller Roto-Oscillating Vane machine —is the basis for the Rankine-cycle engine. At the beginning of the process, fuel is burned to generate heat, a fluid is turned into gas (steam if the fluid is water) and then the steam is forced through the KROV where it expands rapidly, pushing a turning wheel and producing power. The fluid is recycled through the engine, which is self-contained, requiring virtually no lubrication. It is uniformly smaller than the internal combustion engine.

Tomorrow's freeways may need traffic lights

By ALICE Z. CUNEO

MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI) — The freeway of tomorrow may be the freeway of yesterday with a traffic light added at the entrance ramp.

Stanford Research Institute analysts believe inflated highway construction costs, coupled with demands for an end to the air polluting, fuel-wasting traffic jam, will force state governments to make more efficient use of the roadways they already have.

"It may cost several million dollars for a mile of highway construction in urban areas," said researcher Dale Masher, "while often the total cost for an electronic control system is less than $1 million."

Masher is conducting a $200,000 study on contract from the National Cooperative Highway Research Panel in an effort to determine the most effective use of traffic signals and electronic monitors on highway ramps.

"Basically, in the more populated states, more people want to use the highway than the system can handle," Masher said. "Highway officials have to decide where the congestion is going to be —on the highway or on the city streets."

In New York City, Masher said, officials have decided to let the freeways "breakdown" rather than let the cars pile up on neighborhood streets. "But in Minneapolis, there is pretty good car storage on highway ramps and the signals have had fantastic results," Masher said.

"Before the ramp light system was installed in Minneapolis, you had one accident a day, but now there is only one or two a month," Masher said. In addition to the safety value of accident reduction, Masher notes that any time there is an accident on a highway, with motorists slamming on their brakes and with the danger of multiple-car collisions.

"And once you have an accident on the freeway, it really gets tied up because everyone slows down to take a look."

Masher believes that even though there is a wait on the freeway ramp, there is an overall savings in fuel and air pollution costs because cars make better use of their time on the road. One ramp control project in Los Angeles is saving 1,000 vehicle hours a day, he said.

Masher recently surveyed highway departments in the 50 states and discovered that most states want high-occupancy vehicles, such as buses and car pools, to receive preferential treatment on the highway ramp.

Mexicans (and tourists) face stiff gas hike

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Despite the recent hurrah over huge new oil discoveries, Mexican drivers face the sudden prospect of paying much higher prices for gasoline.

The man-in-the-street reaction is to ask why, in the midst of plenty, is the price of gasoline going up?

With the proposed 30-cents per gallon tax on top grade fuel, the price of premium gasoline will increase next year to nearly $1 per gallon. Current prices are about 59 cents a gallon for premium and 41 cents for regular.

The explanation, as given to congress by Treasury Secretary Jose Lopez Portillo, has several aspects.

One is that the tax on gas, as well as a wide range of other taxes planned for 1975, will provide close to $3 billion in revenue. Of that amount, about $640 million would come from the gasoline tax.

Another is that Mexico apparently wants to slow down the consumption of its petroleum now, rather than wait to put the brakes on later. The reason for slowing down consumption presumably is two-fold.

Lopez Portillo said the oil belongs to future generations as well as the present generation which he said "has no right to use it unwisely."

Although he did not specifically say so, by slowing down home consumption Mexico ought to be in a better position to export more and thus reap greater monetary income from abroad.

Authoritative but unofficial estimates place Mexico's probable trade deficit for 1974 at $2.5 billion, an increase of $1 billion over 1973.

In his explanation to congress on why President Luis Echeverria's government wants the new taxes, Lopez Portillo revealed that if Mexico had not made its new oil strike, expenditures abroad—presumably for petroleum imports—might even have caused a devaluation of the Mexican peso, which has stood at 12.50 to the dollar since 1954.

He told the Chamber of Deputies that the oil find "saved this country from the sacrifice of $800 million which would have gone abroad, thus seriously compromising the parity of the peso."

But the Treasury Secretary's explanations have not been heard with great sympathy by many Mexicans.

In a local newspaper cartoon a frightened man, representing the average Mexican, is shown tied to a railroad track as a train approaches at top speed. The train is labeled "gasoline tax." And the man, his hair standing on end, is screaming: "Will somebody save me?"

At the moment, the answer to that question seems to be, "No." Congress is expected to approve the whole package of taxes including a 50 per cent increase on high-bracket salaries and a 15 per cent restaurant tax.

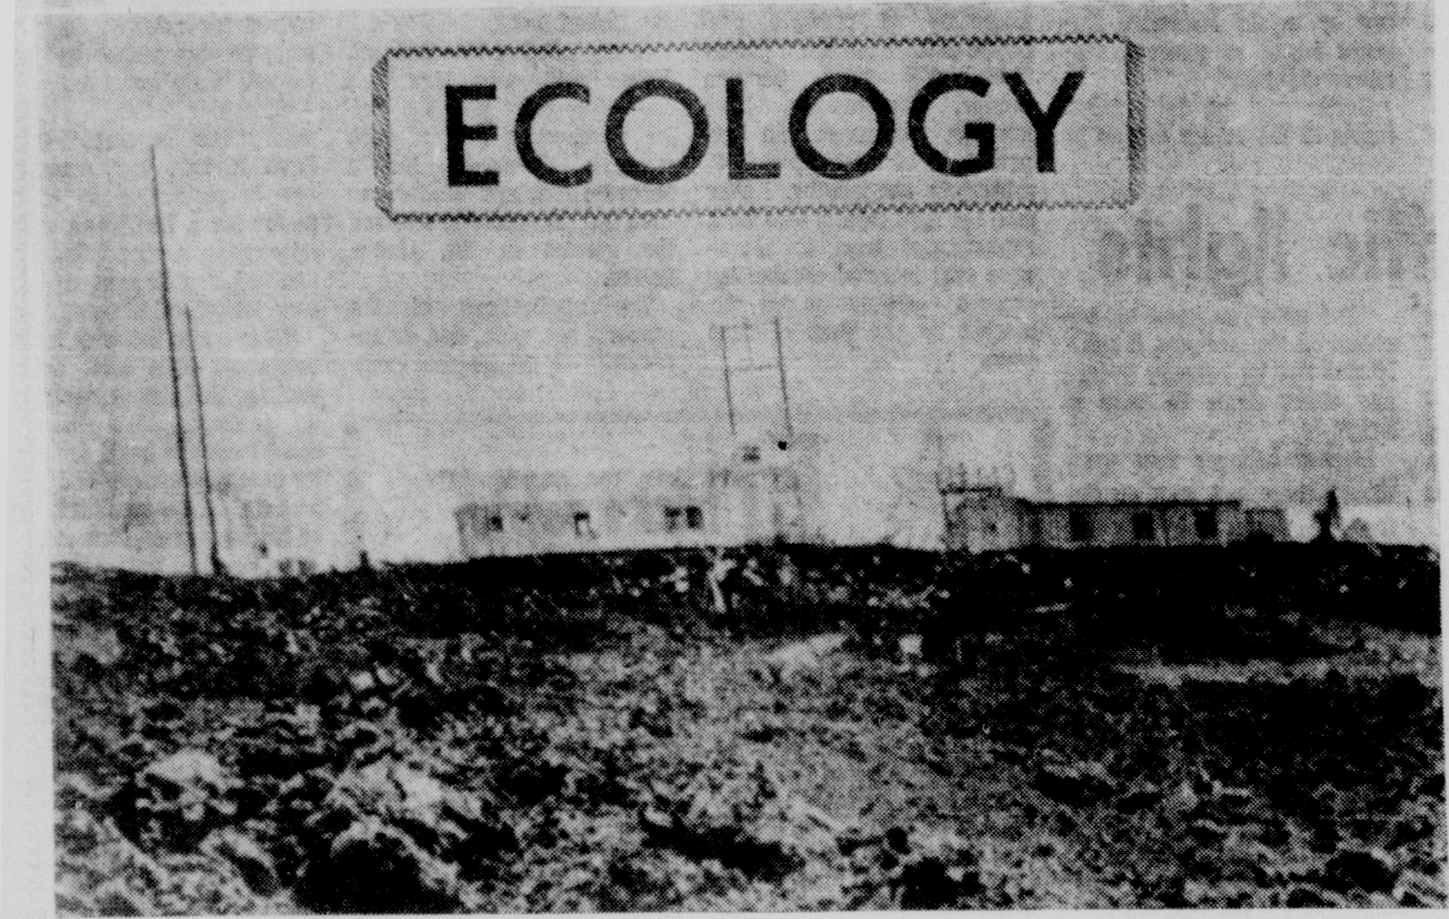
Global pollution watch

Air early warning system



GLOBAL POLLUTION — Monitoring station is maintained by a group of scientists atop this moon-like volcano in Hawaii at the 11,150-foot level. Global climate and pollution are checked constantly.

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD

HILO, Hawaii (UPI) — A group of scientists, pollution watchdogs for the world, monitor the air daily to make sure pollutants in the atmosphere do not threaten human survival.

The Mauna Loa Observatory on the moon-like surface of a volcanic peak continually checks the air at the 11,500-foot level to measure changes in the atmosphere and global climate.

Scientists hope the monitoring program will help identify atmospheric trends before they result in possibly dangerous climatic changes.

Dr. Ronald Fegley, director of the observatory, said the staff of 10 scientists is "interested in finding out what is happening to the global climate as a whole, not just near one industrialized city."

"There have been so many theories about what man may be doing to the environment," Fegley said. "We want to find out just what is happening."

In order to assure precise measurements, Fegley explained that the observatory had to be located in an area of clean air with no nearby sources of pollution. The island of Hawaii, with its vast mountainous areas, small population, little industrialization and thousands of miles from any large, populated land masses, fit the bill perfectly.

"Since the air is fairly clean and stable," Fegley said, "we can pick up long-term changes in the atmosphere that result from man's activities and natural events.

"If we can pick up dangerous situations soon enough, there's the possibility something can be done."

The Mauna Loa Observatory, operated by the U.S. Department of Commerce's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) is the oldest and most sophisticated of four observatories operated by NOAA. The other stations are at the South Pole, Alaska and in American Samoa.

The Mauna Loa Observatory, first to monitor a trend of increasing carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, found concentrations have increased from 312 to 322 parts per million since 1957. Fegley anticipates that by the year 2000 a concentration of 380 parts per million will be reached.

"We don't know yet whether this would be dangerous, or what effect it would have on climate at all," he said. "But we're trying to find out."

"We believe that the increase in carbon dioxide has been caused by increasing burning of fossil fuels by industrialized nations," the California physicist said.

"But within the last few months the increase has been more rapid than can be accounted for by only the fossil fuels. One possibility is there may be some carbon dioxide coming out of the oceans through evaporation."

Fegley emphasized that "nothing has been discovered since the observatory started in 1955 to cause alarm." But he noted that the effects of increasing carbon dioxide is under debate in scientific circles.

"There is some fear that more carbon dioxide in the atmosphere could cause a greenhouse effect where the atmosphere would hold more heat and warm the surface," he said.

"If this happened, it could cause major problems such as melting of the polar ice caps. But this is only a theory. No one knows what would happen or how much the concentration of carbon dioxide would have to be to cause such a change."

The observatory also monitors dust, water vapor, carbon monoxide and other natural and manmade substances.

"When there was a large volcanic eruption on the island of Bali in Indonesia in the 1960s so much dust was emitted into the atmosphere that solar radiation was reduced for about five years," Fegley said.

A great increase in the amount of dust in the atmosphere could possibly block out sunlight and cause a cooling of the surface, Fegley noted.

Fegley is particularly proud that Mauna Loa's techniques have become so respected that scientists from all over the world are using the observatory as a model for others. He said scientists from Russia, Japan, Australia and New Zealand have indicated an interest in starting similar monitoring programs.

New food from old in San Francisco

By JAMES O. CLIFFORD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Vacant city lots in San Francisco are being turned into small vegetable farms in a project designed not only to fight inflation but to cut down the mountains of garbage dumped every day.

The plots of land scattered throughout the city have produced corn, carrots, spinach, zucchini and just about any crop you can name.

And it's all free.

The city provides the land, seed, tools, water and compost, said Brian Fewer of the landscaping division of the San Francisco Department of Public Works. All the citizen has to do is come up with the time and muscle.

Fewer said the program, started in 1973, has grown to 27 gardens with six more in the planning stages.

"We even have one group of youngsters that hopes to take over an abandoned dairy and turn it into a farm, complete with animals," he said.

The gardens, which cover a total of about 12 acres, are tended by persons of all ages, from school children to senior citizens. One, in the south of Market area, is farmed mainly by elderly Chinese who wear coolie hats and carry jars of water suspended from sticks on their shoulders.

"Some of the gardens are ornamental with beautiful flowers but most by far are used for growing vegetables, although we also supplied 100 fruit trees," Fewer said.

The city started the program as a pilot project to determine uses for the solid wastes that are carted to the dumps each day.

"We use just about everything for the compost," Fewer said. "Sludge from sewage, sawdust brush clipping, coffee grounds and even spoiled cucumbers."

About 2,000 cubic yards of compost have been used so far on the gardens. That's hardly significant compared to the tons taken to the city dumps.

Fewer is quick to add that this is a pilot project with only a $17,000 budget that has shown the people do have an interest in gardening.

"Can you imagine what would happen if we let private home owners take away all the compost they wanted for their home gardens?" he said. "Or if we had the shredding equipment needed to make the compost for Golden Gate Park?"

If that day comes, he said, a "real dent could be made in the city's solid waste problem."

Whatever the city's main interest is, the gardens have helped people cut down on their food bills, get some exercise and gain a sense of community.

Kee Tang waved his hand over the rows of peas, parsley, artichokes and celery and said: "We don't have to buy our vegetables in Chinatown anymore."

Tang said some of the gardeners tend their plants eight hours a day.

"I was born in Hong Kong so I'm learning to garden from them," he said as he motioned to a group of women from the farming areas of mainland China.

The land Tang and his colleagues worked was once a mud hole with sub soil that couldn't even support a weed.

Tons of rich compost were brought in and young volunteers readied the land for the oldsters.

Fewer said there has been little problem with theft or vandalism.

"Most of the people live near the gardens and the neighbors keep an eye out for trouble makers," he said.

Inflation taking its toll in productivity, too

BY LeROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Disclosure by the Labor Department that productivity of American workers has fallen for three successive quarters has a lot of people asking: "Why?"

Is it true Americans are not willing to work as hard and are not efficient as they once were? If so, why?

The answer to the first question has to be "yes" in the case of many companies and in some industries, says Gene Jackson of CCMP Management Consultants, Inc., New York. But he and other consultants point out that the Labor Department and economists are talking about quite a different concept of productivity.

What they mean is that the recession has caused the whole national economy to slow and, as a result, industry is producing less per man-hour worked for reasons about which the worker has little say.

Many persons do not understand how that can be. They think of productivity in more literal and old fashioned terms of how fast the bench hand is willing to toil and how competent and skillful he or she is. That's how the time study engineer and the industrial psychologist think of productivity and they are the ones who do most of the popular talking and writing about it.

So naturally the workers tend to think of it that way.

But economists think quite differently about productivity and that's the way the government refers to productivity in its statistics.

To the economist, the individual worker's man-hour is only a measuring stick —so many man-hours to make an automobile, so many nuts and bolts per man-hour. The manhour also is used as a unit to measure the productivity rate of the overall economy or of an industry or even a company. Variations in how hard the warkers toil or how competent they are matter, but are not the vital factors.

The really important things in the economist's eyes are the investment in machinery per worker, the capacity and modernity of the machinery, the quality of the technology, the availability of materials and, above all, the degree to which the company or industry is kept operating at optimum capacity without down time caused by strikes, material shortages or management's operating and marketing errors.

Power failures, transportation snarls and snafus caused by price controls or other regulatory red tape also can keep a factory from running at optimum capacity and reduce productivity as measured by man-hours.

Modern machinery and technology must operate at certain optimum capacities. The penalty for failure to do so is lowered productivity and rising costs, no matter how hard the workers toil. If the plant does run at optimum capacity, the productivity curve may go up even if the workers take it easy or if there are a few too many of them.

Neverthless, said Jackson, industry all over the industrialized world is much concerned about the older concept of productivity and is seeking new incentives to make workers more interested and more productive.

There is much evidence that worker dissatisfaction and frustration have been growing steadily in our increasingly technocratic world. Jackson, who works primarily in companies employing white collar workers, found employes resent work measurements that are merely quantitative. Unless the measurement covers how and why work operations are done and unless the workers' views about this are consulted, productivity studies may have a negative result.

John T. Cahoon, vice president for personnel of Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., told Purdue University students in September that one of the biggest mistakes industry can make is to think of workers only as manpower and not as human resources.

Dr. Einar Thorsrud, the Norwegian industrial psychologist, has attracted much attention by his bold statement that many people in the modern world may simply refuse to work at all and live off welfare unless business makes their work more interesting and challenging. These people prefer poverty on welfare to relative affluence on a dull job, he said.

Real world finally catches market

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, which recently had shown muscle in the face of adverse news, ran out of steam this this week in its concern over the nationwide coal strike and depressing inflation figures to close with a significant loss.

"Over the past several weeks," one analyst said, "the market seemed to have grown immune to bad news, yet it couldn't move on the good news."

The Dow Jones industrial average lost 19.55 to 647.61 for the week, including a loss of 10.79 on Friday. In a rarity, the closely watched blue-chip indicator finished with no change on Wednesday —the day after the United Mine Workers went on strike and the day negotiators hammered out a tentative agreement.

Other averages also lost ground during the week. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, a broader indicator than the Dow, lost 3.00 to 71.91. The New York Stock Exchange common stock index lost 1.49 to 38.14.

Declines topped advances, 1,159 to 573, among the 1,991 issues crossing the tape.

Volume fell to 70,334,100 shares from 85,675,610 traded last week and 109,326,110 during the same week a year ago. Many investors stayed on the sidelines.

For weeks Wall Street had anticipated the coal strike and most figured it would be a short one, maybe two or three weeks at the most. As the deadline approached for the old contract to expire, however, the market became nervous.

A tentative agreement was reached late Tuesday. But the UMW's 38-member bargaining council, which must approve the new pact before it can be sent to the membership, hit snags in its review of the tentative coal industry contract Friday, and union sources said the nationwide coal strike would be prolonged by at least two days as a result. They were expected to seek meetings with the coal operators early next week.

Wall Street was concerned the membership may reject the new pact. Even the UMW negotiators were nervous. A prolonged strike would seriously disrupt the nation's already sagging economy.

Shortwave peek at secrets

Archeologists look for hidden pyramid room

By MICHAEL S. BARRETT

CAIRO (UPI) — Six American physicists have come to Egypt to take up where archaeologists have failed in trying to locate a suspected hidden chamber in the second of the three great Giza pyramids.

Their technique is different from any used before. They are bombarding the pyramid with invisible shortwave pulses that "see through" hard rock for hundreds of feet.

The physicists are from the Stanford Research Institute, a California-based nonprofit center for scientific studies. Working with them are physicists from Cairo's Ein Shams University faculty of science.

Dr. Lambert T. Dolphin Jr., 42, the project leader, said the group's interest in studying the second or Chephren tomb stems from earlier, fruitless experiments of Prof. Luis W. Alvarez of the University of California.

Dolphin said Alvarez has tried since 1967 to find a supposed chamber in which some believe the pharaoh's mummy, and perhaps riches, still lie untouched. Alvarez set up a detector in the known chamber, discovered by Giovanni Belzoni in the early 1800s, to pick up cosmic rays penetrating the 458-foot high structure.

Dolphin said that Alvarez' equipment has detected no evidence of any hidden chambers and Alvarez does not believe any exist.

Chephren is thought to have been the son of Cheops, whose massive pyramid stands first and tallest among the three built on the sandy plain 10 miles southwest of Cairo. Chephren lived 4,590 years ago and built the nearby Sphinx.

Belzoni was not the first to enter the second pyramid, since he recorded having seen Arabic graffiti on the walls. But the question has never been answered whether Chephren's mummy actually went into that chamber or into a yet undiscovered room.

To find out, Dolphin's crew, funded by a grant from the National Science Foundation, brought to Giza a small portable "sounder," a wooden box about one cubic foot in size and carrying 30,000 volts.

The instrument is placed on the face of the pyramid and sends a short electromagnetic pulse of about one cycle through the rock to Belzoni's chamber, where its echo bounces back at an angle to an antenna receiver on the surface. An oscilloscope records the radio emissions and detects any changes in density, such as a hidden chamber's empty space.

"It's like finding a needle in a haystack," Dolphin said. "Radio waves can fool you. You can get reflections when there aren't any. You can fail to see something when you should see something. You've got to check it all out."

The physicists proved conclusively after the first week that the sounder worked and would permit them to see through the whole body of the pyramid with limited spurious noises.

"We're elated two ways," Dolphin said. "That the equipment has performed as expected and number two that the pyramid is favorable, will let us look into it."

They have found no hidden chamber but will continue the search for several more weeks.

"We'd like to see this equipment put to many applications other than mining and geology and fields that are removed from archaeology. Nobody's ever built equipment like this before. It's the first of its kind."

The physicists chose the pyramid for their experiments primarily because of Egypt's dry climate, necessary for unhindered remote sensing.

"The technique is interesting to us. We had developed this equipment, had tested it, but we're not archaeologists or egyptologists. Our interest comes from our background in physics. We're just curious."

New electronic shark repeller

MIAMI (UPI) — An electronic device designed to protect swimmers against sharks and crocodiles and drive off unwanted fish species is being demonstrated at the Miami Seaquarium.

John Hicks, 37, a University of Miami-trained zoologist who invented the Hicks Electronic Shark Repeller, said the four-pound electronic device creates a 150-foot diameter shark-free "bubble" around a swimmer.

Using variable electronic freqencies, Hicks said, it has been successful in driving off crocodiles in South Africa, and in clearing Florida waterways of gar fish.

Hicks said the device is harmless to human beings, game fish and food fish.

The repeller does not kill the shark but it so upsets its nervous system that sharks in the seaquarium have refused to eat their favorite foods for as long as four days afterward.

The repeller and its batteries are housed in a waterproof casing, from which two small antennae protrude. It operates on the principle that electronic impulses at the proper cycle, duration and amplification can be tuned into a shark's nervous system.

Shock waves emitted from it will "discourage even the hungriest shark and send him thrashing off wildly," Hicks said. The bigger the shark, the more effective the repelling effect, he said.

Hicks and Norman Bean, a Miami electronics expert who built the equipment designed by the inventor, estimated that, in volume productions, the units would sell for about $100.

Hicks said the Coast Guard and the armed forces are interested in the device for airsea rescue work, and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration wants him to build a miniaturized 1½-pound unit for astronauts.

Shepherd dolphins to explore oceans?

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet scientist says he believes dolphins can be trained to help man at such tasks as shepherding fish in sea farms and searching for sunken ships.

Andrei Shevelyov, who has been experimenting with dolphins at Batumi in the Soviet republic of Georgia for seven years, told a correspondent for the Communist party newspaper Pravda, "The time probably will come when the dolphin will return to his native sea to help man to explore it."

The newspaper said Sunday Shevelyov envisaged the creatures as "shepherds" for sea farms, as explorers for mineral resources and as hunters for submerged ships.

"Today we are witnessing probably the first steps toward training an animal from a different element," Shevelyov said.

He described his Batumi pool as "a vocational school, a place of research not a circus" and said his research assistants were not animal-trainers but coaches.

"We want to discover the ability of sea animals for intelligent activities," he said.

Despite bungles, Bicentennial is underway

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
UPI Senior Editor

A look at the Big Birthday Bungle, formally known as the American Revolution Bicentennial, shows a groundswell of grass roots activity that adds up to a prideful national celebration in spite of several false starts.

The Bicentennial, which was midwifed by Congress in 1966, became official with the reenactment of the Boston Tea Party in 1973 and was to have gotten into high gear in 1975 for the 1976 finale.

But lack of leadership, programming and money at the national level made it obvious by mid-1973 that if any celebrating were to be done, it would be on a do-it-yourself basis at the community level. The American Revolution Bicentennial Administration set up a program which to date has awarded 1,659 hamlets, towns, and cities the "Bicentennial Community" designation, permitting them to use official flags and insignia and share in funds distributed to the states from its $8 million annual budget.

Former Navy Secretary John Warner, head of the Bicentennial Administration, said the Bicentennial has proved to be "a means by which the people's faith in their ability to achieve things could be restored."

Our big birthday bash

PREPARING TO — Carve Washington crossing the Delaware out of limestone is retired Bedford, Ind., stonecutter Frank Arena works on a clay model of his contribution to the nation's bicentennial.

"A national Bicentennial Expo might have detracted and diverted attention from the thousands of local events that are now the heart of the celebration," he said on his return to Washington from opening an agricultural museum in Stuttgart, Ark., and a mining museum in Centennial, Wyo. "The interesting thing is that absence of historic linkage to the Revolution has proved no deterrent to the participation of most communities."

Local projects tend to fall into categories originally laid down for the Bicentennial—heritage, festival and horizons. These are most generally fulfilled by historical restorations, performing arts events, and civic improvements. A few annual events with no visible link to the Bicentennial, such as the Chilimpiad—Texas' chili championship—have won dubious recognition as commemorative events.

The Bicentennial could well involve more than half the nation's 200 million population. And almost no one will escape the commercial aspects of the celebration such as Betsy Ross ice cream, commemorative spoons, coins, and medals, and reproductions of Washington's sword and Hitchcock rockers.

Americans are embarked on an unprecedented wingding that underscores the nation's unity in diversity. It is a series of sideshows without a main event, but like the Centennial patchwork quilt stitched by New York City quilters for display in the Federal Hall Memorial, the over-all effect is beautiful.

RESTORED 1839—Lyceum Building in Alexandria, Va., across the river from Washington, D.C., is one of the many restorations prepared for the nation's bicentennial. Lyceum now is named George Washington Bicentennial Center and Museum. It recreates 18th Century life in the Old Dominion and will show Bicentennial films.

Some projects are relatively inexpensive. Four hundred volunteers in South Bend, Ind., aged nine to 79, painted the city's fire plugs to resemble Revolutionary War soldiers. In Desha County, Ark., volunteers decided to spruce up a World War II Japanese relocation camp cemetery.

Or they can cost a bundle—like the $700,000 Sacramento, Calif., will spend on a monument commemorating the Pony Express' first run to California's capital.

New York's Metropolitan Museum and the federal government will spend the most on individual projects. The museum is building an $11.9 million American Bicentennial Wing to house the world's most extensive collection of American decorative art. And Washington is getting a 45-acre Constitution Garden on the Mall.

The most spectacular event will be the sail-by of 100 square-rigged ships from all over the world in New York Harbor on July 4, 1976. There also will be an international "Bikecentennial" for cyclists who wish to follow a new Trans-America trail between Astoria, Ore., and Jamestown, Va.

Quincy, Mass., has taken on the practical project of putting central heating in the birthplaces of two presidents, John and John Quincy Adams. The Greek Orthodox Church of North America has purchased a historic house in St. Augustine, Fla., for a shrine honoring the arrival of the first Greeks on this continent in 1768. Granbury, Tex., Columbus, Ga., and Littleton, N.Y., will restore their old "opry" houses.

Opera is very much a part of the Bicentennial, with 32 major opera companies, 25 community companies, and 22 college workshops scheduling Bicentennial production with American themes for the 1975-76 season.

In other musical tributes, Cleveland's Singing Angels have commissioned choral works for Bicentennial concerts in urban and rural areas, and Pittsburgh's Wind Symphony will give barge concerts in 76 U.S. ports.

Miss Lily Peter, beloved philanthropist of Marvell, Ark., is presenting five concerts a year through 1976 by organists following Bicentennial themes. More grandiose is the North Dakota Bicentennial Commission's international youth band festival for 100 concert and marching bands in July, 1976.

Re-enactments are a natural. Green Mountain Boys will again capture Fort Ticonderoga, N.Y., on May 10, 1975 and Gen. Richard Montgomery's marching route from Rhinebeck, N.Y., to Quebec will be followed by car. Wagon trains from 50 states will encamp at Valley Forge.

The Smithsonian Institution in Washington will open its largest component, the Air and Space Museum, on July 4, 1976, featuring recreated Wright and Lindbergh flights and Space Age rocket ships. Mount Vernon is getting a sound and light show. The National Zoo will try to mate its pandas in 1974 in hope of getting a Bicentennial cub.

A few projects have racial themes. The major black event will be an exhibition of 400 pictures portraying "The Black in American History" State College is sponsoring a Phyllis Wheatley Poetry Festival. The Navajo nation will stage a year-round exposition of arts, dance and crafts at The Stockbridge-Munsee Indians are building a museum and history library on their Wisconsin reservation, and the Creek National Council house in Okmulgee, Okla., is recreating a pioneer Creek home.

An outstanding educational program will be a three-year exhibit at Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry depicting 50-year segments of "American Inventive Genius." Philadelphia will host a Bicentennial Congress of World Unity for leading humanitarians.

Parks that will outlast the Bicentennial are popular projects. Boynton Beach, Fla., is building one complete with reproduction Liberty Bell, gazebo and fountains, and Oklahoma City is constructing a Bicentennial Plaza with performing arts center. The California Department of Parks has begun planting 100 "Liberty Tree" redwoods in Sacramento.

The business district of Rochelle, Ga., has had a whole Bicentennial facelift. Merchants converted the fronts of 30 shops to French architecture to honor Rochelle's ancestral city, La Rochelle, France. San Juan, P.R., is ambarked on a major restoration of its Spanish Quarter, from the cathedral to city hall.

A Bicentennial footnote to Revolutionary War history is scheduled to be written in stone in Rome, N.Y., near Oriskaney Battleground where the Stars and Stripes were raised under fire for the first time in 1777. The city will construct a national Tomb of the Unknown Revolutionary Soldier, to be dedicated in 1977.

Golden Hinde retracing Drake voyage

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Golden Hinde II, sailing in the path used by Sir Francis Drake nearly 400 years ago, has reached the Barbados Islands.

The masted ship's captain, Adrian Small, radioed San Francisco Thursday to report his arrival two days earlier than anticipated.

He reported "fresh, fair winds all the way," from his prior stop in Lisbon. "Crew all well and happy."

It took the replica of Drake's legendary ship 33 days to sail the 1,300 miles from Lisbon to the Barbados. The ship is expected to depart the Barbados for Panama next Tuesday.

The Golden Hinde II sailed out of Falmouth, England Sept. 29 and is expected to arrive in San Francisco in mid-March. It is following Drake's Atlantic crossing of his circumnavigation of the world from 1577-1579.

Watergate 'glamor' is attracting journalism students

FACING An 8-month jail term for refusing to disclose news sources is Lucy W. Morgan, reporter for the St. Petersburg, Fla., Times. She refused to divulge to a judge source of her information dealing with a grand jury proble of high city officials. Her editors are backing her stand. Contempt sentence is under appeal.

By FRANK L. SPENCER

CHICAGO (UPI) — The nation's journalism schools are at flood tide and this news is both good and bad.

Enrollments are at record levels, up more than 300 per cent from 1964, with no letup in sight, as thousands of young Americans turn toward news careers. Many have been attracted by the glamorous aura that has hovered over the news corps covering Watergate and other important events.

Their sheer numbers comes as good news for readers and viewers, and for journalism in general, because those who hire them will have a wider selection to choose from, or as expressed by Wayne Danielson, dean of the University of Texas school of journalism, "We're delivering more of the best."

But it's bad news for the young men and women who must compete for news jobs. One student who has found it tough is Helane Morrison of Milwaukee, who attends Northwestern University's Medill School of Journalism.

"I'm getting out in December," Miss Morrison said. "I've sent applications to 85 newspapers all over the country. I've heard nothing encouraging from any of them. Some don't even bother to say they're sorry."

Miss Morrison, interviewed in the newsroom of the Daily Northwestern, thinks the glamor of news is attracting young people. Danielson, speaking from his office in Austin, agreed that glamor is one ingredient "but there's another important factor—it's been discovered that journalism provides a good basic education."

Not all journalism students, Danielson said, plan to pound keyboards in newsrooms or shout penetrating questions at smiling senators, but nobody knows how many nonjournalists may be hovering around journalism classrooms. In the United States about 233 colleges and universities offer four years of journalism. The American Council on Education for Journalism has accredited 69 of these. There also are several hundred others that teach less than four years of journalism.

Paul Peterson of the Ohio State University school of journalism works long hours as a volunteer trying to collect journalism school data.

It was Peterson's figures that showed enrollments totaled 48,327 in September, 1973—up from 14,624 in 10 years.

Peterson told UPI the slowly arriving 1974 figures indicate "some leveling off," but the total probably will still represent an increase.

Danielson and other heads of journalism schools say there's no way so many news jobs can become available within the next few years. They point out journalism enrollments include young people interested in advertising, public relations and other fields.

Peterson said that according to the schools reporting to him, the 1973 journalism crop totaled 10,811 graduates, including 1,114 with master or doctorate degrees, and he estimated that 6,000 of these were interested in news careers.

According to the U. S Department of Labor there are about 40,000 reporters and editors working in the nation's newsrooms. It has been estimated that there is room in the field for from 5,000 to 8,000 newcomers each year. That sounds good, except that the journalism school graduates comprise only a portion of those seeking journalism jobs.

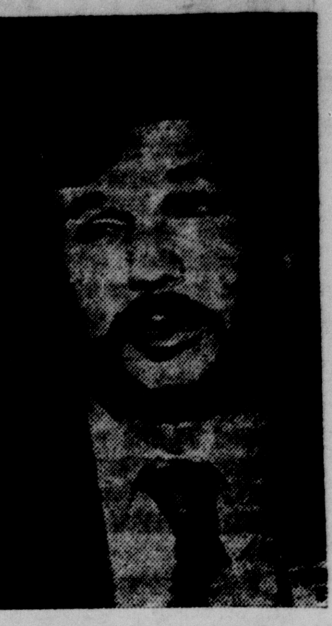
The journalism deans and some of their students are deeply concerned about how to bring enrollments into closer touch with the reality of job demand without stiffening requirements too much.

Ralph Otwell, managing editor of the Chicago Sun-Times and national president of Sigma Delta Chi, a professional journalism society, looks with a slightly jaundiced eye at big journalism school enrollments.

Otwell told UPI that journalism schools have been getting "some marginal people." These students, he said, found the news business to be glamourously appealing and "were attracted like moths to a bright light." On some campuses, Otwell said, the administrators have been reluctant to turn these starry-eyed students away because "big enrollments equal power and that's how campus empires are created."

One of the administrators, George C. Brown, dean of the Southern Illinois University school of journalism, saw it differently.

"It's an ethical problem," he said. "Should we try to talk somebody out of going into journalism just on the grounds that it may be hard for him to find a job?"



RUNNING FOR president of Sigma Delta Chi during convention underway in Phoenix is Robert Liming of the Columbia, S.C., State. He said while campaigning for the top professional journalism post, he believes working newsmen were not working in the organization. SDX includes both professional and college chapters.

Secret military technology aids industry, government

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — What happens when the "secret" label comes off military research?

The government calls it "technology transfer," and for industry and local governments it is a welcome development that substantially boosts their own limited research and development resources.

Take the San Diego sheriff's department. When it found its radio dispatch circuits overcrowded, it turned to the nearby Naval Electronics Laboratory Center (NELC) for free advice that solved the problem inexpensively.

The Poway Fire Department got the same kind of help when it found surrounding hills were blacking out emergency radio communications.

And marijuana smugglers will be unhappy to know that military-developed technology may be snooping on them. Military surveillance systems developed here are literally sniffing out marijuana and other illegal drugs being smuggled in aircraft and aboard boats.

Under increasing pressure from Congress to open its research for the benefit of all, military facilities in California have been systematically inviting outsiders in to take a look at what they have developed.

At a recent seminar called for just that purpose, NELC, the Navy Undersea Center (NUC) and two other California-based research labs described hundreds of breakthroughs.

Four electronic devices built at NELC for $150 each were loaned to clinics checking blacks for sickle cell anemia.

Another device administers an eye test to children under the age of two by checking brainwaves that can detect eye problems.

The state of Hawaii is excited about research underway at the Naval Civil Engineering Laboratory at Port Hueneme, near Oxnard. An unusual concept developed there is floating concrete islands.

"Hawaii is seriously interested in these as platforms for nuclear power generating plants and for desalination units," said Don Courter, NUC's technology transfer officer.

The manmade islands are called "semisubmerged vessels" by the Navy. Researchers say they can remain stable in extremely rough seas and could be built as movable airports for the largest of aircraft.

Courter says NUC also has finished a year-long study for the State of California showing the feasibility of building an offshore aqueduct that would carry fresh water from the north to the south.

To keep the information flowing, each research lab has its own technology transfer specialists whose jobs are to handle the increasing number of queries from government and industry.

What rights do children have?

NEW YORK (UPI) — When his parents were divorced the judge ordered Timmy, 9, to spend weekends with his Dad.

Every Saturday, the boy kicks and cries and tries to stay in his home when his father comes to take Timmy for the weekend.

Does Timmy, have a right to disobey the judge's order?

Children's rights, a much neglected topic, came into focus at the First National Symposium on Child Advocacy in New York early this month.

If Timmy, for example, has a right to the best emotional climate for his development, should he be subjected each weekend to the trauma of leaving his mother, his toys, his playmates, his room, a place in which he feels secure?

And what about a child's right to good health care? Do the 5.8 million preschool children who have not been immunized against possibly crippling and fatal diseases have a right to such protection?

Shirley Camper Soman, chairperson of the Child Advocacy Symposium, in an interview pointed to those gaps in protection for children.

She also said children aren't guaranteed an adequate education, proper nutrition, and a lot of other things necessary to achieve goals stated in the Bill of Rights.

Mrs. Soman, an author and social worker with a master's from Smith College, called for the formation of a National Organization on Children's Rights.

"Actually," she said, "I have been beating the drums for an amendment to the constitution that would guarantee children rights they do not have now but need for survival and proper development."

Mrs. Soman, a member of the Acadmey of Certified Social Workers, was a family life consultant for the Family Service Association of America for many years and worked for the Bureau of Child Guidance, New York City Board of Education.

"Let's Stop Destroying Our Children" is the title of a book in which she details all the ways society shortchanges children.

Other participants in the Child Advocacy Symposium included Dr. Lee Salk, the psychologist and children's rights advocate. He wrote "Preparing for Parenthood."

Also: Nat Hentoff, social critic and author of "Our Children Are Dying"; and Barbara Seaman, the feminist and author of "Free and Female."

Participants reported that a large scale movement for a children's rights organization has been growing over the years. One of the first steps involves defining what children have a right to.

"One of the things the organization would do is list these rights and that would help set a floor below which a child would have recourse in the courts," Mrs. Soman said.

"For example, a child has a right not to be beaten, to ample food."

She said if the definitions are set, then society can move forward to provide the tools to deliver the things in the list of rights.

2,140-island Micronesia

Non imperialist America embarrassed by trusteeship

SAIPAN, Micronesia (UPI) — An embarrassed America, which has historically vowed eternal abstinence from all imperialistic ambition, is treed by the problem of what to do with its World War II foundling, Micronesia.

And the 114,000 Micronesians who live in this 2,140-island Pacific paradise have almost as many suggestions as they have islands —few of them digestible to Washington.

The Micronesians, orphaned again when Japan was driven out of the Marshalls, Carolines and Marianas, became unwanted wards of the Americans under a United Nations Trusteeship in 1945. The three million square miles of ocean, atolls and volcanic islands were considered only good for atomic testing, and a convenient dumping ground for bureaucrats and political castoffs.

The Trust Territory maladministration caused no concern to anyone except the hand wringers at the UN, most of whom spoke with a Communist accent.

But despite their unloved scullerymaid childhood as America-protected citizens, the Micronesians have blossomed into militarily beautiful people because of their mailing address. Their islands form an indepth fence right across the Pacific; a convenient buffer protecting America from the potential evils of Asia.

The Pentagon has found a wholesome new beauty in the lines and Marianas, became Micronesians after being showed the door by the fickle-hearted Asians and forced to vacate forward bases in Japan and Southeast Asia.

And as the Japanese and Russians come a courting in Micronesia with money, affection and promises, apprehensive Washington, fearing rape may be hiding behind the hearts and flowers offerings, isn't so certain that imperialism is such a bad thing after all.

The Pentagon points out that America is as bare as a go-go dancer's navel in the Pacific. Gone are the Asian bastions; the only secure base between Hawaii and Asia is Guam. And where does Guam sit? Like a raisin on a cookie, right in the middle of Micronesia. Guam was in exactly the same spot when Japan administered Micronesia under a League of Nations mandate in 1941, and became the first American base to fall in World War II.

Today the military insists that Micronesia —or at least some parts of it —must remain perpetually under America's paternalistic palm.

The Americans governed Micronesia with a missionary zeal that showed little concern for their miserable bodies while filling their minds with the glories of American democracy. In the schools, and in supposedly harmless local affairs, the Americans allowed the Micronesians to sip the heady wine of self government. They even allowed the creation of an elected Congress of Micronesia eight years ago.

Washington also promised that "someday" Micronesia would be independent, but no dates were circled on the Department of Interior calendars.

Now that they have come of age, the Micronesians want their independence. They're not satisfied with a sip from the bottle; they want to manage the brewery.

Truk high school students like William Irriate writing in the Xavier high school paper ask: "How is it that Papua-New Guinea, a country that is similar and yet much more backward than ours, is now a free and independent nation while we are not only still under the United States, but are also drifting away from each other?"

Geography is part of the answer to William's question. The Micronesians are islanders living insular lives on a few square miles of land separated by vast stretches of water. They have an islander's distrust of all outsiders, and, as Micronesians, are united only by the language of their present colonial government. First it was Spanish, then German, then Japanese and now American.

The mirror that reflected Mocronesian nationalism was shattered into Palauan nationalism, Marshallese nationalism and Saipanese nationalism when the mirage of independence suddenly became a distinct possibility. Every district leader thrust out a brownskinned hand to grab as much as possible for himself and his clan.

The Marshallese thought it unfair that they should share their fat tax revenues from the Kwajalein Missile Range, and began talking unification with the newly proclaimed Republic of Nauru. Their legislature voted to pull out of the Congress of Micronesia.

The Palauans at the eastern end of Micronesia are also being urged by their leaders to split. They have strong ties with Japan and a rich tourist and fishing potential. Saipan and Tinian figure the glitter of American dollars more attractive than independence, and their majorities favor staying with the Americans, particularly if they reactivate the old World War II airfields on Tinian and inject million-dollar military payrolls into the local economy.

The Russians have already propositioned Western Samoa for visiting rights, and have now joined the Japanese and Americans on the front porch with candy and flowers in hand seeking Micronesia's friendship and love. Friends with warm water ports are very much a part of the new Soviet interest in the Pacific.

Last April Micronesian and American negotiators worked out a preliminary "Free Association" pact which would grant independence sometime after 1980, but only after several pre-conditions were met.

First, the Micronesians must hold a constitutional convention and choose their own type of government. That is slated for next year.

Then the Micronesians must vote, by referendum, on the proposed "Free Association" pact agreed to by the negotiators last April.

And next comes the cruncher: The U.S. Congress must approve the agreement if it's accepted by the Micronesians. There is still one more hurdle; the pact must be blessed by the United Nations.

The "Free Association" contract states that the Americans will guide Micronesia's foreign and defense destinites for 15 years. Micronesia will then be unleashed — after reaching some sort of mutual security agreement with Washington — and be allowed complete independence. An estimated $1 billion worth of American aid is guaranteed during the 15-year transition period.

No constitutional convention has ever faced a bigger construction job than assembling a Micronesian constitution that will be acceptable to the Yapese, Trukese, Chamorros, Palauans, Marshallese, the Pentagon, the United Nations, Interior Department and the U.S. Congress.

The final answer to William Irriate's question will be given in Washington where Congress will ultimately decide just how much freedom Micronesia should have, and when.

In the back of every Senator and House member's mind will be such names as Peleliu, Bloody Nose Ridge, Truk, Guam, Saipan, Kwajalein and the rest of the Micronesian battlefields where American lives, blood and money were paid to guarantee the freedom of millions of Americans.

Although sympathetic to Micronesia's desire for complete independence, the American administrators of the Trust Territory here in Saipan see no chance of congressional approval of any form of independence that doesn't include American military dominance in one form or another.

In Hawaii, a Pearl Harbor authority summed it up by saying: "We don't particularly want or need Micronesia right now, but we want to make damn certain that nobody else gets it."

No stuntman

Although Charles Lindbergh was an Honorary Consultant to the Library of Congress on aviation since 1954, his personal papers and memorabilia are not in the Library. Shortly after his historic 1927 flight, the aviator offered to donate his papers to then-Librarian of Congress Herbert Putnam who considered Lindbergh a stunt man and refused them. Lindberg memorabilia are in the Sterling Library at Yale University.

Legislatura hacer Cortes bilingues en California

Legislatura que podria hacer las cortes de California bilingues, sera intoducida en la proxima sesion de la Asamblea, dijo hoy el abogado del Distrito del Condado de Los Angeles, Joseph P. Busch.

La ley, introducida por Richard Alatorre durante la ultima sesion, requeriria que el concilio judicial estableciera requerimientos minimos de servicios bilingues en todas las cortes superiores y municipales El decreto fue detenido en el Comite de Asamblea Judiciaria, pero Alatorre dice que ve sus oportunidades con optimismo.

La medida estatal reqeriria que los interpretes sean certificados por el Concilio Judicial. Bajo una ley federal, las cortes del distrito se verian obligados a otorgar facilidades bilingues adecuadas para interpretar, y bajo circunstancias especiales. poveer traduccion simultanea de los procesos.

Busch dice que hace tiempo esta convencido que no hay suficientes facilidades al servicio de las personas que no hablan ingles y se ven envueltas es problemas con la corte.

"En California," dijo, "el segundo idioma mas comun es el espanol. El cosdado de Los Angeles tiene mas personas de habla hispana que cualquier ciudad en Mejico, exceptuando a la ciudad de Mejico y Guadalajara."

Una encuesta recientemente conducida por el Instituto de Administracion deCortes, indico que no habia suficientes servicios bilingues para las personas que no hablan ingles, y sugirio que se tomen medidas correctivas.

Bunuelos

2 tazas de harina sin cernir
1 cucharada de azucar
1 cucharadita de polvo de hornear

El Brazil deporta ninos

Por DENISE M. SANTANA

SAN PABLO, Brasil (UPI) — Vestidos en poco mas que harapos, hambrientos, confusos, y generalmente llorando, rondan en un patio desnudo que recuerda una deprimente escena de una novela de Charles Dickens.

Los menores desamparados encerrados en el centro temporario de detencion Tatuape de la corte juvenil de San Pablo, pasan sus horas de ocio sin una pelota que patear o una hamaca en la cual hamacarse.

Todos los dias, unos 50 jovenes son traidos a Tatuape, todos en edades que varian entre los cinco y dieciocho anos, despues de haber sido hallados cometiendo algun crimen de baja magnitud. Muchos pertenecen a los 600.000 ninos abandonados en el estado de San Pablo, quienes nunca tuvieron un hogar, o han huido del que poseian.

Aparentemente, constituyen un problema sin solucion para prospera capital financiera e industrial del Brasil.

Los menores en Tatuape no tien nada que hacer, mas que esperar la desicion final de la corte, seran enviados nuevamente a sus hogares, o llevados a algun instituto correccional. Muchos no aprecian ninguna de estas alternativas, y huyen.

Esperando su suerte, Pedrinho, un nombre ficticio, se sienta solo, asustado y con ojos llenos de pena.

Pedrinho, de 11 anos, estuvo envuelto en un incidente llamado "Camanducaia", que desperto, al menos momentariamente, el interes publico en el problema de estos menores abandonados. El fue traido a Tatuape, por tratar de robar un pan en un supermercado.

"No soy ladron, trate de obtener el pan porque no habia comida en la casa, mi madre estaba enferma, tengo cinco hermanos, y tenia hambre.

"Fui llevado a Tatuape, donde pase la mayor parte del tiempo tratando de eludir muchachos mayores que continuamente trataban de abusarse sexualmente. Cuando me queje al centinela, me dijo que me mantuviera callado, o las cosas empeorarian para mi. Al poco tiempo, escape con otros tres muchachos.

"El 8 de octubre fui detenido por la policia y encerrado un una celda. Diez dias mas tarde, el carcelero nos dijo que seriamos juzgados, y los inocentes serian puestos en libertad. Nos pusieron en un omnibus con cinco guardas armados con revolveres, palos, y barras de hierro.

"Pocas horas mas tarde, el omnibus se detuvo. Estaba oscuro y lloviendo, pero nos dijeron que nos desnudaramos pues ibamos a nadar. Una vez afuera, y completamente desnudos, los guardas comenzaron a golpearnos tirando tiros al aire y nos dijeron que corrieramos.

"Nos dirigimos hacia unas luces que vimos a la distancia, que acabo siendo una estacion de omnibus. Una vez alli, tomamos cortinas, toallas, manteles, cualquier cosa para cubrirnos.

"El empleado estaba asustado, pero se calmo una vez que le dijimos de nuestra suerte. Nos llevo al departamento de policia, y finalmente ante el juez, y al dia siguiente volvimos a Tatuape."

De acuerdo a una investigacion llevada a cabo, un grupo de oficiales de policia decidio que la unica solucion al problema de ninos abandonados, era llevar el mayor numero posible en un omnibus, y dejarlos en alguna otra ciudad.

La ciudad, en el caso de Pedrinho, fue Camanducaia, una pequena y adormecida ciudad a 83 millas de San Pablo, en el vecino estado de Minas Gerais. Alli, prostitutas de la localidad les dieron de comer los vistieron para ser llevados nuevamente a la ciudad.

El jefe de policia de San Pablo, Antonio Erasmo Diaz expreso que el incidente de Camanducaia era "un desgraciado incidente que directamente envuelve a la policia, pero que afecta a toda la sociedad brasilena.

"La policia no creo las condiciones que fuerzan 600.000 menores a vagar por las calles robando carteras, asaltando megocios y atacando a personas de edad avanzada, pero continuamente se nos acusa de no hacer lo suficiente para resolver el problema.

"Yo soy solamente un policia, y nunca estudie como tratar a menores pero de una cosa estoy seguro, el problema de los menores abandonados, y aun el de los delincuentes juveniles no tendria que ser tratado por la policia" dijo Dias.

La mayor parte del problema as la constante migracion de trabajadores rurales que vienen a la ciudad, desde el interior, buscando una vida mejor.

La madre de Pedrinho, Dona Arlinda, dice que ella y su esposo vinieron a San Pablo del estado de Goias, esperando encontrar "ayuda medica, y un trabajo mejor.

"Mi esposo, acostumbrado al trabajo de los campos, no pudo conseguir empleo. Yo lave ropa por un tiempo, pero no ganaba lo bastante para alimentar a la familia. Finalmente mi esposo desaparecio, y no se siquiera si aun esta vivo. De cualquier manera, los ninos se vieron forzados a volcarse a la calle para eludir el hambre."

BOATING

Aluminum making inroads

NEW YORK (UPI) — The use of aluminum instead of wooden hulls in this year's America's Cup contest has given the metal another boost in popularity as a boat-building material.

Industry sources report increased interest among potential pleasure boat buyers in aluminum hulls, especially in the field of larger craft such as stock cruisers, houseboats, one-design sailboats and custom yachts, power and sail.

While the advent of aluminum in America's Cup competition is a first —permitted by a rule change in 1970 —use of the metal in boat construction is not new. The first aluminum craft, 17-foot launch, was built Switzerland for lake use in 1891.

A year later, the French produced the 40-foot steam yacht Mignon, the first All-aluminum seagoing vessel, and in 1893 a U.S. firm in Illinois was building and selling stock aluminum duck boats.

But in its battle against wood and fiberglass hulls, the metal did not really forge into a highly competitive position until the start of this decade. Even then, its use was confined mostly to portable type craft— dinghies, cartoppers, john boats, canoes, utilities, runabouts.

It was not until a few years ago that aluminum began making inroads into the big boat field, especially in sail. And then suddenly it began wiping out its wood and fiberglass competitors in such ocean racing classics as the Bermuda Race, the Annapolis to Newport contest and the Marblehead to Halifax race, among others.

Olin Stephens Jr., designer of America's Cup boats since 1937 who drew the plans for this year's successful Cup defender, Courageous, had this to say about aluminum in boat construction:

"It is strong and light, and for another practical reason, the techniques of handling aluminum are more widespread now than the techniques of handling wood...It is much easier to get an aluminum boat built today than it is to get a good wooden boat built."

Charles Sadler of Minneford Yacht Yard, Mamaroneck, N.Y., who supervised building of Courageous, considers aluminum "a less expensive way to build a yacht."

Naval architect James A. McCurdy says aluminum "allows you to produce a hull that's substantially more rigid than wood."

"That's important," he says, "because the loads put on the hull by the mast and the rigging distort the hull, resulting in the sagging of the jib stay and therefore less efficiency to shape the headsails."

Probably the most important step in the emehgence of aluminum as a popular hull material was the discarding of aluminum-copper alloys in favor of a combination of aluminum and magnesium or aluminum, magnesium and silicon.

The news combination did away with the biggest problem produced by the aluminum-copper alloy, corrosion, especially in salt water. The new alloys produced a highly corrosion resistant, more workable metal.

San Francisco draws Japanese

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — At least 50,000 Japanese tourists are expected to visit San Francisco this year, 10,000 more than the year before, an airline spokesman says.

David Grieve, speaking Wednesday for Japan Air Lines, pointed out that despite inflation, this country's prices are still less than those in Japan.

"Japanese have learned you get more for your money here," he said.

As a result, some stores in the city's tourist sections now have signs in Japanese characters and clerks who speak that language.

TODAY'S Women

LACMA Auxiliary

Bacchanalia assists students

Continuing its program of financially assisting young men and women who wish to pursue medically oriented careers, the Auxiliary to District 14, Los Angeles County Medical Association, will sponsor a gala Autumn Bacchanalia on Saturday night.

Mrs. Stephen Proffitt, a registered nurse who serves as the auxiliary's health manpower chairman, announces that seven students are currently being assisted through scholarships in various health service fields. They are Thomas Duffy, Claremont; Linda Costa, San Dimas; Dorothy Marshall, La Verne; Irene Dooley, Claremont; Candy Stevenson, Pomona; Elizabeth Ann Downie, Claremont; and Laura Lundberg, Diamond Bar.

"Autumn Festival" is the theme for the party at McConnell Center, Pitzer College, Claremont, which will start with a social hour. Sue Boatman will be pianist and soloist during the cocktail hour.

Guests will dine by candlelight at tables decorated with chrysanthemums and fall fruits. The post-dinner program includes entertainment and dancing to the music of Jack Mayo and the Dons.

The auxiliary ways and means chairman, Mrs. Jack Boatman, is general chairman for the party.

Mrs. Douglas Craven, decorations chairman, is being aided by Mrs. Robert Dukes, Mrs. Donald Moehring, Mrs. Donald Huber and Mrs. Robert Sorosky.

Invitations are being handled by Mrs. Carroll White, Mrs. Jay Palmer and Mrs. Carl Moehring while Mrs. Gerald Stiles is taking reservations and Mrs. Dukes has arranged publicity.

Entertainment has been planned by Mrs. Richard Davis and Mrs. Fritz Moser. Mrs. Robert Allen has designed the hostess costumes in an Indian style. She is being assisted by Mrs. Moser.

In supporting scholarships for medical and paramedical students, the auxiliary strives to encourage the recipients to return and help meet the health needs of the local community, states Mrs. Calvin Chamberlain, president of the auxiliary.

Dr. R. Melvin is president of District 14, LACMA.

AUTUMN SETTING

Pomona BPW Club to review organization's objectives

A review of the Business and Professional Women's Club doctrines and each member's involvement is programmed for the Tuesday meeting of the Pomona BPW Club.

Mrs. Montez Burley, chairman for the evening, will review the history of BPW, Mrs. Evelyn Kridler will recount the significance and design of the emblem and Mrs. Lonnie Pomerey, the various foundations supported by BPW.

Mrs. Julia Arri will discuss the Legislative Outlook and Mrs. Betty Eagon will present a recap of the program.

The dinner will be at 6:30 p.m. at Griswold's Inn, Claremont, and is open to all business women. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Burley at 593-3793.

The Pomona BPW Club is sponsoring a flag on the Pomona Avenue of Flags as a bicentennial project.

Attention, brides

The Progress-Bulletin Women's Department looks forward to printing the stories of your engagement and wedding.

Please pick up engagement and wedding forms at the newspaper office and return them with the picture you wish used.

Engagement forms are not accepted if they are received less than six weeks before the wedding, and wedding forms should be returned within two weeks after the wedding with a black and white picture of the bride only.

Snapshots, polaroid and color pictures are not acceptable for wedding pictures, although most color photos will be accepted for engagement announcements.

It's the time to mail Christmas gifts overseas

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — There still are millions of military personnel for whom Christmas will be bountiful or barren — depending on gifts from home. And the mailing deadlines are here.

United States' active participation in the war in Vietnam ended in the spring of 1973 but we still have personnel there. Other far-flung outposts include Thailand, Cambodia, Korea, some parts of Germany and Iceland, called the loneliest assignment.

An estimated 2.1 million servicemen and women and 3.5 million of their dependents are scattered around the globe, says United Service Organizations, Inc. (USO).

USO, a non-profit, civilian organization, each year offers its centers to distribute holiday gifts to bases, military hospitals and other installations.

And each year, USO compiles a list of suggestions of what service personnel most wants and needs.

"Just think in terms of what you'd send someone away at college," said a USO spokesman. "Remember, most of those now in the service are in the younger bracket—18 to 25 years."

The list is shorter than in previous years because USO said such necessities as razor blades, for instance, are available at post exchanges.

Concentrate on something to "cheer". This year's list is unisex, not categorized by male or female preferences.

It follows:

Cosmetics (men's or women's), bath oil, shaving or manicure kits;

Camera film, cassette tapes, nine-volt batteries, prerecorded music tapes, small transistor radios; art supplies (paints, charcoal sketch pads), model airplanes, shipbuilding kits, first aid kits;

Games and puzzles, dart boards, chess or checker sets, playing cards; paperback books, special interest magazines, pocket dictionaries, notebooks or diaries;

Candy, canned foods, cheese packages, party snacks, coffee, fruitcake, packaged meats and fruits, powdered soft drink bases, decorative candles, Christmas stockings and decorations, inflatable pillows, pocket knives, sewing kits, posters, small flashlights and batteries,and magnifying glasses.

USO listed no forbidden items but said if a sender were in doubt, check the local post office. And, if your donation is intended specifically for either a serviceman or woman, so note on the outside of the package. And remember, USO has no distribution center in Cambodia.

USO gave these mailing deadlines:

Iceland—Airmail, Dec. 9; parcel airlift, Nov. 30; space available mail, Nov. 25; Surface mail, Nov. 25.

Europe —Airmail, Dec. 11; parcel airlift, Nov. 27; space available mail, Nov. 20; surface mail, Nov. 11.

Far East and Pacific area — Airmail, Dec. 2; parcel airlift, Nov. 27; space available mail, Nov. 20; surface mail (deadline past).

For further information on participation in USO's program, write for its gift kit, Holiday Gift Program, 237 E. 52nd st., New York, N.Y. 10022.

Ontario secretaries set evening meeting

Louis Novak of the law firm of Vinnedge, Lance and Glenn, Inc., will be the speaker at the Nov. 20 meeting of Ontario Legal Secretaries Association. His topic will be "Corporations."

A social hour at 6:30 p.m. will precede the 7 p.m. dinner at Subsaro's Italian Gardens, 4620 Holt Boulevard, Montclair.

Hosting the meeting will be Mrs. Linda Gooding and Mrs. Margaret Nolan.

The meeting is open to all legal secretaries and others working or interested in the legal field.

Reservations are to be made by Nov. 18 by calling 983-9574.

The second quarterly board of governors meeting will be held this weekend in Nevada County. Attending from Ontario will be Mrs. Betty Gustafson, governor.

"MY DIGESTION IMPROVED"

Says John Maya. "Many years ago, ten to be more exact, I started having stomach troubles. The attacks increased in severity until finally I was sufferin so much that I couldn't digest my food, vomited every morning a bitter yellow fluid and had lots of gas. I tried many doctors without any help.

Thanksgiving dinner charted by Travelers

The Pomona Valley Travelers have scheduled a Thanksgiving dinner Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at the Church of the Brethren, 875 W. Orange Grove Ave., for members and their guests.

Professor Melvin Belcher of California State Polytechnic University, Pomona, will present the program, "Tanzania — A Kaleidoscope." The Belcher family has recently returned from three years in Tanzania. The speaker's topic will include the hopes of the people of the new state, its history, geography and animal life.

Music during the program will be by the Claremont United Methodist Church Handbell Youth Choir with Mrs. Jane Weidhofer as conductor.

The Travelers have scheduled a tour on Tuesday to San Bernardino for the Civic Light Opera production of "South Pacific" and, on Nov. 27, to the Los Angeles County Art Museum to see "Born to Dance" with Jimmy Stewart.

Dollar saver

Now you can have the fun and economy of blocking your own needlework with a gadget that blocks up to a two-foot canvas at home.

Officer election scheduled

Officers will be elected when the Pomona Valley Writer's Club meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Ontario Public Library.

Entries for the Christmas constest, to be held Dec. 10 at Griswold's, must be turned in by the Tuesday meeting. Deadline for reservations for the December event is also Tuesday.

Two new members won certificates for their entries in the non-fiction and poetry categories. Winner for poetry was Frank Mosca. Others who entered were Carol Ann Cook, Dorcas Nigh, Irene Duran, Don Toller and Joan Copeland.

In non-fiction, Leona Manke was presented the first-place certificate. Others who entered in that category were Kit Vargo, Elizabeth Fleck, Robert Fleck and Gale Donahue.

Joan Copeland took first place in fiction. Others entering the category were Stan Baum, John Quinn and Frank Mosca.

Executives' night slated Thursday

The 23rd annual Executives' Night will be celebrated by the Pomona Valley Chapter of Executives' Secretaries, Inc., at the dinner meeting Thursday at Jurupa Hills Country Club in Riverside. A 6:30 p.m. social hour will precede the 7:30 p.m. dinner.

Dyer Huston will present "Radio Waves Back!" for the program which will honor executives representing member firms.

Mr. Huston was a writer-producer for KFI Radio for almost 25 years producing the Lohman and Barkley show, the Robert Q. Lewis and Ben Hunter Night Owl Shows; and many sports show. He also produced the program, "Young America Sings," which won the Freedom Foundation Award, the George Washington Medal.

Mr. Huston is a lember of the Pacific Pioneer's Broadcasters Association, American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, Boy Scouts of America Council, and the West End Opera Association.

Installation scheduled by chapter

Star of the West Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its 49th annual installation of officers at 8 p.m. Monday in the Pomona Masonic Temple.

Mrs. Irma Gustafson, retiring worthy matron, and Lorren Walrod, retiring worthy patron, will witness the installation of Mrs. May Laing as worthy matron, and Jay Green as worthy patron.

Accountants set meeting

California Citrus Belt Chapter of American Society of Women Accountants has planned a dinner Tuesday at the Elks Lodge, Riverside. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m.

Douglas B. Keith, territory manager of Riverside-San Bernardino areas for Shell Oil Company, will speak on "Energy Crisis Today—Myths and Realities.

San Dimas clubwomen will meet

Americana Masterpieces will be the program for the San Dimas Women's Club luncheon meeting Thursday at Stanley Plummer Community Room, Civic Center, at noon.

The film program will include a motion picture with live narration of the Diplomat Reception Rooms of the State Building in Washington, D. C., as presented by Marx Willoughby. The best and rarest examples of American antiques produced by the most skilled colonial craftsmen will be shown in the film.

Mrs. Kurt Thies, president, will present charter members and curators of the club sections, who are to be honored at the luncheon.

Cohostesses are Mrs. Charles Morris and Mrs. Henry M. Stevens.

Make-up accents

The new look of long skirts, bulky sweaters and overwhelming scarves can overpower delicate features. Your face must look as important as your clothes. Make-up is a real accessory and should make a statement.

Newcomers' luncheon plans told

Handmade holiday decorations will be demonstrated at the meeting of Diamond Bar Newcomers Club when the group meets for luncheon Wednesday at Kam's, 19101 Colima Road, Rowland Heights.

The program, to be presented by a representative of Hobby Lobby in Rowland Heights, is scheduled at 10:30 a.m. Questions will be answered and help will be given with specific items. Babysitting will be available.

Prospective members are invited to call Diane Miller, 595-8497.

Auxiliary meeting plans told

The West End Family Service Auxiliary has scheduled a meeting at 9 a.m. Wednesday at Upland Lumber Co., 85 N. Euclid Ave., Upland.

A home economist from Southern California Edison Company will present a program on holiday entertaining for auxiliary members and their guests.

Dental Service plans educational lecture

An educational program on the California Dental Service will be presented by Mrs. Denise Knapp, associate director of public and professional relations, at the Wednesday meeting of CDS in West Covina.

A 6:30 p.m. social hour will precede the 7:30 p.m. dinner and lecture at the Royal Coachman, 313 N. Azusa Ave.

Reservations must be made with Mrs. Marjorie Potts, (213) 332-7112, days, or (213) 337-8301, evenings.

The meeting is open to all interested dental assistants, dentists and anyone affiliated with CDS. Mrs. Knapp's talk will cover insurance coverage and other programs of the organization. Certified dental assistants wishing to receive renewal points can do so at this meeting.

Eastland Chapter of the Dental Assistants is selling a cookbook which may be purchased at the meeting.

Ample supply

With the holiday season in full gear, November supplies of cut flowers for home decoration and centerpieces will be high in many categories, according to the Society of American Florists. The list includes chrysanthemums in a variety of sizes and colors, from the handsome "football" mums to small pompons, as well as carnations and gladioli. Potted chrysanthemums will continue in excellent supply.

Progress-Bulletin
1,500 forced to flee
Poison vapor cloud

Photographed in Sevilla, Spain, where the flamenco dancers have a lot of loyal fans. Admittedly, that copy of the Progress-Bulletin in the scene may seem a bit unusual, but, then, we always seem to find ourselves doing unusual things in unusual places.

We help fan some beautiful causes . . .

We help fan enthusiasm for various causes. That's OK, because promotion of worthy community endeavors is one of your hometown newspaper's important jobs. Advertisers pay for their use of these pages to help them sell. But non-commercial and civic organizations can often count on the Progress-Bulletin to cheer them on without cost if they're doing something which will help our town and neighboring communities. So if you've got a beautiful cause, tell us about it. We may even turn out to be one of your most loyal fans.

Belgian tavern now booming donut shop

By PATRICIA MCCARTY

RHODE ST. GENESE, Belgium (UPI) — Down the road from the battlefield at Waterloo where Napoleon was upended, Pat McNall has opened Belgium's first, and so far only, doughnut shop.

Le Beignet (The Fritter) opened last month. By the time the first few thousand doughnuts were sold, the former pub has become a gathering spot for the many Americans living in the Waterloo area just south of Brussels. Mrs. McNall's doughnuts sell for 96 frances (about $2.40 a dozen.)

The steady stream of customers also includes Belgians, Japanese and Peruvians.

Mrs. McNall, from Palo Alto, Calif., admires the Belgian habit of lingering at the tables for an hour or two chatting. But, she says, they're always surprised to find no beer is sold.

Understandably so, and not just because of the Belgian taste for beer. Le Beignet still looks like the pub it was built to be 64 years ago. When the owner died in 1945, it was boarded up and virtually forgotten until Mrs. McNull bought it this year.

Now on the same dark wood bar that once held beer glasses sit four wicker baskets, full of assorted doughnuts homemade each morning, and a coffee pot. Overhead there's a Tiffany lamp bought in Pasadena, shining down on a coal stove against one wall, six marble-topped tables and plank floors.

Mrs. McNall's original idea was for a "red, white and blue, American-style doughnut shop," but she scrapped plans for a modern shop and opted to maintain the turn-of-the-century atmosphere already built-in.

"It takes an American to lay it on the line like this," she said. "A Belgian wouldn't have touched this place. It had been closed up for 29 years. There was a lot of work to be done, the road out front is going to be widened, the electricity wasn't adequate.

"But when I saw it, I wanted to keep it '1910.' I think the Americans are getting tired of plastic and steel. Now we want to go back to the old ambiance.

"The Belgians are starting to see this, too. We're making them aware of the beauty of the old, instead of urging them to tear everything down and rebuild American-style."

What about future plans?

"As my sign says, 'doughnuts and other surprises,'" she said. "Within the next two weeks, there will be barbecued pork sandwiches and antiques for sale in a side room.

Can we live forever?

By United Press International

Will human beings live forever.

Despite the gains of medical science, the answer remains "no." In Science Digest, biologist Bernard Strehler is quoted as saying that man can increase his healthy lifespan 15 to 30 years. But as nature does not replace human brain cells, he says, the individual's memory in time would be erased and man could not survive against the other species. "So nature has opted for survival of the species, and letting the individual body grow old and die before the brain is fully depleted of cells," Strehler says.

In Modern Hi-Fi & Stereo Digest, author Ian G. Masters tells how the experts tested the tape of ex-President Nixon's June 20, 1972, conversation with aide H.R. Haldeman — the one having the 18-minute gap. Using a chemical solution that renders the magnetic patterns on a tape visible, they could photograph this distinctive signal and tell where and how often the tape recorder had been switched into the recording mode—thus erasing the previous conversation.

Speaking of Haldeman, journalist I.F. Stone writes in the New York Review of Books that Haldeman first suggested coupling a presidential pardon of the Watergate conspirators with general amnesty for Vietnam War draft evaders. Stone claims President Ford's actions resemble the amnesty proclamations Haldeman proposed for President Nixon during his last days in office.

Esquire, in comparing bottled drinking water, turns its nose up at the public stuff in Houston ("brackish"), Rochester, N.Y., (from a "sump pump"), and Cleveland ("wretched") It is also unhappy with New Orleans, Philadelphia, Ithaca, Phoenix, San Diego, Miami, and Chicago.

REEL DISASTER — This is a scene from the latest in a series of disaster films, Universal Pictures' "Earthquake," which shook up critics at its opening at the Mann Chinese Theater in Hollywood Friday night. A special effect used in the movie is a sound system in which the patrons hear a low register bass rumble that gives the feeling of a real trembior as Los Angeles is destroyed on the screen.

Disaster film

'Earthquake' a shocker

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — This is it, folks, "Earthquake."

The title doesn't even need an exclamation mark.

Very likely "Earthquake" will be seen by more people than have ever seen a motion picture before. It should break all records.

The movies haven't produced a film with such prolonged suspense and spectacular action in their long history.

Neither the parting of the Red Sea in "The Ten Commandments" nor the chariot race in "Ben-Hur" can match it for excitement. Universal Pictures appears to have captured an actual temblor as it happens.

This is the story of Los Angeles torn asunder by the most terrifying earthquake in history. And miraculously, director Mark Robson manages not to let the spectacular special effects overwhelm the human stories involving the all-star cast which includes Charlton Heston, Ava Gardner, George Kennedy, Lorne Greene and Genevieve Bujold.

Still, the real star is the roaring, shattering earth itself loosing a holocaust of dimensions never before attempted on the screen.

The special effects are astonishing in that veteran movie critics are unable to determine where the real action breaks off and miniatures take over.

Dizzying visual effects are abetted by a sound system, which Universal Pictures calls "Sensurround," a low register, bass rumble that apparently affects the inner ear. The result is a slight vertigo which gives one the feeling that the theater is actually trembling.

In fact one scene in the picture involves patrons in a theater when the massive temblor strikes.

Flood waters, downed power lines, buckling freeways, toppled skyscrapers, flying debris, fissures in the earth, raging fires and all the other nightmarish manifestations of an apocalyptic earthquake are represented.

The senses are overwhelmed at every turn by the possibility of such a disaster striking a modern city, especially in view of the Feo. 9, 1971, Los Angeles quake which shell-shocked the community.

Latest of the so-called disaster or survival films, "Earthquake" makes its forerunners pale by comparison.

The most cynical of critics is made to ponder on the puny physical resources of man against the elemental rage of nature

There is virtually no place to run. Nowhere to hide. Tornadoes, hurricanes and cyclones are insignificant in their destructive powers compared with the devastation unleashed by a monstrous earthquake.

Robson and company have not simply shown a quake and its aftermath. "Earthquake" is a series of catastrophes, human and otherwise, that does not give the audience time to catch its breath.

The motion picture is enough to frighten the fainthearted newcomer into moving away from Los Angeles and the omnipresent San Andreas fault.

On the other hand, "Earthquake" is certain to draw more people —faint-hearted or otherwise — to the box office than any film in the past 50 years.

MIKAIL BARYSHNIKOV, star dancer with the Kirov Ballet until defecting in Canada last June, said he left Russia not because of disillusionment with his mother country but to seek greater fulfillment. Some dance critics say the 26-year-old may some day outrank the great Nuryev.

How's that again?

Laws regulating hearing aid salesmen were passed in Arkansas, Florida, Maryland, Montana, North Dakota and Ohio during 1969.

Besides the Alamo

San Antonio, Tex., is one of the nation's key military centers, with Brooks Air Force Base, Fort Sam Houston, Kelly Air Force Base, Lackland Military Training Center and Randolph Air Force Base all located within 20 miles of the city.

Ronfeldt Chorale sings at Spring

By RALPH PIERCE

Departing from its plan of importing artists from distant places, the Pomona Valley Community Concert Association presented our own local Louis Ronfeldt Chorale in Spring Auditorium, Ontario, Thursday night for the second program of the current series. It was an informal evening of music making and both the audience and the performers seemed to enjoy themselves.

For the first half of the program the chorale was assisted by a small instrumental group in music of Faure, Monteverdi, Vivaldi and Bach. Larry Wong offered very musical accompaniments throughout the evening either on the over-amplified harpsichord or the piano.

The second half of the program, which seemed to be full of changes from the one printed, presented solos by Wong at the piano and soprano soloists Georgia Warden and Mildred Herkelrath. The concluding choral group offered the cycle, "In Windsor Forest," of Ralph Vaughan Williams, selections from "Die Fledermaus" by Strauss and concluded with a contemporary folk-like setting, "The Lees of Old Virginia." A good-sized audience offered generous applause to the chorale and the soloists.

Barbershoppers to host singers from Riverside

The Pomona Valley chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America will be host to the chorus and quartets of the Riverside chapter at a meeting at the First Christian Church, 1751 N. Park Ave., Pomona, at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The concert is open to all singers interested in joining SPEBSQSA.

The Pomona chapter is now in the second week of a three-week membership drive, aiming at a 100-man chorus to take part in regional and national competitions

SPEBSQSA is a non-profit organization dedicated to the four-part harmonies of the gaslight era. It helps support the Institute of Logopedics in Wichita, Kan., a national organization for adults and children with speech problems. SPEBSQSA's motto is "We sing, that they shall speak." In the past 10 years the society has contributed more than $1 million to the Institute.

DAINTY DANCER—Tiffany McNeil of Cucamonga will take part in "Les Patineurs" (The Skaters) and "The Nutcracker" to be offered by the Golden State Ballet Theater in the Citrus College auditorium at 2:30 p.m. next Sunday. Tickets at $2 can be purchased at the Ballet Theater, 102 N. Citrus Ave., Covina.

Golden State Ballet to appear at Citrus

The Golden State Ballet Theater of Covina will present "Les Patineurs" (The Skaters) and "The Nutcracker" in the Citrus College auditorium at 2:30 p.m. next Sunday.

Tiffany McNeil of Cucamonga will be soloist in "The Nutcracker."

The productions are under the direction of Marilia Walsh-Scott, artistic director and choreographer of the Ballet Theater.

"Les Patineurs" centers around a frozen lake where the dancers perform the intricate maneuvers of ice skaters. "The Nutcracker" tells of a small girl who receives an ornate nutcracker for Christmas and falls alseep and dreams colorful adventures with it.

The dancers are Belinda Bjorklund, Cindy Brown and Tess Robburts, Glendora; Andrea Aclin, Dede Aclin, Tina Gentry, Mari-Lynn Griesemer, Lisa Jordan, Michelle Landers, Bob Riebeth and Darcy Willis, Covina; Michelle Cabrera, Helen Gliniak Michelle Gorelick Mary Lynn Moon, Jeannie Niemeyer Sandy Sheneman and Tani Terry, West Covina.

STARS OF 'TOSCA'—These four singers will have prominent roles in the West End Opera Company production of "Tosca," to be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday in Spring Auditorium, Ontario. A preview of the Puccini opera for children and students will be staged at the auditorium at 7 p.m. Friday, admission free. From left are Hagop Topouzian, Scarpia; Pryor Charles Bowen, Angelotti; Kristin Peterson, Tosca, and Val Stuart, Cavaradossi. Tickets to the Saturday performance are $5 and $4, students $2.

'Tosca'

West End Opera Company to present Puccini work

The West End Opera Company will present Puccini's opera, "Tosca," in Spring Auditorium, Ontario, at 8 p.m Saturday. Tickets at $5 and $4, students $2, are on sale at local music stores and the auditorium box office.

A preview performance will be presented at Spring at 7 p.m. Friday, for children, students and chaperones. Admission is free. Clarence Sholl will provide narration.

"Tosca" is based on a play of the same name which French dramatist Victorien Sardou wrote for Sarah Bernhardt. The great actress performed in it with success. Composers Verdi and Franchetti vied for the libretto, but it was awarded to Puccini, and the opera opened in Rome Jan. 14, 1900. It was an instant success

Soprano Kristin Peterson of Los Angeles will sing the title role in the West End Opera production. She has performed with numerous companies and opera workshops in Los Angeles, Beverly Hills, Glendale, Santa Monica and Laguna Beach.

The role of Tosca's lover, Mario Cavaradossi, will be sung by tenor Val Stuart, a faculty member at UC Riverside and the University of Redlands. Stuart has won San Francisco and Metropolitan Opera auditions and has performed widely throughout the United States, South America and the Far East. He has been guest soloist with the Roger Wagner Chorale.

Hagop Topouzian, recognized as Turkey's foremost tenor, will sing the baritone role of Scarpia, the villainous police chief. Topouzian's wide range permits him to handle both tenor and baritone parts, and his repertoire includes more than 20 leading roles.

The part of Cesare Angelotti, the political prisoner, will be sung by baritone Pryor Charles Bowen of Palm Desert, Bowen, a film actor as well as a singer, is under contract to the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera. He has sung more than 40 grand opera roles.

Other featured roles will be sung by Charles Gonzales, the Sacristan; Franklin Larsen, Police Agent; Phil Moedt, Sciarrone, and Jean Paul Lavoie, the Jailer.

The oepra is conducted by Curtis L. Stearns.

GENE B. McCARTHY

Cartoonist to talk to art group

Gene B. McCarthy, editorial cartoonist for the San Bernardino Sun-Telegram, will be speaker at a meeting of the Chaffey Community Art Association at the Chaffey Communities Cultural Center Museum 523 W. 18th St., Upland, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

McCarthy's work has been reprinted widely and he was three times nominated for a Pulitzer Prize. His work is included in "Best Cartoons of 1972," and is represented in three presidential libraries — the Harry S. Truman Library in Independence, Mo., the Eisenhower Museum and Library in Abilene, Kan., and the Johnson Library in Austin, Tex. A display of his cartoons is on view at the Montreal, Canada, Museum of the Arts.

McCarthy will talk on "The Life of a Political Cartoonist." He will display some of his work and explain how he gets ideas for cartoons.

JOHN WALKER

Organ recital to be offered in La Verne

John Walker, organist of the First United Methodist Church in Palo Alto, will present a recital at the La Verne Church of the Brethren at 8 p.m. Tuesday. Admission is free.

Walker is chairman of the Menlo College music department and has been acting university organist and lecturer in music at Stanford University and a faculty member at the American Conservatory of Music, Chicago.

In Palo Alto, where he is dean of the local chapter of the American Guild of Organists, Walker manages the Friday Evening Concert Series and is organist for the San Francisco Bach Choir.

The evening's program will include "Dialogue sur les grands jeux," by Francois Couperin; Toccata and Fugue in F Major, by J. S. Bach; Andante con moto, by A. P. F. Boely; Chorale in E Major, by Cesar Franck; "A Triptych of Fugues," by Gerald Near; Symphony II Chorale and Scherzo by Louis Viene; and "Variations on Old Hundred," by John Knowles Paine.

Art fair scheduled at Scripps

Original ceramics, graphics, jewelry, paper cuttings, glass and fiberworks will be on exhibit and sale at the Student Art Fair on the Bowling Green at Scripps College from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Catherine McIntosh, Scripps junior, is directing. Participants are current and former Scripps students and some graduate students.

Scripps will hold its annual Student Art Sale in Seal Court by the Lang Galleries from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dec. 7 and 8.

Admission to both events is free.

GLENN CLOSE, television and theater actress, was promoted from understudy to star in Hal Prince's "Love for Love," which opened last Monday on Broadway. Miss Close replaced British actress Mary Ure, who was dismissed for undisclosed reasons.

Art work being shown at library

The Friends of the Walnut Public Library this month inaugurated a program of exhibiting the works of local artists at the library.

For November, the artist-of-the-month is Lucille Taylor of Walnut. She is showing contemporary paintings. A native of New York, Mrs. Taylor has been showing her work locally for several years. She paints in acrylic and favors florals and boats as subjects.

She is vice president of the Heights Art Association.

WFL nixes Sun playoff participation

League settles on two-game series involving top three teams

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — The World Football League Executive Committee Saturday revised the league's playoff schedule, switching from an eight-team series to a three-team, two-game showdown, a WFL spokesman said.

Terry Lee, public relations director of the Memphis Southmen, said the new schedule calls for third place Florida, 14-6, to meet second place Birmingham, 15-5, at Orlando Thursday for a semi-final game. The winner of that game will then meet league-leading Memphis in the World Bowl at Memphis Nov. 29.

The decision was made after a telephone conference among four members of the WFL Executive Committee, Lee said, and follows a suggestion Friday by Southern California General Manager Curly Morrison that the playoffs be canceled entirely.

Lee said all WFL playoff games will be televised nationally by TVS network.

Executive Committee members John Bassett of Memphis, John Bosacco of Philadelphia, Sam Battistone of Hawaii and Bill Putnam of Birmingham also agreed to a yet unscheduled WFL summit meeting in Memphis to discuss plans for next season.

"One of our most serious handicaps in 1974," said league president Don Regan, "was the little time we had to prepare for our season, but our owners and coaches will now have an opportunity to utilize the next few weeks so that our preparations for 1975 will be more secure."

Bassett, Executive Commitee chairman and owner of the league's Memphis franchise, Friday had put a damper on Morrison's suggestion that the playoffs be canceled. "As chairman of the league's Executive Committee," Bassett said Friday, "I categorically disagree with his (Morrison's) idea concerning playoffs."

But Lee said Morrison's suggestion and discussions with other league owners prompted telephone conversations by the Executive Committee beginning Saturday morning and lasting late into the afternoon. The announced new playoff schedule results.

The original playoff plans had called for eight league teams, three division leaders and five wild card teams, to participate in a quarter-finals, a semi-finals, and the World Bowl.

Morrison said Friday the playoffs should be canceled for financial reasons. "It's ridiculous to continue when we know the playoffs are going to lose us money," he said.

Ron Mix, general manager of the Storm, said he was "disappointed" that they had revised the World Football League playoff schedule, cancelling a game scheduled between Memphis and Portland next Thursday and leaving the Storm out of the finals.

"It's another blow to our players," said Mix. "They don't deserve it.

"They've worked too hard, sometimes without pay. The only reason the players even played the last couple of games was on the possibility they might get some money in the playoffs.

"We're at the point where absolutely nothing surprises me anymore."

Mix said he felt that the future of a WFL team in Portland hinged on whether local financial support could be arranged. He said that such support probably would have to come by the end of the year, or else the players and coaches would have made other arrangements.

"I think we have laid the foundation in Portland for an investment," said Mix. "With an attendance of 22,000-25,000 per game we could come close enough to paying our bills that investors would be satisfied."

Mix said he thought the WFL would continue in operation even if Portland were to fold.

"My feeling is that the concept of another football league is a sound one," he said. "Many mistakes were made in the first year of operation, but others will profit by them and benefit."

Mix said he had alerted coach Dick Coury and the players earlier Saturday to the possibility that next Thursday's playoff game with Memphis might not be played and that the Storm's season was ended.

"A meeting was scheduled for tomorrow," he said. "But I guess that meeting won't even be necessary now."

Davis now No. 1 in Pac-8, 42-11

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Flashy Anthony Davis became the No. 1 scorer in Pacific-8 football history with his 46th and 47th career touchdowns Saturday as seventh-ranked University of Southern California ripped Washington's Huskies 42-11 to set up a Rose Bowl showdown meeting with UCLA next weekend.

In a bid to go to Pasadena, Calif., New Year's Day for a third straight year, USC, 5-0-1 in Pac-8 play, will face UCLA, 4-1-1, at the Coliseum here next Saturday.

Davis, who did not play in the final quarter, moved to within nine yards of equalling O.J. Simpson's Pac-8 rushing record of 3,423 yards. The 5-9, 185-pound USC tailback carried the ball 29 times for 147 yards, becoming the first rusher in conference history to gain 1,000 yards in three separate seasons.

The Trojans, who also had two touchdown passes thrown by Pat Haden, equalled a Pac-8 record by running its unbeaten league string to 24 games. The mark was set by California from 1947 to 1951.

Davis scored on a seven-yard pass from Haden and a one-yard run late in the second quarter to give him 282 career points, snapping the mark of 277 points set by Cal's Duke Morrison in 1920-22.

Haden, who passed for only four touchdowns in USC's first eight games, hit sophomore flanker Shelton Diggs on a 36-yard TD pass with only 4:17 gone in the game and the stage was set for USC's 10th win in a row over Washington.

The Trojans, who were three touchdown favorites, scored twice in a 3:50 span late in the first half for a 21-0 lead 51 seconds before the end of the intermission.

Washington freshman Steve Robbins kicked a 46-yard field goal with one second remaining in the first half. The Trojans scored their second touchdown of the game with 4:41 left in the first half on Davis' seven-yard TD scamper after catching a pass from Haden at the line of scrimmage.

USC safetyman Marvin Cobb, who intercepted a Dennis Fitzpatrick pass in the opening quarter, recovered a Willie Hendricks fumble on the Huskies' 25 to set up USC's third touchdown.

Davis slammed into the end zone from one-yard out after gaining five on the play before on a fourth-and-one situation from the Washington six.

Fitzpatrick, Washington's starting quarterback, suffered a mild concussion in the first half and did not return. He was replaced by Cliff McBride, who scored the Huskies' only touchdown on a four-yard keeper with 2:35 left to play.

Dwight Ford scored on a 36-yard run in the fourth quarter while Allen Carter tallied from one yard out and Vince Evans scored on a three-yard run in the third period for USC.

Davis, a second-team all-America last season, increased his rushing total for the year to 1,111 yards and his career to 3,414 yards.

Robin Earl, Washington's 6-5, 240-pound fullback, rushed for 54 yards on 13 carries.

The victory gave USC a 7-1-1 record overall while the Huskies dropped to 2-4 in the Pac-8 and 4-6 overall.

Redlands mars homecoming for LaVerne, 21-8

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

La Verne College did its best, but it wasn't quite good enough against powerful Redlands Saturday.

The Bulldogs marred the Leos' homecoming game by defeating the Leopards 21-8 behind the running of David D'Arcangelo and the passing and scrambling of quarterback Chuck Hiroto.

D'Arcangelo, a 5-9, 175 pound freshman, carried the ball 25 times and gained 101 yards and scored two touchdowns. Hiroto hit on nine of 19 passes for 109 yards and a touchdown. He also scrambled for 34 yards. The Bulldogs netted 216 yards in the first half, only 10½ yards less than the Leos had been giving up for entire games.

The win sets up a battle for the conference title at Redlands next week between the Bulldogs and Whittier, each with 4-0 records. La Verne now is 2-2 in conference play and slipped below the .500 level, 4-5, for the season.

The La Verne touchdown came with about six minutes left in the third quarter. The Leo defense had held the Bulldogs at the Redlands 11 yard line.

Brian DeRoo, another freshman star, got off his only bad punt, a 30-yarder which Curtis Frick gathered in at the 41 and returned to the 34.

Roy VanderKallen carried twice and picked up 11 yards the first time and one the second. Frick gained two more to the 20. VanderKallen carried the next time and Redlands was penalized half the distance to the goal line for a personal foul. Frick smashed through the Redlands defenders for 10 yards and the touchdown.

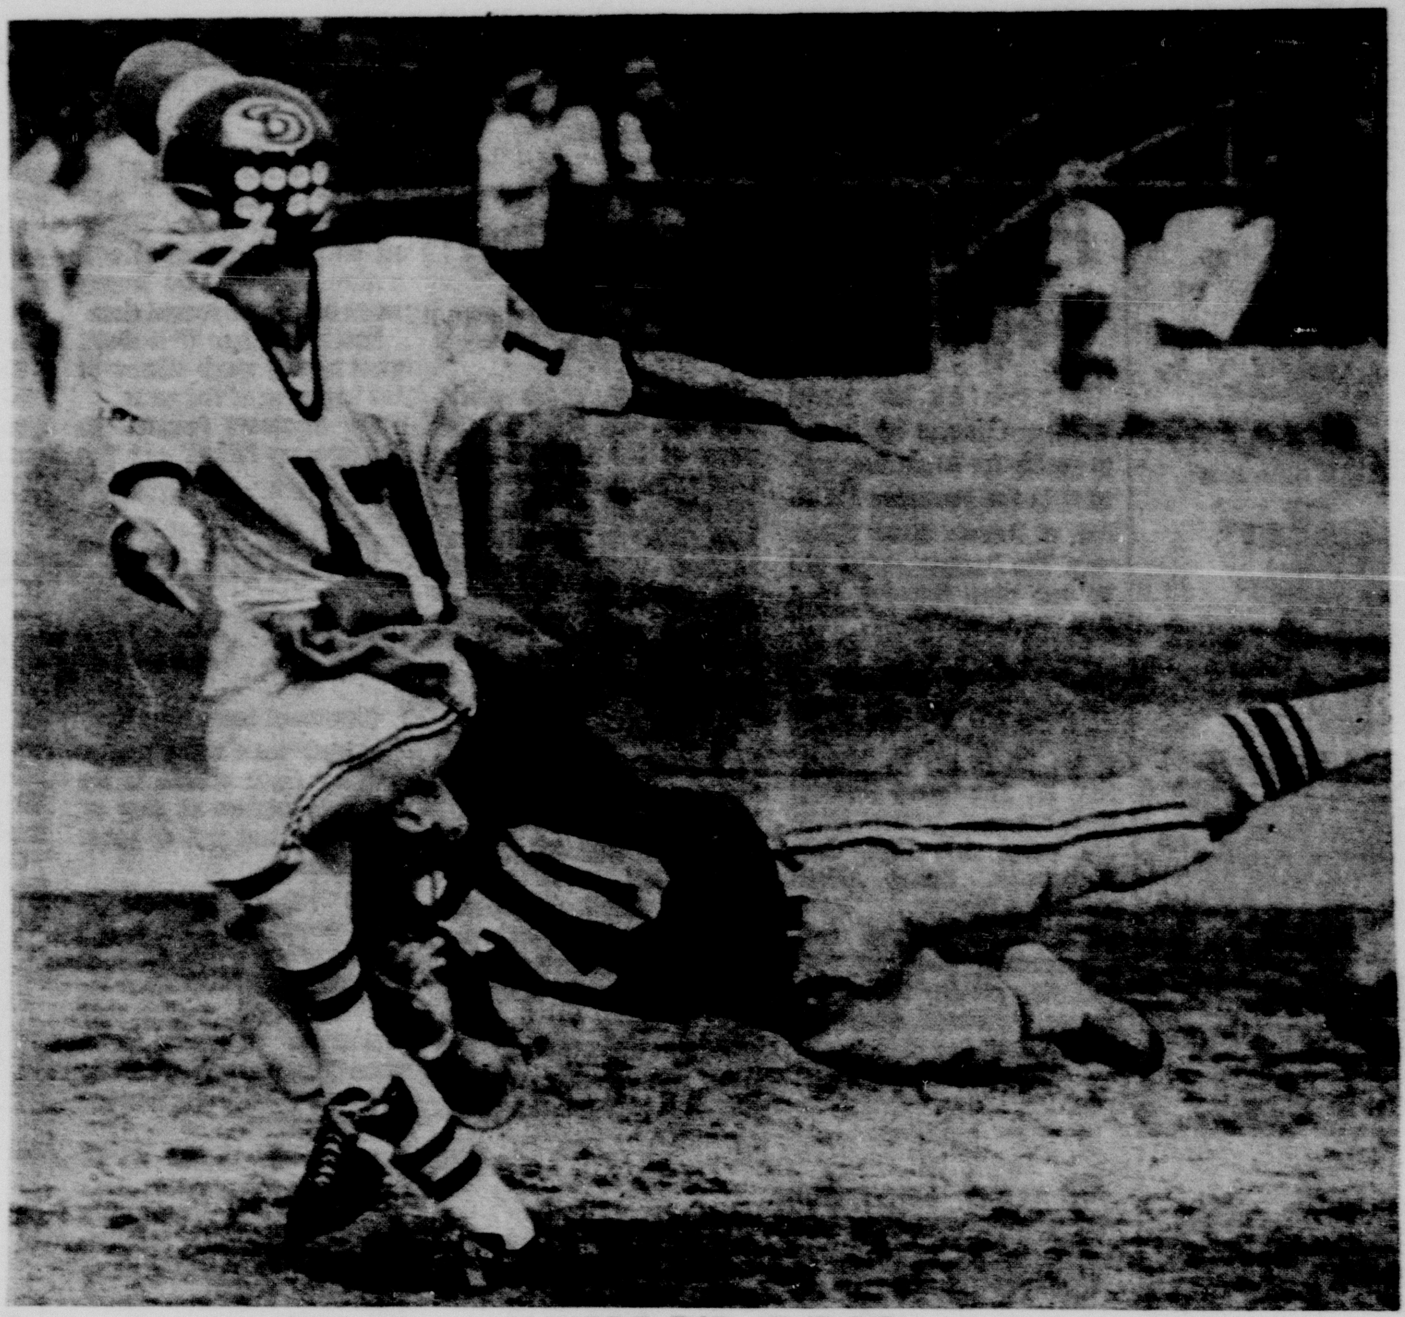
Cowboys ruin Garey's bid



WHERE DID IT GO?

San Dimas High quarterback Kevin Pokrajac (No. 17) loses the handle of the football as Bonita High's Ross Thompson tries to pull down the Saints' QB. San Dimas upset the previously unbeaten and third-ranked Bearcats, 14-0, at Mt. San Antonio College. (See story, Page 34)

Chino holds off Vikings' rally; Devils win title

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

Chino High created havoc with the San Antonio League football standings Saturday night at Mt. San Antonio College.

It won!

The victory denied Garey High a homecoming win and a share of the league title, and enabled Pomona High to ease into its first SAL grid championship (The Devils have been co-champs on two occasions).

The Cowboys played advantageous ball, parlaying three Garey mistakes into two touchdowns and a field goal and then staved off a fired-up Viking comeback bid in a 16-14 victory.

Chino's win may have solved one problem — sending co-champs to the CIF playoffs, but it created another obstacle.

With the Vikings knocked out of a playoff berth, Upland, Ganesha, Damien and Claremont move into a tie for second place . . . all vying for that second place post-season spot.

League officials will probably meet Monday and determine which of the four teams will get the playoff nod.

Linebacker John Cortez recovered a Garey fumble midway through the first quarter to set up Chino's first score.

Seven plays and 30 yards later, quarterback Sam Souza dove into the end zone from a yard out. Stan Surina's extra point gave the visiting Cowboys a 7-0 lead.

Late in the second quarter, Surina burst through the Viking line and blocked Richard Barton's punt with the ball rolling dead on the Garey 23.

Seven plays later, Surina booted a 24-yard field goal to give the Cowboys their 10-0 halftime lead.

Pac-8 showdown next weekend

Bruins capitalize, 33-14

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — UCLA converted a pass interception and a fourth-down Oregon State gamble that failed into two third-period touchdowns and went on the beat the Beavers, 33-14, Saturday in a Pac-8 football game.

The victory kept alive UCLA's Rose Bowl hopes for next week's final conference game against USC.

Russell Charles, with two touchdowns, and Eddie Ayers, with one, were the offensive stars for the Bruins.

After being tied 7-7 at the half, UCLA cornerback John Nanoski picked off an Alvin White pass at the OSU 27 and returned to the Beaver 18. Four plays later Bruin quarterback Jeff Dankworth scored on a sneak from the one.

Six minutes later an Oregon State gamble failed on fourth down and two feet to go at the Beaver 48. Four plays later Ayers found daylight and ran 26 yards for a score and a 20-7 Bruin lead.

A fumble killed the Beavers at the Bruin 26 early in the fourth period and UCLA responded with a 74 yard drive that saw Charles running 29 for the touchdown. That score put the contest out of reach for the Beavers, although they retaliated with a drive with Dick Mauer scoring from the one.

'DANDY' PASS

Roy "Dandy Vandy" VanderKallen (R) of La Verne gets set to unleash a pass. Richard Pavlich (78) of the Leos gets set to block Floyd Braggs (75) of Redlands. Redlands defeated Leos, 21-8.

Hawks stop Kings at 10

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Chicago Black Hawks used second period goals by Cliff Koroll and Stan Mikita and the clutch goal tending of Tony Esposito Saturday night to end Los Angeles' unbeaten streak at 10 games with a 2-1 victory over the Kings.

The setback was only the second of the NHL season in 18 games for the Division 3 leaders.

The slumping Black Hawks ended a five-game drought on the road by scoring for the first time since the third period of a 6-4 loss to Buffalo on Nov. 6.

Koroll set up Mikita's sixth goal of the season eight minutes later as the Black Hawks sent Los Angeles goalie Rogie Vachon down to his first defeat in 12 matches.

Mounties take 59-0 thrashing from Fullerton

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — In the 31 years MSAC and Fullerton have been playing football, there probably never was a game played like Saturday night's debacle.

The Mounties lost for the 11th time in a row to the Hornets by giving up the ball six times on four fumbles and two pass interceptions in a 59-0 rout before 3,043 fans rattling around Anaheim Stadium.

The loss knocked MSAC out of first place in the South Coast standings and made Fullerton the favorite with only one game left on the schedule.

The Mounties, 2-2 can only hope for a possible tie if they win next Saturday at Mesa College in San Diego. Orange Coast College a 14-3 winner over Santa Ana Saturday, shares the top spot with Fullerton. both have 3-1 records.

MSAC was out of the game Saturday night before the first period was over. Fumbles by Binky Benton, Greg Salyers and Nick Howard, and a 30-yard punt return by Fullerton's Kent Sanders were converted into 28 points by the Hornets and it got worse for the Mounties from there.

UCLA wins soccer tourney

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Firooz Fowzi scored both goals Saturday in giving UCLA a 2-0 win over USC and the championship of the first annual Pacific-8 soccer tournament.

In the consolation game, Oregon State defeated Oregon 3-0.

Rams can clinch division title today

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The New Orleans Saints, fighting to block Los Angeles from winning a division title, will also try to make up a 26-0 grudge when the Rams meet the Saints today.

If the Rams (7-2) defeat or tie New Orleans, now 3-6, they can become the first NFC team to take a division title this year.

But Los Angeles coach Chuck Knox said the Rams would handle the game without any special efforts.

"We must play one game at a time," he said. "The fact that it would clinch the crown is merely incidental."

At least Saints' quarterback Archie Manning should be getting better protection from Don Morrison this time than he did during the New Orleans-Los Angeles 26-0 match earlier this year.

Morrison missed the entire preseason with a sprained ankle and started prematurely against the Rams, allowing defensive tackle Jack Youngblood several shots at Manning.

"The last time we played he got through me quite a bit," said Morrison "He just ran past me. But I think he'll find things a little different this time. I don't think he'll find it so easy any more."

"He's a real fiery, gung-ho guy who never says die during a game," Morrison said of Youngblood. "Even though he's very strong, he relies on his quickness and speed more. He's more of a finesse end.

"I've had good games against him in the past, and I'm confident I'll do better this time, if I'm given the chance. I'm in better shape now, and I'm looking forward to the rematch."

The third-year offensive tackle was just able to rely on his ankle when he dislocated an elbow playing against Claude Humphrey of Atlanta.

"I've never been so injured before in my life," said Morrison. "I've never had so much as a hangnail until this year. Now it seems like I've never been healthy."

Permatex qualifying begins at OMS today

Sixty-nine late model sportsman drivers will be out to qualify for 50 starting positions in the Permatex 200 today at Ontario Motor Speedway. The Permatex race will be run next Saturday at 1 p.m.

It's all part of one of the biggest racing packages of the year. The highlight of the week will be the first running of the Times 500 on Sunday, Nov. 24. The Grand National stock car race features Richard Petty, A.J. Foyt, Cale Yarborough, Bobby Allison and David Pearson.

The Grand National cars will practice Thursday with qualifying set for Friday afternoon. Additional qualifying will be held Saturday morning before the Permatex race.

The $20,000, 80-lap sportsman race will bring together many of the top drivers in California. Among the leading contenders for the victory are Ivan Baldwin of Highland, Hershell McGriff of Bridal Veil, Oreg., Bill Spencer of Pomona, Jack Roberts of Rialto and the Esau family (George, Ron and Larry) of San Diego.

The Times 500 All-Star Music Festival, hosted by KHJ's disc jockeys and starring 10 outstanding groups, will begin at 7 o'clock Saturday evening in the infield.

Sunday morning's pre-race pageantry starts at 8:30 with a parade and a series of special demonstrations with high-speed bikes, a 10-ton truck, mini-cars and gliders. The Times 500 is scheduled to start at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Owls nip Saddleback

Bob Cox's 97-yard interception return ignited a fourth quarter comeback as Citrus edged Saddleback, 29-28, Saturday night at Citrus College.

Leonard Player's strong rush forced Saddleback quarterback Marty Mikkelson to throw short. Cox grabbed the errant pass at the three and sped down the sidelines for the six pointer with 5:54 to play. The Owls failed on a bid for two points and trailed 28-23.

On the next series Mikkelson was again intercepted, this time by Ben Ligon at the Saddleback 33. Herbert Holmes picked up 10 yards on a fourth-and-10 play to the 21 and scored from the one, three plays later to give Citrus its one point victory.

Holmes finished with 162 yards on 16 carries while Ed White added 105 yards on 13 totes and scored on a 15-yard run in the second stanza.

Saddleback was paced by Mark Dobris who scored on runs of two, one and one and added another TD on a 10-yard pass from Mikkelson.

The Owls host unbeaten Grossmont (two ties) next Saturday night.

San Diego edged Chaffey College, 14-9, in another Mission Conference in a contest marred by 12 turnovers.

San Diego lost the ball on one fumble, recovered by Rick Godinez, and had five intercepted, three by Godinez and two by John Gibson.

Chaffey fumbled eight times, losing the ball on five occasions.

Mike Shelby gave the Knights a 7-0 first quarter lead when he fell on a Rick Carr fumble in the end zone. Jerry Martinez' 32-yard field goal for the Panthers cut the deficit to 7-3 early in the third stanza.

Ron Means scored on a one yard run to give San Diego a 14-3 lead and Chaffey came back with a 12-yard scoring pass from Jim Lillywhite to Carr with 43 seconds left in the game.

Saints for CIF berth

S.D. upsets Bonita

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

San Dimas High did something Saturday afternoon at Mt. San Antonio College that no other team has been able to do all year.

The Saints, capitalizing on two Bonita mistakes early in the ball game, defeated the previously unbeaten and third ranked Bearcats, 14-0.

The San Dimas victory just may put the Saints into the post-season CIF playoffs next weekend, going as a third place team from the Hacienda League. The CIF, for certain, will be accepting league champion Bonita and runnerup Royal Oak into post-season play. The questoin is, whether the CIF officials will have an at-large berth waiting for the Saints.

The loss by Bonita really didn't do the Bearcats any damage as far as the playoff situation is concerned. The only thing in jeopardy would be their third-place ranking in 2-A competition.

San Dimas finished the regular season with a 4-2-1 record in league and a 4-4-1 mark overall. Bonita capped its pre-playoff campaign with a very successful 6-1 league mark and an 8-1 season slate.

Bonita acted as if it didn't want to play much offense at the beginning of the game.

The Bearcats fumbled on the opening kickoff and San Dimas' Fred Carter jumped on it at the Bonita 28 yard line. After the Bearcat defense stopped the Saints in four plays, another Bonita turnover gave the visitors the ball.

This time Shelly White recovered the loose Bonita pitchout on the Bearcat 17. Two plays later, Carter sprinted into the end zone from the 17. John Stegmeier added the extra point to put the Saints ahead, 7-0.

Bonita couldn't get its offense moving on its next drive, netting only one yard to its own 15.

After taking a punt from the Bearcats, San Dimas went 44 yards in six plays for its second score — Richard Burke going over from the one.

The rest of the game, as expected, was a defensive battle.

Bonita entered the game as the valley's top defensive team, allowing only an average of 5.8 points an outing. San Dimas' defense was fourth-ranked in the valley, giving up an average of 8.8 points per game.

The 14 points San Dimas scored was the most scored against Bonita in one game this season. The previous high was nine.

The San Dimas defense denied the Bearcats of one touchdown late in the third quarter.

The Bearcats, who appeared to be moving the ball better in the second half, drove from San Dimas' 42-yard line down to the Saints' three in nine plays. But on a fourth-and-one situation at the three, San Dimas' defensive end Sonny LaFargue dropped Bonita quarterback Harold Drake at the line of scrimmage — giving San Dimas possession.

"We thought our defense could hold them," stated San Dimas coach Bob Baiz afterward. "We hoped we could move the ball better offensively. We did move the ball a little in the first half. Bonita did pretty well offensively in the second half, but our defense held when it had to."

Besides winning the game, San Dimas retained the chrome-plated Smudge Pot, which goes to the winner of the annual battle between the two schools.

The Saints have had possession of that trophy for the past two seasons.

Chino denies Garey SAL championship

Neither team could muster up very much offense in the initial 24 minutes of play as each team had just 47 yards total offense.

The Cowboys dominated the third stanza by driving the length of the field only to have Surina fall short on a 31-yard field goal attempt, but capitalized moments later when Chino's Bernie Wendling recovered Doug Hughes' fumble on the Viking 24.

Rick Reidel picked up 18 yards on a third-and-20 situation and Souza gained the necessary two yards for first down on a fourth-and-two play. Three plays later Reidel went 18-yards on a draw play, with 0:47 left in the quarter, to put Chino on top 16-0.

The fourth stanza was all Garey.

Hughes ran the ensuing kickoff back 24 yards to the Viking 40, where Garey engineered its first serious march of the night. It took 12 plays before Stanley Webster swept right end from the three for Garey's first score.

Webster came right back with the same play (sweep) for the two-point conversion to cut the deficit to 16-8.

Anthony Green, three plays later, recovered a Souza fumble on the Chino 33.

Hughes gained two and Webster netted 13 yards for a first down at the Cowboy 18. Dana Hutchison then followed tackle John Sargent's block at the line of scrimmage, raced up the middle and then broke to the left sidelines to complete the 18-yard TD jaunt. Webster's bid for the two-point run failed, leaving the Vikings behind 16-14 with 5:54 to play.

Garey threatened one more time with 1:39 to play but Webster's try for a first down at the Chino 40, on fourth-and-two, fell short.

Chino winds up the '74 campaign with a 3-4 league mark and 5-4 overall while the Vikings finished at 3-4-2 overall, and 3-3-1 in league.

Lakers fall to Portland

PORTLAND (UPI) — Larry Steele and Barry Clemens ignited a fourth-quarter Portland charge Saturday night to give the Trail Blazers their third straight win, a 112-99 NBA victory over Los Angeles.

Steele tied an NBA record of 10 steals and Clemens hit all five shots as Portland outscored the Lakers 29-18 in the final period.

The victory gave the Blazers their longest winning streak since their first season five years ago.

Steele, who led the NBA in steals last year, also was credited with 12 points, 11 rebounds and 9 assists in sparking the Blazers to their eighth win of the year.

MSAC thrashed by Hornets

Benton, saw action only in first half. Needing only 49 yards to reach 1,000 for the season, he picked up just 22 on nine carries in the first 30 minutes.

Before the half was over Fullerton had scored twice more and the Mountie kicking specialist Mando Herrera was ejected from the game for fighting. Herrera's bout with Richard Hernandez took place as Sanders returned a punt 78 yards for an apparent touchdown.

Herrera had the last shot at stopping Sanders but was hit hard by Hernandez and both players came up swinging. Herrera left the game and the touchdown was called back by offsetting penalties.

The play went over and Art Escajeda punted back to Sanders who returned the ball 30 yards to the Fullerton 49, from where the Hornets drove to another touchdown.

Fullerton used three quarterbacks in the game. Bob Acosta, a tranfer from UCLA, got the biggest share of 302 passing yards for the Hornets.

He completed nine of ten passes for 137 yards and two touchdowns. He added two TDs rushing. Backup QB Ron Anton completed five-of-five for 155 yards.

Despite the lopsided score, the statistics favored Fullerton only slightly. The Hornets had an edge in first downs, 14 to 13 and rushing yards 140 to 135. The biggest margin for Fullerton was in passing yards, 302 to 44. The big difference, of course, was in turnovers, the Mounties losing the ball six times to once for Fullerton on a fumble.

The Mounties threatened only twice all night, driving to the Fullerton 13 and one-yard lines late in the fourth period. They were denied each time by a stubborn Hornet defense.

Fullback Howard emerged as the leading ball-carrier for MSAC with 71 yards on 18 carries. Tailback Doug McDermott, playing in place of Benton, gained 42 yards on 11 carries.

The Hornets used 11 rushers who gained 139 yards. Mike Van Daele got the biggest share with 51 yards on 12 carries but Tom Thigpen scored three touchdowns by gaining only 13 yards on six carries.

Broncos fall in finale at Hayward

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

HAYWARD — Cal Poly saved its worst display of football this season for its finale here Saturday afternoon.

Maybe the Bay Area does something to the Broncos.

Two of Poly's three losses this season were suffered in this area, by teams which must be considered inferior personnel-wise.

San Francisco State handed Poly its first loss, 21-17 earlier this season while Cal State Hayward finished it with a stunning 21-7 win Saturday.

Poly looked sluggish in the season ender and especially on offense, as the Broncos' highly-touted offensive machine sputtered all afternoon on a chilly, overcast day.

Cal State Hayward intercepted seven Poly passes to continually frustrate any Bronco offensive hopes. Defensive back Al Spitzer picked off five of the passes himself — a Hayward school record — while teammate Bob Dominques intercepted the other two.

Senior quarterback Jim Zorn, one of the nation's leaders in passing and total offense, completed his record-breaking two-year career at Poly on a down note as he was able to complete only ten of 23 passes for 86 yards with five interceptions.

However, freshman reserve QB Sammy Ross didn't fare any better in having two of his four passes intercepted by the host Pioneers.

"It was a fiasco," Poly coach Andy Vinci said at the conclusion of his first season. "I never had a team suffer so many interceptions. We weren't mentally ready today and our line couldn't block on offense. I'm embarassed about this."

Poly started out strong in marching 57 yards in 13 plays with Zorn scoring his 11th touchdown of the season on a four-yard run.

But it was all Hayward after that.

The Pioneers (3-5) came right back with an 80-yard march of their own climaxed by a 28-yard touchdown run by quarterback Mike Jacinto to quickly tie it.

Hayward took a 14-7 halftime lead when Jacinto scored again on a 10-yard gallop.

The Pioneers put the game away with 3:52 left in the contest when halfback Casey Clinger ran 16 yards for the third and final Hayward touchdown.

Hayward rolled up 294 yards in total offense to Poly's 243. The big difference was in the turnovers.

Freshman halfback Mike Harris was Poly's top offensive star, rushing for 82 yards on 25 carries. Flanker Andy Sanchez, the nations' NCAA Division II leader in receptions, caught five passes for 25 yards.

Vinci isn't overjoyed by his team's 5-3-2 record even though it is the schools best since 1962.

"This is my worst record in coaching," Vinci said. "And one of my most frustrating seasons. We have to get busy recruiting to correct this next season."

Leopards come close in third quarter drive

VanderKallen swept left end for the two-point conversion and the Leos trailed by only six points. But John Karns' onsides kickoff attempt went only nine yards — six forward and three backwards and Redlands had the ball at the Leopards' 43.

The defense came through again and held the Bulldogs to three yards in three plays, forcing another punt.

Neither team could do anything and seven more punts followed. However DeRoo was really on his game by this time and the 6-4, 190-pound split end got off successive punts of 58, 55 and 71 yards to push the Leos backward.

The last one put La Verne on its own seven-yard line. Frick picked up five yards in two carries and a Randy Brown pass was nearly intercepted.

John Karns punted to Roy Chein at the Redlands 48. D'Arcangelo carried the ball seven straight times. His longest gain in the drive was 26 yards and the shortest was one yard. It was a one-yard run that put the ball in the end zone.

Don Damschen kicked his third straight extra point and the game was out of reach for the Leos. They threatened once, getting down to the Redlands 20, but Ricky Tedford's pass was intercepted to kill the last threat.

"Next week we'll just be playing a football game which is a lot more fun," said Ortmayer. "When you're trying to win something besides it's not much fun."

La Verne plays at Claremont-Mudd (2-5) Saturday in the season's finale.

VanderKallen was the leading rusher for the game. "Dandy Vandy" picked up 111 yards on 24 carries. He also completed one of three passes for 15 yards.

Cal recovers fumble to win

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Steve Bartkowski, a leading candidate for All America honors, passed for more than 300 yards for the second straight week Saturday but it took a fumble recovery by Rich Booth with Washington State driving for a touchdown at the two yard line to save a 37-33 victory for the Golden Bears.

Trailing by six points with 1:30 left to play, quarterback Chuck Peck, who had directed a brilliant running game, dove for the goal line but fumbled and Booth fell on the ball to kill the Cougar's chance for an upset.

Bartkowski completed 21 of 29 passes for 304 yards to beat Craig Morton's school record easily and now has passed for 2,262 yards this season.

Webb's Gauls finish season whipping Lutheran 54-14

Webb School finished its' season with a florish Saturday afternoon, bopping visiting LaVerne Lutheran 54-14 in the Arrowhead League finale for both teams.

Webb took a 40-0 lead at the half and coasted home to victory over the Trojans. A spirited running attack, led by Bob Galente's 97 yards rushing, led the Gauls to the easy win.

Galente scored twice in the one-sided contest while Doug McCowan rushed for three scores. Wally Pitts caught two touchdown aerials for the Gauls, while Paul Richards completed Webb scoring by intercepting a Trojan pass and returning it 70 yards for a TD.

La Verne finally got rolling in the final period, scoring on two Steve Yager to Dale Pomo passes, the last one covering 80 yards.

On the game Webb outgained the Trojans 486 yards to 268. Yager had 183 yards passing for Lutheran, but also suffered three interceptions at the hands of the alert Webb defense.

Webb finishes 1974 with a 3-3-1 Arrowhead slate and a 3-4-1 overall mark. La Verne's final A.L. standing was 2-5 and the Trojan's overall ledger was 2-7.

Pomona-Pitzer throws scare at Poets, 31-27

By MIKE BROSSART
P-B Correspondent

The Pomona-Pitzer Sagehens threw a scare into the Whittier Poets football team Saturday, but the Sagehens' late fourth quarter surge was not enough to offset their earlier offensive mistakes. So Pomona-Pitzer lost their Homecoming game, 31-27.

The Sagehens managed 409 yards of total offense to the Poets' 340 yards, but Whittier turned an interception and a blocked punt into touchdowns to slip by the Hens.

Pomona-Pitzer quarterback Larry Cenotto completed 19 of 29 passes for 319 yards and two touchdowns. He was sacked five times and threw three interceptions.

The first quarter was scoreless, but the Poets threatened twice. However, running back Dan Chikami fumbled to the Sagehens both times. But the quarter ended with Whittier on the Sagehen five yard line, and Poet running back Lionel Punchard scored 16 seconds into the second period. Nick Seja kicked the extra point.

The Hens tied the score 10 minutes later on a 10-yard rollout by Cenotto and John Buzzard's PAT kick. Cenotto's run was the second play following an interception by Nick Dialynas. The score remained 7-7 until halftime.

The third quarter proved disastrous for the Sagehens. In spite of five possessions the Hens moved past their own 30 yard line only once. On that occasion Cenotto moved his team to their 40, but an offensive pass interference call moved the ball back to the Hen 25 yard line.

During the third quarter Buzzard punted four times for the Sagehens, but the Poets blocked two of the punts and the other two went for just 28 and 29 yards. Whittier linebacker Bill Dober blocked the first of the two abortive punts and fell on it himself in the end zone for six points with 9:55 remaining in the third period.

Then with 1:25 left in the quarter Poet running back George Todd scored on a one yard burst. Seja's kick gave the Poets a 21-10 lead.

Following a 20 yard TD run by Chris Dialynas for the Sagehens and a 26 yard field goal by Seja for the Poets, Whittier defensive back Harry Dolen picked off a Cenotto pass and breezed 31 yards for a touchdown. With a 31-13 Whittier lead and only 6:50 remaining, the game appeared to be all but over.

But Cenotto hit Biff Sherman with a 38 yard TD pass at 4:15 and Joe Budenholzer with a 28 yarder at 2:10 to pull the Sagehens within four points.

The Sagehen defense then forced the Poets to punt, and the Hens got the ball on their own 43 with 50 seconds left. But Dolen picked off another Cenotto throw to kill the Sagehens' hopes.

Running back Dan Chikami starred for the Poets with 110 yards in 28 carries.

Stags escape cellar by besting Occidental

Claremont-Mudd escaped the cellar in the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Association Saturday afternoon, dumping visiting Occidental College 14-6.

The win leaves Claremont-Mudd with a 1-3 SCIAC mark, while Oxy remains winless at 0-4 in league and 0-7 overall.

Occidental took a 6-0 lead early in the contest and held that advantage until the third quarter. The early Oxy touchdown came on a 65-yard drive, Ross Buchannen going the final 25 yards to paydirt.

The Stags finally got untracked in the third quarter following an Oxy fumble which set C-M up at midfield.

Claremont drove the 50 yards to the end zone in six plays, the big gainer being a 31-yard pass from Larry Schaumleffel to Ed Phee. Freshman fullback Tyrone Tallie took it in from the two for the Stags and Jon Begerow's PAT boot gave C-M a 7-6 edge.

The Stags put the contest on ice in the final period when a 45-yard march resulted in a Mike McGehee three-yard TD run, putting C-M on top 14-6.

On the contest Stag quarterbacks Schaumleffel and Larry Satterfield connected only two of five passes for 38 yards but the Stags rushing attack piled up 251 net yards. Claremont held the edge in total offense, 289 yards to 226, with Stag halfback Billy Nash leading the way with 119 yards rushing on 22 carries.

Unfortunately for Claremont, Nash injured his ankle in the late going and is a doubtful performer as the Stags tackle La Verne College next Saturday in Claremont-Mudd's homecoming game.

Yacht race enters final leg

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sorcery was in the lead as freshening breezes in the Gulf of California greeted the first six yachts around Cape San Lucas Saturday on the final 200-mile leg of the 1,023-mile Los Angeles to Mazatlan yacht race.

First around the Cape was Jacob Wood's Sorcery from Marina del Rey, Calif., followed by Bob Beauchamp's Dorothy O, Newport Beach, Calif., and William Niemi's Joli, Seattle, Wash.

Overall handicap leader was Al Cassel's 35-foot sloop The Terrorist from Newport Beach, Calif.

The fleet was spread out over a 200-mile area.

College football roundup

Big 10 battle set

By United Press International

Michigan, Ohio State and Notre Dame, the nation's No. 2, 3 and 4 rated college football teams, all kept their national championship hopes alive with victories Saturday, but there were red-faced bowl people elsewhere as three bowl-bound clubs were embarrassed losers.

Second-ranked Michigan routed Purdue 51-0 and No. 3 Ohio State belted stubborn Iowa 35-10 to set up their Big Ten and Rose Bowl showdown at Columbus next Saturday. Notre Dame, meanwhile, still entertaining a chance for the national title, had its expected trouble with Pittsburgh but escaped with a 14-10 victory.

Elsewhere among the top 10, No. 5 Auburn squeaked past Georgia 17-13; No. 6 Nebraska breezed over Kansas State 35-7; No. 7 Southern California destroyed Washington State 42-11; No. 9 Texas A&M belted Rice 37-7 and No. 10 Penn State bested Ohio U. 35-16. But Sugar Bowl-bound and eight-rated Florida got ambushed 41-24 by Kentucky at Lexington, while Peach Bowl-bound Texas Tech was stopped 17-10 by Baylor and Oklahoma State, headed for the Fiesta Bowl, was shocked 37-20 at home by Colorado.

Unbeaten Oklahoma, still cruising along toward a bowlless Big Eight title, routed Kansas 45-14 behind two TD passes by Steve Davis and Grant Burget's three-yard fourth quarter TD scamper on a Davis pitchout.

Injury plagued Dennis Franklin, who eventually wound up on the bench with a sprained ankle, completed seven of 12 passes for 143 yards and two touchdowns to lead Michigan's cake-walk over hapless Purdue. The Wolverines, 10-0 with Ohio State still to come next week, also got 166 yards and one TD from tailback Gordon Bell.

Ohio State shook off its shock of last week's defeat to Michigan State after the halftime with Iowa. Leading by only four points at the half, the Buckeyes (9-1), led by Champ Henson's three touchdowns, came alive in the second half to down Iowa. Archie Griffin ran for 176 yards and one TD for the Bucks, making it 21 straight games he has surpassed the 100-yard mark.

Notre Dame got a scare from fired-up, gang-tackling Pittsburgh, but quarterback Tom Clements, still hopeful of beating out Griffin for the Heisman Trophy, ran three yards for the winning TD with 2:49 to play. Pittsburgh, which had won five straight and was gunning for a Liberty Bowl bid, had taken a 10-7 lead on Carson Long's 52-yard field goal late in the third period.

David Humm hurled a pair of touchdown passes in Nebraska's runaway with Kansas State, while fullback Tom Donchez ran for three scores in Penn State's victory over Ohio U.

Florida, which will meet Nebraska in the Sugar Bowl, was riddled for 333 yards from upset-minded Kentucky which scored the last 17 points after the Gators had rallied to a 24-24 tie in the last quarter.

And in that hotly-contested Southwest Conference title chase, front-runners Texas A&M (5-1 in the SWC) and Baylor (4-1) remained that way, while Texas, still smarting from last week's shocking loss at Baylor, took it out on TCU 81-16.

Halfback Bubba Bean scored on runs of 18 and 34 yards in ninth-rated Texas A&M's romp over Rice, while Baylor eked out its 17-10 triumph over Peach Bowl-bound Texas Tech on fullback Pat McNeil's 20-yard TD burst late in the fourth quarter.

Texas, which still has a slim hope yet another conference title and Cotton Bowl berth, ran up a SWC record 81 points as quarterback Marty Akins ran for three TDs and place kicker Mike Dean added a school record 56-yard field goal.

In other games, Maryland clinched its first Atlantic Coast Conference title by swamping Duke 56-13; Michigan State downed Indiana 19-10; North Carolina outlasted Army 56-42; Georgia Tech whitewashed Navy 22-0; No. 12 Miami of Ohio extended the nation's longest winning streak to 22 by whipping Cincinnati 27-7; Vanderbilt bested Tulane 30-22; Temple stopped West Virginia 35-21; Brown upset Harvard 10-7; Tennessee got by Mississippi 29-17, and Mississippi State edged LSU 7-6.

Tee to Cup

La Verne tourney set at S.D. Canyon

BILL KIRKEBY, director for the upcoming La Verne Chamber of Commerce Tournament, announced this week that tee-off times are still available. This year's tourney is scheduled for Friday at San Dimas Canyon Golf Course.

Starting times begin at 11 a.m. Kirkeby reports that six trophies will be awarded for low gross, low net, and Calloway in men's and women's divisions.

Special awards are planned for longest drive, closest to the hole and "the longest day."

The event will be followed by a dinner at 6 p.m. at the First Federal Savings and Loan of San Gabriel Valley community room, Bonita and D streets.

The $11 entry feee covers golf and dinner. Additional dinners are $4, and golf alone is $7. Entry deadline is Wednesday at 4 p.m. The chamber's number is 593-5265.

MOUNTAIN MEADOWS Golf Course is reported to be in excellent condition these days. The 9-hole county course on the edge of the Pomona Fairgrounds has trim fairways, closely cut greens, and the entire layout is well kept. We haven't been out that way for some time, but judging from this report, it's time to revisit Mountain Meadows.

Results of the Green River Senior Invitational show that Otto Stroble won the 50-57 year-old age bracket with a net 147, Larry Bouchey was second.

In the 55-59 age section Bill Rodenberger was first. In the 60-64 group, Sol Siskin won out. Joe Schalz won the 65 and up group. Low man among the guests was Gene Andrews, who also took low gross honors with 147 for the two-day event.

Incidentally, Bouchey, always regarded as one of the best amateurs in Southern California, is scoring in the mid and high 60s out at Green Rivers, according to the monthly bulletin from the course. And what's more Gene Andrews is staying right with Bouchey.

Jerry Nist walked off with loss gross honors in the recent Progress-Bulletin annual tournament held at Green Rivers. Nist, who shot a steady 86, ended the three-year reign of Bill Duff. Joe Taylor finished second.

Paul Holder, for the second year in a row, won low net honors with a 70. Joe Firman, P-B entertainment writer and columnist, finished second with 71. Firman, incidentally, went home with a fistful of prizes, including a cash award, a bunch of golf balls and two trophies.

The team of Duff, Holder, Joe Gendron and Harry Wren won top honors in the P-B twilight league. Joe Taylor won the low gross award in league play, and Ralph Pohl won low net honors.

John Daniel is a league president and Doug Burnett is handicap chairman.

Amateur qualifying for five spots in the Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament will be held Dec. 30 at Hilcrest Country Club in Los Angeles.

The field for the 18-hole medal play tournament will be limited to the first 120 entrants with a 2 or less handicap. Deadline for entries, accompanied by the $40 entry fee, is Dec. 20.

The entry fee includes the tournament play plus two tickets good for any day at the Glen Campbell L.A. Open, to be held at Riviera Country Club, Feb. 19-23. Entry forms are available from the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce, by calling 482-1311.

The five amateur exemptions are donated by the sponsoring Junior Chamber in hopes that amateur golf will remain prominent in the L.A. Open, said Qualifying Vice Chairman Charlie Rose. Last year amateur Craig Stadler finished fifth in the tournament behind winner Dave Stockton, Sam Snead, John Mahaffey, Tom Watson and Johnny Miller.

Poly poloists capture CCAA crown easily

Cal Poly Pomona captured the California Collegiate Athletic Association water polo championship Saturday afternoon with a pair of victories.

The host Broncos ripped Cal State Northridge, 17-6, while runnerup Cal State Los Angeles was losing to Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo, 8-5.

Stan Jackson's club then routed SLO, 12-4, to wind up the two-day championships and concluded the CCAA campaign with an 8-0 ledger, and 21-7 on the season.

In other water polo matches played Saturday, CSN downed UC Riverside, 11-7, and CSLA ripped UCR 14-5.

Cal State Los Angeles finished second behind the Broncs with a 5-3 slate in the CCAA while SLO AND CSN were tied for third with 4-4 ledgers. Riverside was last, winless in eight tries.

CSLA's Andri Livian was the top goal-getter of the day with eight tallies while the Broncs' Leonard Ortiz had seven.

Cal Poly must now sit and wait. The National committee will decide and let coach Jackson and the team know by Tuesday whether or not they'll be invited to participate in the Nationals to be held at Cal State Long Beach, Nov. 22-23.

Stags reach District III finals, 3-2

Claremont-Mudd will travel to Santa Barbara Wednesday for a 1 p.m. match with Westmont for the District III soccer championship.

The Stags downed Pomona-Pitzer, 3-2, while Westmont nipped Azusa Pacific, 2-1, in Saturday's district playoff semifinals.

Conrad Creasey scored the winning goal with 40 seconds left in the match when he pushed a shot under Pomona goalie Brad Kraft.

The Sagehens dominated the opening 45 minutes of play and enjoyed a 2-0 halftime lead on goals by Paul Suter and Tom Moore but C-M bounced back by cutting the deficit to 2-1 on John Pritzlaff's goal 12 minutes into the second half. Dave Goldstein assisted on the tally.

Four minutes later Curt Skene knotted the contest at 2-2 with an unassisted goal.

Coach Steve Davis' Stags are 13-2-2 on the season.

National Football League roundup

Miami can grab East lead today

By United Press International

It's that time of year again. People are starting to think about the upcoming holidays and the Miami Dolphins are gearing up for the National Football League playoffs.

The Dolphins, the glamor team of the NFL the past two years when they lost only two games and won back-to-back Super Bowls, have been pushed into the background this season by the emerging young powers. But they didn't get pushed too far.

While the New England Patriots and the Buffalo Bills were capturing the headlines with their exciting play early in the season, the Dolphins simply kept on winning. And when both the Patriots and Bills were upset last week, there were the Dolphins again, in first place.

They can take sole possession of first in the AFC East for the first time this season today when they play host to the Bills. Both clubs are 7-2 and key injuries may play a big role.

O.J. Simpson, the Bills' rushing star, has a bad ankle, as does Miami fullback Larry Csonka, but both are expected to play. The Dolphins' Mercury Morris is still bothered with leg problems but rookie Ben Malone has been impressive as a replacement while another rookie, Nat Moore, has more than compensated for the loss of wide receiver Marlin Briscoe through injury.

A Miami victory would throw Buffalo into the torrid wild card battle which is developing between five clubs and would give the Dolphins a solid edge entering the final month of the season. The Dolphins play only two of their last four games on the road and they are against the New York Jets and Baltimore, who have won only three games between them. Miami plays Cincinnati and New England at home.

Four of Buffalo's last five games are on the road while New England has to close out the season with consecutive games against Oakland, Pittsburgh and Miami, three of the strongest clubs in the league.

Pittsburgh, its lead over Cincinnati in the AFC Central reduced to a half-game, is at Cleveland today while the Bengals are in Houston against an Oiler team which upset them three weeks ago.

And while those five fight it out for three playoff berths, Oakland could wrap up the AFC West with a victory over San Diego. The Raiders have won eight in a row since a one-point loss to Buffalo in their opener and could have a decided advantage in this year's playoffs.

Under the league's rotation system for sites, Oakland will have both post-season games at home, where rival teams have found muddy fields when no rain has fallen and footballs tend to get deflated at times.

The NFC race is also a jumble except for the West, where Los Angeles can coast in with a victory over New Orleans. St. Louis, with a one-game lead over Washington in the East, is at Philadelphia while the Redskins entertain Dallas in a game which could knock the loser out of contention.

In the Central Division, Minnesota holds a three-game edge over Detroit and can clinch at least a tie with a win over Green Bay. The Lions, meanwhile, are struggling to stay alive in the wild card race.

In other games today, the Jets are at New England, the New York Giants at Detroit, Baltimore at Atlanta and San Francisco at Chicago. Kansas City is at Denver Monday night.

Citrus finishes third, MSAC 7th in SoCal

Citrus College placed third in the small college division, and Mt. San Antonio College grabbed a seventh place in the large college division in the Southern California Community College Cross Country Championships, held at MSAC Saturday.

The Owls, by placing better than sixth as a team, qualified for next Saturday's state cross country meet at MSAC.

Citrus would have qualified three individuals for the state meet anyway. Tom Ashcraft placed 11th in 20:56 minutes, Chris Carlson claimed a 13th in 21:00; and Phillipe Brizola took a 14th in 21:02 to advance to Saturday's competition.

Glendale won the team title with 34 points, while Hancock was runnerup with 72 points. Citrus ended up with 75 points, ahead of Palomar's 112.

Glendale's Bob Thomas set a new course record by winning the race for small colleges, clocking a time of 19:26 over the four-mile course.

MSAC's team didn't qualify for the state meet, but the Mounties' Mark Lotich did. Lotich finished 13th with a time of 20:21, which was good enough for a qualification. The top 15 runners in each division advanced to the state meet, along with the top five teams.

Grossmont set a team course record (1:40:57) to win the large college title with a total of 41 points, ahead of L.A. Valley's 73 and Moorpark's 93.

L.A. Valley's Cliff Morden was the top individual in the race, clocking a 19:35.

The state meet next Saturday is scheduled to get underway at 10 a.m.

Gibson hits 3,000

Bob Gibson, the long-time ace of the St. Louis Cardinals pitching staff, reached a coveted milestone on July 17th—the 3,000th strikout of his career. He fanned Cincinnati's Cesar Geronimo for No. 3,000 to become only the second pitcher in Major League history to strikeout that many. Walter Johnson was the other.

China-Russia dispute

HONG KONG (UPI) — Five years of border talks between China and the Soviet Union have produced nothing.

Despite occasional rumors floating in diplomatic circles that each side has softened its tough stand, the fact is that the negotiators really have not even agreed on an agenda.

Prospects for any change soon are dark indeed.

Nobody expected any rapid progress when the two Communist giants agreed to stop shooting along their long, disputed border and resume formal negotiations that had been broken off in 1964.

The present series of talks resumed on Oct. 20, 1969, in Peking, at the level of deputy foreign ministers. The stage was set for these talks by a meeting the previous month at Peking airport between Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, who was returning to Moscow from Hanoi.

Chou's version of that meeting was that they agreed on a three-point formula providing for maintaining the status quo until a formal border agreement could be reached, demilitarizing the immediate border areas to avoid clashes and opening new negotiations.

The Chou-Kosygin meeting had been preceded by a series of bloody border clashes, the worst of which came in March, 1969, on an island in the Ussuri River in the extreme northeast region of China.

Shortly before the present talks began; the Chinese foreign Ministry issued a position paper. One of the key points amounted to a demand that the Soviet Union admit that more than 900,000 square miles of present Soviet territory was stolen from a weak and helpless China by the Russian czars of old.

The Chinese said they did not expect the return of all that territory, acquired by what they call "unequal treaties" imposed on Imperial China. They said they would consider the "actual conditions" at present and take the treaties as the basis for an over-all settlement.

The Soviets have indicated they never would accept the principle of "unequal treaties," particularly as a basis for present negotiations.

On their part, the Chinese claim that the Soviets not only have refused to disengage militarily but have actually reinforced border units.

Considering the hardened attitudes, it's a case of an irrestible force meeting an immovable object.

So, it's little wonder that the negotiators have not even bothered to talk, except perhaps once for tea, in more than a year.

There'll always be . . .

MARKET DRAYTON, England (UPI) — Derek Podmore was not cruel when he swallowed a live frog in a pub, a magistrates' court ruled Thursday.

Derek Podmore was hauled into court and charged with causing the frog unnecessary suffering.

Frank Fuller, a newspaper reporter, said he saw Podmore take the frog out of a can, gulp a mouthful of beer, swallow the frog and wash it down with more beer.

"He said it was delicious, although he could feel the frog jumping around in his stomach," Fuller testified in the court.

Veterinary surgeon Elvred Jones testified that in his opinion swallowing the frog was cruel. "It must have died either from suffocation or shock," he said.

But the magistrates —five men and a woman —ruled there was no cruelty.

Podmore commented "Now I'm going to set a new record."

He said the previous record was set by John MacNamara, an Irishman, who swallowed five live frogs in 65 seconds.

Chad's cultural revolution termed bloodbath

PARIS (UPI) — Persistent reports from travelers say that some people have been killed and many more tortured for refusing to participate in pagan initiation rites for Chad's 14-month-old "Cultural Revolution."

Chad embassy officials in Paris say the reports are "imagination." Diplomats in Chad, a half-desert, half-prairie country in north central Africa, call the reports "exaggerated" or say that "some have died but not in great numbers."

The latest charge came from the Evangelist Assembly in Paris, a Protestant group with missionaries in Chad, which said some 50 Christians "are known for sure to be dead. Some have been buried alive. One man was brought to our medical center with his legs cut to ribbons. Another was sewn up in a tom-tom and died after 15 days of immobility."

Various Protestant groups have asked French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing to protest the killings to Chad President Ngarta Tombalbaye during the latter's visit to Paris Nov. 20.

Because those reported killed were mainly Protestant Christians, a group of Canadian evangelists in Toronto charged Tombalbaye was trying to stamp out Christianity.

But the Cultural Revolution and its initiation rite appear to be more pro-African than anti-Christian. Tombalbaye, himself a Protestant, launched his revolution in August, 1973, in an effort to turn the former French colony back to its African heritage and away from Western influence.

Names of people, streets and cities were Africanized.

Men were ordered to participate in the yondo, a puberty rite from the Middle Ages reported to include flogging, burning with coal, scarring, sexual indignities, mock burials and drugging.

The two million Moslems in the north have not been forced to go through it, apparently because Islam is considered more African than Christianity. But the European-educated elite, including bankers, professors and Christian pastors, are taken by truck in groups of 150 into the bush for 45 days.

To Toronto evangelists, the ordeal may mean torture but to Africans it is their ancestral way of life.

"The rite is a baptism with a sacred character to form men psychologically and physically during a monastic period," a Chad embassy official said. "The initiated go into nature to lead a life of discipline. It is extremely severe.

"However, I never heard anybody died from it. One must guard against false, imaginative interpretations of the initiation rites."

One traveler who visited several Chad villages said those who resist have been punished with death or torture. He said Protestants objected because idols and fetishes displayed during the rites were against their religion.

On advice from priests, Roman Catholics have gone along with the rites and then gone back to their churches to confess, according to reports.

Realtors convention:

Homes sales, population shift,

An upsurge in existing home sales would provide a needed lift to the entire housing market and economy, predicts Joseph B. Doherty, president of the National Association of Realtors (NAR).

"There is a direct relationship between the existing and new home market since better than 50 per cent of all new homes are purchased by persons who must sell the home in which they live," he explained.

Doherty was one of numerous speakers to address Realtors attending the NAR's 67th annual convention in Las Vegas.

"Historically," he continued, "legislation always has been pointed toward new construction and the existing home market has been overlooked.

"When the new housing market is off, employment is hurt. But when the existing home market is in a slump, millions of families can't buy or sell because of lack of mortgage moeny."

The existing home sales market is hurting and it is affecting American families, he reported. And if this trend continues, millions of families won't be able to either buy or sell a home.

The emergency mortgage credit program is pumping $3 billion into the housing market, and Doherty stressed the importance of channelling some of this into the existing home market.

The Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, signed by President Ford last month, gives the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) the authority to allocate mortgage relief or housing funds in the market.

"Thus far, HUD has been hesitant to assist the existing home market," said Doherty. "Realtor leadership has been working with HUD officials to develop an effective program which would be of benefit to both segments of the market."

Another speaker, Owen McComas, president of the Illinois Center Corp., predicted that Americans' disillusionment with the automobile will contribute to the third great population movement of the 20th Century by drawing people back from the suburban "calm" to a "living" central city.

McComas, an urban developer, spoke at the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers meeting which was held in conjunction with the NAR meeting.

"We are seeing a disillusionment with the automobile that I believe will grow until the divorce rate of man and auto will exceed that of man and woman," he said. "The close-in city poses the only solution when this alienation of affections occurs."

The nation's cities lost their constituencies in the 1950s because they misplaced their concern for people and put emphasis on buildings and the movement of traffic, he said.

"We figured out a lot of good ways to bring people downtown and gave them shiny new buildings to work in, but we didn't give them any reason to want to live downtown or stay downtown if they worked there."

The process of "rethinking downtown development" has begun to place the people factor first, contributing to the resurrection of the urban core, he added.

McComas recalled that an appealing solution to urban problems advanced in the 1960s was development of entire new towns where housing for various income levels would be located near industry and commerce, making the community totally self sufficient.

"The costs of buildling an entire new city have proven so astronomical that a mix of housing could not be achieved without government assistance, now mostly curtailed."

"So we come back to the best answer — revitalize the cities and do it so people will want to live and work in them." He called on policy makers to permit development near the most desirable physical features of the community so people will want to concentrate there.

In a legislative session, James L. Mitchell, HUD under secretary, reported a rapidly changing philosophy by his department is allowing community development programs to be handled by local officials with as little federal interference as possible.

"HUD's intention is to find out what the communities need then give it to them rather than challenge them to prove their qualifications," he said.

Mitchell said HUD regional offices aren't even looking at community development fund request proposals submitted by local communities. "All we do is look at the summary."

All the community officials must specify in their proposals for aid is a summary of what they intend to do with the money and certification that their proposed program complies with the Equal Opportunity Act.

"One of our primary intentions for use of these funds is to make it possible for persons who work in a community to reside in that community."

Mitchell said he didn't expect results of the program to be forthcoming for three years. "But we don't care," he noted. "We are embarked on a noble experiment to return community development funds and controls to the local community where they belong. And we think a three year evaluation period is well within reason."

H.R. Crawford, assistant secretary for HUD's housing management, reported the growing rate of government in the area of housing subsidies has made cooperation between HUD and property managers imperative.

"Subsidized housing is here to stay because many Americans simply can't afford safe, decent and sanitary housing without subsidy.

"Regardless of the type of subsidy used (subsidizing the housing unit or subsidizing the individual) the govermnent's role as the provider of subsidies will continue to grow and you as representatives of the management industry have a critical role to play."

Crawford said he has advocated an increase in the income limits for admission to Section 236 and Section 221 projects. The new housing act establishes new income limits for Section 236 projects which will result in higher income families being eligible for subsidy.

Commenting on HUD's program of minimum standards for resident managers of projects with HUD insured or HUD held mortgages, Crawford said "we can no longer afford to have multi-million dollar complexes managed on a day-to-day basis by individuals who can't read or write, and don't know what a budget is, or who don't understand what the terms vacancy rate and rent roll mean."

And William E. Ezzell, president of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America, told Realtors that to seek more government stimulation of home building may be to invite a toal federalization of the residential market.

He predicted that "we will have adequate money for the mortgages that will be applied for through all of 1975."

However, he cited the problem of "an eight-month supply of unsold housing units, both new and under construction resulting in sales prices and rentals that will be out of reach of much of the market."

Citing the results of record credit expansion over the past three years, and the effects of rising prices in housing, Ezzell declared, "We cannot bathe in the sunshine of governmnent spending and credit expansion as we did in 1972 and 1973 and not expect the storm clouds that surround us this year."

He warned that the overhang of unsold new housing must be absorbed "and consumer confidence must be restored," and "if we can agree that we do not like the prospect of further federalization of the housing market, we must stop seeking government aid and aggressively develop private market solutions."

Expert on memory to speak here

Arthur Bornstein, an authority on memory training, will be speaker at the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors monthly luncheon Wednesday at Orlando's Restaurant.

His topic will be "Improve Your Memory for Fun and Profit."

Bornstein has conducted memory training seminars for some of the nation's leading companies, including Hughes Aircraft, Packard Bell and Lockheed Aircraft Co.

He has also written for several national magazines and also produced the first national television series on memory training.

The speaker has developed a cassette course on memory training and appeared in numerous educational firms.

Increase forecast in home building for next 15 months

There's tough sledding ahead in the housing industry for the short term, but in 1975 the annualized housing starting rate will hit 1.9 million.

So reported Sanford R. Goodkin, a marketing consultant, in a report to the Building Industry Association's sales and marketing council.

He also predicted the monthly start rate will soar from the rate of 800,000 and almost hit the two million mark in the next 12 to 15 months period.

In California, some 135,000 starts are forecast in the coming year, which will be a 10 per cent decrease from this year, added George Fulton, vice president for Walker & Lee, a realty brokerage firm.

About half the starts will be single homes. In Northern California, however, single family home starts will account for 65 per cent and multi family units, 35 per cent, he said.

Both Goodkin and Fulton agreed that 1975 will set the pattern for the industry for the remainder of this decade. Each, however, had differing ideas regarding obstacles.

"The money problem will be solved," Goodkin declared, "but I don't know about the environmentalists.

"As I see it, the housing industry will have to be better ecologists, better planners and better consumerists if it is going to survive within the framwork of free enterprise."

And as far as consumerism is concerned, Goodkin said, "We must anticipate that full disclosure will become increasingly important."

Fulton's expects increasing adaptation of the Hawaiian trend of investor-owned housing.

"Currently, some 55 per cent of the condominiums there are investor-owned since inflation is making it increasingly difficult for the average wage-earner to own his own home.

He noted that a used condominium of less than 1,000 square feet—the average size there—sells for $55,000, and the average price of a single family home is $85,000.

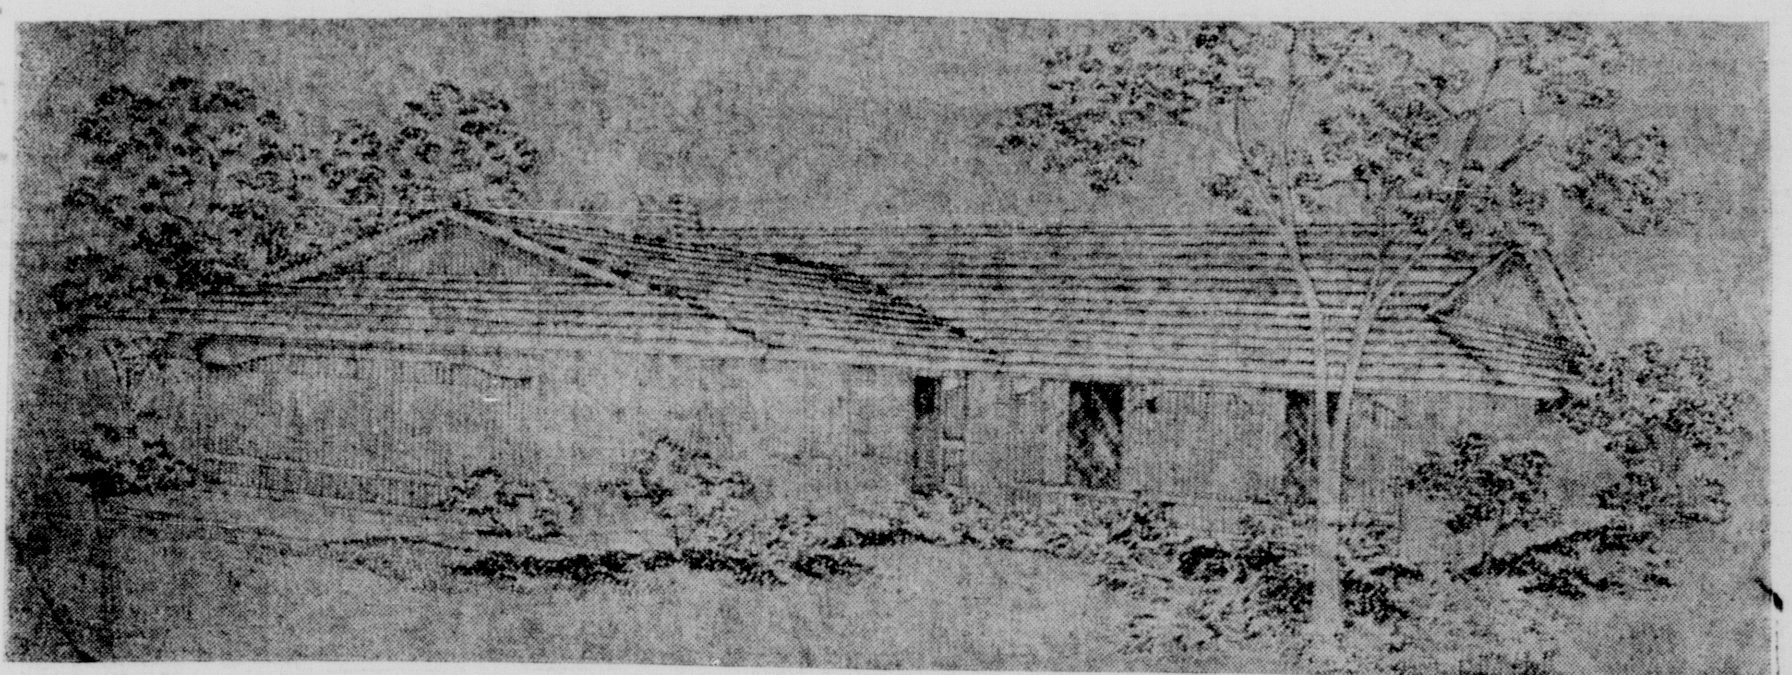
Fulton also envisions the possibility of a "cosumer revolution," by the volatile, vociferous protagonists of the 1960's.

The outcome of this demonstration could well result in heavy governmental subsidies, he says.

Gerald R. McIntyre, vice president of Security Pacific Bank, believes that the industry's two most immediate remedies are in the form of pending legislation.

"One is the Brooks-Cranston Act, which would provide up to $7 billion, with $750 million for home loans at eight and three-quarters per cent interest. The other is a measure that would allow $5,000 of interest income from savings accounts to be exempt from taxation.

"The latter would be a real incentive to the small investor and, hopefully, would cause funds to flow back into lending institutions, something that we desperately need," McIntyre said.



COUNTRYSIDE HOME — This drawing depicts the homes found at the Countryside development in Chino. A new unit of 20 homes is now under construction by Lewis Homes.

Realty president:

Many factors involved in refinancing a home

What does it mean to refinance your home — and is it worthwhile?

These are questions a prospective home buyer may well ask during times of tight money and high interest rates. In considering the purchase of a home, he may look beyond high interest rates to a time when he could obtain a lower mortgage rate by refinancing his home — obtaining a new loan which pays off the balance of the old loan, said Mildred Heckmer president of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors.

"Is it worthwhile? Well, that depends on the particular situation. But authorities in the field do offer several rules of thumb for prospective home buyers — and present homeowners — to consider," she added.

"Before refinancing can be meaningful, most mortgage lenders feel interest rates must drop at least 0.5 per cent — and some say more than 1 per cent. Furthermore, the mortgagor, or homeowner, must plan to stay in the house for a reasonable length of time if refinancing is to be advantageous. Reasonable means three or four years to some, longer to others."

The mortgagor has the option to go to either the old lender or a new one to get a new loan. Most authorities say he should try the original lender first. Lenders are usually willing — though perhaps reluctant — to re-negotiate a home loan. No knowledgeable lender will re-negotiate down to the new market level of interest rates. Instead, he may agree to drop to a rate that's 9.5 per cent above the current level. Furthermore, he'll want a variable rate, so that if market levels climb again, he'll be protected. The variable rate protects you, too, since the rate on a refinanced loan isn't allowed to go above the original rate. And, should market rates decline, the rate could fall further, she explained.

What costs are involved in refinancing? The mortgagor usually pays a penalty fee plus costs for a new title search, new title insurance, recordation taxes and settlement fees. Lenders say a homeowner should figure on paying roughly half the original settlement costs.

And what about savings? A 1 per cent decline in the interest rate is equal to about 72 cents per $1,000 of mortgage, or almost $29 a month on a $40,000 mortgage, she said.

To determine whether refinancing would be worthwhile, you must figure future savings, then determine what it would cost to refinance in terms of immediate dollars. Remember, a loan for more than 80 per cent of the value of the house generally won't be refinanced until the balance drops below 80 per cent of the current market value. The only way to bring the balance down is to pay out extra cash at the time of refinancing.

"Refinancing isn't necessarily advantageous. Not everyone has the necessary cash — settlement costs and money to reduce the ortgage balance — to obtain a lower interest. And even if the cash is available, it may be put to better use in an investment that could be earning interest," said Mrs. Heckmer.

"There are many factors to consider before deciding to refinance — and it's best not to make a decision on your own. Consult your lender or a Realtor, they are experts in the field of financing."

Parrot clue in slaying?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police have issued an all-points bulletin for a bright green and red parrot named "Elmo."

Homicide inspectors Wednesday asked pet shop operators in California, Arizona and Nevada to be on the lookout for the 3year-old parrot.

Police said they want to question the bird's owner, Douglas Casparian, 32, of San Francisco, about a killing. If he tries to sell or board Elmo, police said, he might provide a clue to his whereabouts.

Demand for single family homes seen at the Countryside

The demand in Southern California is for single family homes.

"And it's a demand the housing industry is falling short of fulfilling, judging from the purchase of houses in our company's developments are far outstripping our completions," said Richard Lewis, president of Lewis Homes.

As an example, he pointed to the firm's Countryside development in Chino where there has been numerous buyers seeking occupancy.

All homes in the development's second unit of 54 houses were spoken for by buyers before the framing stage was reached, said Lewis. A third unit with 20 homes is now under construc- He attributed the fast sales tion. pace to the "prestigious design and location." The development centers on Pipe Line Avenue, a mile south of Riverside Drive.

One and two story homes are being built in the new unit. They have three and four bedrooms with two and 2½ bathrooms.

Priced from $40,950, financing at an eight per cent interest rate is offered to qualified veterans.

The sales price includes wall-to-wall carpeting, draperies, side and rear yard fencing, front lawn sprinklers and seeding.

The sales office is open daily. For more information, persons may phone 627-2592.

Dam disaster

The Buffalo Creek disaster, in which a dam burst and flooded a valley in Logan County, West Virginia, in 1972, killed 125 persons and left 4,000 homeless.

Cinnamon Creek within family budget

Conventional financing terms of 8¼ per cent interest are available at Cinnamon Creek townhomes in San Dimas.

This interest rate results in a monthly principal and interest payment of $184 a month on a townhome priced at $26,490, said Phil Moore, marketing director of Kaufman and Broad, Inc.'s Southern California division. Buyers must also pay taxes and association fees.

"As a result the monthly expenditure for housing is within the budget of the average family, plus allowing them to purchase a new townhome before inflation raises prices again," he added.

Cinnamon Creek features one and two story homes with two and three bedrooms. These are priced from $26,490 to $29,490.

The purchase prices include refrigerated air conditioning, wall-to-wall carpeting, drapes, and kitchens with garbage disposals, ranges, ovens, dishwashers and laminated plastic countertops in butcher block style.

Each townhome has a private entrance to a fenced patio in the front and direct access to the garage in the back.

The two story homes have two or three bedrooms with a master bedroom with its own private balcony. The living room has a split-level stairway.

The one-story townhomes have vaulted ceilings, and are located at the end of each cluster with only one common wall.

Cinnamon Creek has a rural atmosphere with meandering pathways, heavy plantings, extensive use of wood fencing, shake roofs and wood sidings.

Barbecues and picnic tables are located on the banks of a dry creek, nestled under oak trees. The development also has a recreation center with a large clubhouse, swimming pool and tot lot.

Storage for recreational vehicles is also available to residents.

Decorated model homes and the sales office are located at 702 S. Valley Center, San Dimas.

New officers elected by realty group

Janice Kunkle, a member of the Azusa-Glendora and Covina Valley boards of Realtors, has been elected new president of the Covina Valley Chapter of Women's Council of Realtors.

Other officers are Agnes Leduc, vice president, member of the Covina Valley Board of Realtors; Carol Leif, secretary, member of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors; and Lolita Horney, treasurer, member of the Azusa-Glendora Board of Realtors.

In addition, three former presidents—Dorothy Smith, Gladys Mooney and Tina Daniels—will serve on the governing board.

The new officers were elected at a membership tea held at the home of Ann Yeager in Covina.

The Covina chapter, active in community affairs, is aiding in the collection of Betty Crocker coupons for an inhalation therapy machine.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — When making any fresh apple recipe that calls for water, boil the peelings and cores, then strain and use that liquid to add color, flavor, and vitamins. — ANOTHER POLLY.

BOIL APPLE CORES AND PEELINGS; STRAIN AND USE LIQUID TO ADD COLOR, FLAVOR, AND VITAMINS.
E. H.

●

DEAR POLLY — A good way to remove black streaks or dirt from shoes is to rub the marks with a pencil eraser. - LINDA.
(Polly's note — This is great for those black marks we so often get on white shoes.)

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, ℅ this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — Cover a bar of soap with three or four thicknesses of a thin material. Sew it in place and you'll have a handy pin cushion. — TRACI, age 11.

●

DEAR POLLY — When the edges curl while sewing on polyester fabric the annoying situation can be corrected by dampening such edges with a heavy cloth wrung out of white vinegar. Then press to straighten them. — JUDY.

●

DEAR POLLY — The skimmer used to get bugs off the surface of a swimming pool often gets holes in it. Remove the net and replace it with screening. Sew it on with heavy string by putting it through the holes in the screen and around the frame of the skimmer. — M.S.

●

DEAR POLLY — If you spray furniture polish toward the center of a table or on your cloth, little or no polish will fall on the carpet. The dirt is picked up faster, too. — LIZ.

DEAR POLLY — When packing for a trip I find it convenient to store small items such as lipsticks, hair pins, etc., in those egg-shaped containers panty hose come in. They can also be stuffed with an assortment of small candies and toys to keep the younger travelers happy. — BRENDA.

●

DEAR POLLY — Our outdoor carpet had been on our deck for three years, so looked a little the worse for wear. I decided to try dyeing it a shade darker and it turned out just great. If you have a paint roller that will take a screw-type holder, use a broom-handle stick in it. Put the dye mixture in a plastic dishpan. I followed the directions on a regular dye package. The job cost only about $10. — PEG.

●

DEAR POLLY — When cooking corn on the cob, add one-half cup of milk to the water. You'll be surprised at how tender and delicious the corn will be. — AMELIA.

FOR TENDER CORN - ADD ½ CUP OF MILK TO THE WATER

I'LL BE GONE AWHILE! I'M TAKING THE CAR IN FOR A TUNE-UP!
WAIT! HERE'S A LIST OF THINGS I'VE NOTICED WHEN I'VE BEEN DRIVING!
GOOD HEAVENS, VERA! I DIDN'T REALIZE...
ADD RATTLES IN THE BACK TO THAT!
...AND THERE'S A GRINDING SOUND WHEN YOU HIT 50!
HAVE THEM CHECK THE TRANSMISSION FLUID, DAD... I THINK IT'S BEEN LEAKING!
AND THE BRAKES HAVE BEEN ACTING FUNNY!
DING-DONG!
YOUR EXHAUST IS FAULTY, TOO, GEORGE! BETTER HAVE IT FIXED!
HAVE THEM CHECK THE RUST SPOTS!

How your Horoscope can bring you wealth, love, success and happiness.

by Norman P. Kennedy

Did you know your horoscope could mean the difference between happiness or sorrow; between success or failure?

Picture a long room with doors at each end. In this room there are money, attractive persons of the opposite sex, books that tell you the secret of happiness and many other valuable articles. But, also in this room are bottomless pits, traps, hostile persons and dangerous beasts chained in various places around the room. You must walk through this room, but you may take out of it anything you can.

Now if you had a choice, would you choose to 1) go through the room blindfolded or 2) go through the room with your eyes open and with written instructions on which places and people to visit or avoid.

Of course, all of us would pick the second choice in a case such as this. Isn't it ridiculous, then, that we would choose to go through life, the same situation, blindfolded! Even when there is a means to go through life with a map and our eyes wide open! The means provided is Astrology. The map is our astrological horoscope.

How does it work? Nature's cosmos imprints each of us at the time of birth – when the umbilical cord is cut. We then become ourselves. Until the cord is cut, we are part of our mother. Why or how we presently do not know. The movement of the large solar bodies then times potentials for events in our lives. Astrology does not cause events but is timing of events. But, it's not fortune telling. It's a prediction of potentials which free will can override.

A natal horoscope analysis contains the best psychological analysis of yourself that you can get today. In addition, a natal horoscope analysis includes discussions on the following: financial outlook; taxes and inheritances; early home environment; relationships with family, relatives and parents; lovelife and marriage; children; career and occupation; hopes; wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes.

Many people think that astrology only appeals to "way out" unscientific people. Nothing could be farther from the truth. In fact, studies show that astrology appeals most to intelligent and logical people. Famous scientists Galileo, Carl Jung, Johannes Kepler, Roger Bacon, Tycho Bache and Albert Einstein all believed in astrology.

Anyone familiar with Jackie Onassis' horoscope will be amazed with the uncanny way that it has predicted her love life. For example, Jackie's Cancer lies on the cusp of her eighth house. This indicates that she will marry a man connected with water. Her first husband, the late President Kennedy, was a P. T. boat Captain in World War II and also enjoyed sailing. And, of course, her current husband, Aristotle Onassis, is a super-wealthy shipping magnate. Her Sagittarian rising sign shows that she prefers foreign countries and people. Her husband, Aristotle, is Greek and Jackie is known for her jet-setting image. Finally, the planets Jupiter and Venus symbolize money. The fact that these two planets fall in her seventh house, the House of Partners, indicates that she will have a very wealthy husband.

Your horoscope can help you be in the right place at the right time. Your horoscope can help you avoid disasters, while guiding you to your beneficial opportunities.

Did you know that astrology helped the Allies win World War II? The Allies employed astrologers. The Axis powers started out employing astrologers. But, this was ceased early when the famous astrologer, Karl Ernst Krafft, predicted the exact time and place of an attempt on Hitler's life in 1939. Hitler thought the astrologers were conspiring against him, so they were imprisoned.

Hitler turned back to astrology – too late. He read his horoscope in the last moments of the war as Berlin burned around him.

On the other hand, astrologers aided the Allies in forecasting the Axis' moves. The most famous astrologer, Louis de Wohl, employed by the British Government, predicted the exact events leading to the downfall of Mussolini. He gained the faith of the American military, when he predicted Pearl Harbor a year before it happened.

More on avoiding disaster, came these stories from a recent article in the Miami Herald newspaper. The article tells the story of Mary Kelly, a Miami computer programmer, who heeded the advice of her horoscope which warned her of a wrong medical diagnosis. She avoided an unnecessary operation that would have left her a cripple.

Your horoscope can bring you wealth. Famous business tycoon, J. P. Morgan, used astrology to acquire his fortune. Morgan did not make a financial move without checking his natal horoscope forecast.

From an article in the Miami Herald came this story: "Stockbrokers on Wall Street are as likely to call an astrologer in this decade as Hollywood film stars would call a psychiatrist in the last. David Williams, a 75 year-old retired financial expert who lives in Clearwater, has made $150,000 from the stock market in 13 years by using astrology as an investment guide."

Your horoscope can show you the way to success and happiness in love and marriage. Horoscopes of Grace Kelly and Jackie Kennedy predicted their current successful marriages. Grace Kelly to Prince Rainier and Jackie Kennedy to Aristotle Onassis. As with these famous people, your horoscope can help you find and keep a lasting and meaningful love relationship.

Now and through the ages, a good natal horoscope analysis has meant the difference between success and failure. Will you miss your success opportunities? Will you stumble into pitfalls you could have avoided?

Today, right this moment, you can have your natal horoscope cast and analyzed. You can get it for only the cost to make your duplicate copy. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process – FREE. The article below will tell you how. The means are available, but the choice is yours.

HOW TO GET YOUR NATAL KOROSCOPE FOR ONLY THE COST OF MAKING COPIES.

by John F. Ford

Send me your exact time and place of birth. I'll cast and analyze your natal horoscope for research purposes. You may have a duplicate copy of your horoscope for only $3.00 - which includes the cost to make your copy plus 50¢ postage and handling. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process -- FREE, because of the fact that we must produce your horoscope for research anyhow.

Your natal horoscope will consist of nine pages and over 3,000 words. Your natal horoscope will contain your psychological analysis plus a discussion of the following: your lovelife; financial outlook; marriage, family and children relationships; career and occupations; hopes, wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes. A horoscope of this type would cost up to $300 if done by an astrologer.

I will cast your horoscope with the help of our 360 - 65 I.B.M. computer, which contains over 24 million bits of information. Your horoscope will not be the worthless type found in paperbacks. Your natal horoscope will be cast from your exact time and place of birth for you and you alone.

THERE'S ABSOLUTELY NO CATCH. I need this information for my astrological research. I am looking for certain planet configurations. If you are chosen as a research subject, I will mail to you a research questionnaire. If you fill out and return this questionnaire, you will be entitled to extra bonuses.

There is no need to worry about finding out about an unavoidable coming disaster thru your chart. As mentioned, astrology deals in potentials. Your free will can override potentials if you know about them. In any case, the policy of qualified astrologers is positive astrology. If there is something negative in your chart, you are told what you can do to make it positive.

To get your horoscope thru this special opportunity, simply fill out the research computer form and mail to the address given on the form. Include the $3.00 copy cost plus 50¢ postage and handling for each horoscope or charge your credit card. There is a limit of two per family. If you don't know your exact time of birth, fill in 12:00 PM.

If you have any questions, call me, John F. Ford, president, The American Astrological Association. Telephone me at (216) 478-2171. Thank you!

COMPUTER DATA ENTRY FORM - PLEASE PRINT

I submit my birth data for research. I am now eligible to promptly receive my 3,000 word natal horoscope for only a $3 cost to make my duplicate copy plus 50¢ postage and handling. One or two names from my household may be submitted. (Limit of 2–no exceptions)

'THE LADY'S NOT FOR BURNING'

Richard Chamberlain stars as a quixotic young soldier who wants to sacrifice himself for a lady accused of witchcraft in British playwright-poet Christopher Fry's "The Lady's Not for Burning," airing Tuesday at 8:30PM on KCET's Hollywood Television Theatre, Channel 28. Co-starring in the production adapted by Fry especially for station's drama showcase is noted British actress Eileen Atkins. Chamberlain's portrayal of Thomas Mendip recreates for television a part he played at the prestigious Chichester Festival in England in 1972.

"Mendip is a disillusioned soldier who comes to the little market town of Cool Clary to ask that he be hanged because life for him is no longer worth living," comments Norman Lloyd, executive producer of Hollywood Television Theatre. "But the Mayor, an irascible, complaining sort, played by Keene Curtis, refuses, believing the young man merely wants to call attention to himself and make unnecessary work for the authorities."

Ms. Atkins plays Jennet Jourdemayne, an enchanting and intelligent young woman accused of being a witch. She professes innocence to the charge, and Mendip, to spare her from being burned at the stake, demands he be sacrificed instead. They fall in love, although he does so reluctantly and only after she persuades him that love holds greater attraction than death.

The cast also includes Kristoffer Tabori, Laurie Prange, Stephen McHattie, Rosemary Murphy, Scott Hylands, Tom Lacy and Jacques Aubuchon. Veteran actor John Carradine has the role of an old rag-and-bone merchant, the subject of the lady's purported witchcraft. Joseph Hardy directed the production which was produced by George Turpin. KCET will present two rebroadcasts of the production, Saturday (11/23) at 7PM, and Sunday (11/24) at 2PM.

Immediately following "The Lady's Not for Burning," KCET will air "Solo," a 15-minute short subject by filmmaker Mike Hoover. Nominated for an Academy Award and recipient of 12 awards as best short, the film follows a lone mountain climber and reflects his feelings of individual accomplishment, spiritual achievement and individual motivation. Through incredible footage the film illustrates the beauty and danger of mountain climbing, while emphasizing positive aspects of human aloneness. The film has been honored by the Atlanta International Film Festival, Moscow International Film Festival, and American Film Festival, among others.

'LUCY'

Lucille Ball stars in her own hour-long comedy special, "Happy Anniversary and Goodbye," on CBS, Tuesday at 9PM. Miss Ball portrays Norma Michaels, a woman who approaches her silver wedding anniversary with the growing realization that her marriage has degenerated into a chronic disappointment. Art Carney stars as her husband, Michael—a competent and successful but very dull dentist—who is dimly aware that life has passed him by. Nanette Fabray (pictured with Lucy) co-stars as Fay Lucas, Norma's best friend and a militant veteran of four marital break-ups who encourages her friend to seek independence. Peter Marshall also co-stars and featured performers include Alan Hale and Don Porter.

'FAMILY OF TALENT'

The Osmonds—six brothers and sister Marie—display their musical talents and highly successful togetherness in a one-hour special titled simply "The Osmonds," on CBS, Wednesday at 8PM. The accomplishments of the Osmonds are many, including 20 gold million-selling records; sellout concerts throughout the world; capacity crowds for their Las Vegas hotel engagements; their own family recording label; an elegantly-equipped recording studio; and 10 solo gold records for brother Donny. Members of the performing family include Alan (25), Wayne (23), Merrill (21), Jay (19), Donny (16), Marie (14), and Jimmy (11). Andy Williams is their special guest.

'GREAT EXPECTATIONS'

Michael York (as Pip) and Sarah Miles (as Estella) lead the dance in this ballroom scene from "Great Expectations," new two-hour Family Theatre drama based on Charles Dickens' book —on NBC, Friday at 8PM. The drama follows the eventual life of Pip, an orphan in 19th century England who, as a youth, has a fateful encounter with an escaped convict and an eccentric lady. Co-starring are James Mason as the convict, Abel Magwitch; Margaret Leighton, the embittered and eccentric Miss Havisham; and Robert Morley as Uncle Pumblechook.

'FROM LAS VEGAS'

Bob Hope's second NBC Special of the 1974-75 season (Wednesday at 10PM) will be colorcast from the Circus Maximus of Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, where Hope presents the Annual Las Vegas Entertainment Awards given by the Academy of Variety and Cabaret Artists. The awards, given only to single performers, acts or shows which have appeared in Las Vegas within the last year (9/14/73 to 9/15/74) are voted by members of the Academy. Membership is made up not only of performers but musicians, artists' agents, managers, choreographers and producers of shows, all of whom have worked in Las Vegas. In addition, members of the press from all parts of the country who review Las Vegas acts are eligible for membership. Ballots with the names of nominees were mailed to the membership on October 1st and tallied by Alexander Grant & Co., certified public accountants, on October 15.

'FAMILY OVERRIDES CAREER'

Beautiful Lynda Day George decided some time ago that her home and children are "far more important to living" than her flourishing career as an actress. "I learn more about the fundamentals of life from my two kids than any dramatic schooling could ever teach me," says the star of "Panic on the 5:22," Quinn Martin Productions' ABC Wednesday Movie of the Week (at 8:30PM). This lesson was brought home recently to Lynda, long-time star of Mission: Impossible, and her husband, actor Christopher George.

"All last summer we worked very hard, doing TV in England, then touring in stock. We both came home exhausted and all I wanted to do was play with Nicky (9) and Krisanda (2) and Sergeant, our Siberian Huskie," says the lissome Texas-born blonde. Since her short break, Lynda has played a psychotic murderess in Petrocelli and a promiscuous high fashion model in "Panic on the 5:22," a tense drama about a New York commuter train hold-up.

"But I no longer worry about getting this or that part," she adds. "I let my agent worry about that. Life is too full of stresses imposed by society for me to get uptight about my career. What happens does, what doesn't, well, it simply doesn't, that's all.

"I wish Chris wouldn't fret so about his upcoming deals. I'd like to get him off that syndrome. But then I suppose most men are like that these days. I prefer cooking, gardening, and—yes—even house cleaning!"

Laurence Luckinbill and Lynda Day George are two of the wealthy passengers aboard a swank commuter train club car who are menaced by a trio of armed robbers.

'STARDOM FOR MOOCH'

"Mooch" is a small, female dog that runs away from home to go the glamourous Hollywood life and become a movie star but soon finds it is not easy to break into stardom. The live-action program is introduced by Richard Burton with the voice thoughts of Mooch supplied by Zsa Zsa Gabor and airs Saturday night (November 23rd) from 6 to 7PM on KHJ, Channel 9. The canine young lady is fortunate to encounter several important people who attempt to help her along the way including Vincent Price, James Darren, Jill St. John and Jim Backus, but she also runs into misfortune and at one time has to be satisfied with being a cocktail waitress and a go-go-dancer.

ZSA ZSA GABOR

"Mooch" does get to hob-nob with Mickey Rooney, Darren McGavin, Kathie Brown, Phyllis Diller, Sam Jaffe, Bettye Ackerman, Edward G. Robinson, Janet Blair, Marty Allen, Rose Marie, Cesar Romero, David Wayne and Dick Martin at a party given by Jim and Henny Backus. During her travels Mooch goes to see the famous sights of Hollywood and surrounding areas including Grauman's Chinese Theatre, The Brown Derby, Hollywood and Vine, The Sunset Strip, Beverly Hills and a trip to Malibu on James Darren's motorcycle. However, Mooch gives up her ambition to be a movie star to be taken care of in the luxurious home of a wealthy Beverly Hills veterinarian and to live in the lap of luxury.

"Mooch" was co-produced and written by Jim Backus and Jerry Devine and was directed by Richard Erdman.

COTTON CLUB '75: A DREAM COME TRUE

Joe Adams, a radio and TV personality in his own right and personal manager of Ray Charles, is seeing an eight-year TV-dream come true. It's called "Cotton Club '75," and will air on NBC, Saturday (Nov. 23) at 11:30PM.

"I wanted to do a black entertainment show that had class," said Adams. "Since people are not going out to nightclubs today, I wanted to bring a nightclub to the people. I wanted to bring back some of the headliners who have not been seen for years and also new young professional talent. The 'Cotton Club' really is not a club—it's a state of mind. It's like Harlem, Central Avenue, or any black community. It's not a geographical location. It's beautiful, it's sad, it's love, it's mad. It's the 'Cotton Club'!"

Billy Daniels and the Nicholas Brothers will be among the more than one dozen stars who will entertain on "Cotton Club '75."

The show, a black revue, actually is a contemporary re-creation of the famed New York Cotton Club of the '20s and '30s, featuring an array of talent, including (alphabetically): Aaron & Freddie, Franklyn Ajaye, Jonelle Allen, Ray Charles, Billy Daniels, Johnny Dankworth, Clifton Davis, Redd Foxx, Goldfinger & Dove, Rosey Grier, Cleo Laine, The Lockers, The Nicholas Brothers, Buddy Rich, Jimmie Walker, and eight Cotton Club dancers. Phil Moore will serve as musical conductor.

The show began to materialize for Adams when Ray Charles made a guest appearance on "NBC Follies" a season ago. "I usually watch Ray closely, but this time I did something I don't do ordinarily. I watched Bob Booker and George Foster." Booker and Foster were the show's co-producers and co-writers. " 'Cotton Club' had to be done by people who understood it, felt it and could live it," said Adams. "I felt that Bob and George had the right kind of sensitivity for it, so I approached them."

Booker-Foster Productions, Inc., in turn contacted Burt Reynolds/Henry Jaffe Productions and NBC, resulting in a joint venture, with Reynolds and Jaffe serving as executive producers, Booker and Foster as producers/writers, and Adams as executive in charge of productions.

The show represents one more important milestone for Adams personally. He was born in Watts and was counseled to take auto shop in high school rather than public speaking, which he wanted. So he taught himself how to speak. It led to his becoming the number one deejay in Los Angeles. He branched into TV with two shows, KLAC's "Adams Alley" in 1947, followed by KTTV's "Joe Adams Presents" in 1948, fronting his own 19-piece orchestra.

His 10 years of shows on NBC Radio, including the popular "Monitor" program and live half-hour remotes from Hollywood, San Francisco and Las Vegas with such musical greats as Nat King Cole, Count Basie, Duke Ellington, Stan Kenton and others earned him the distinction of being the first black announcer on coast-to-coast radio. Adams expanded his career to include acting in films and on Broadway ("Jamaica") whereupon Ray Charles asked him to join him "for a month." Now, 15 years later ("I've never been hired by him formally"), Adams serves in numerous executive capacities. Summed up Adams: "Ray is blind but never uses a cane or dog. He once said, 'Anything you can do, I can do too. I just have to figure out a different way to do it.' "

'JOHNNY CASH RIDIN' THE RAILS'

"Johnny Cash Ridin' the Rails—The Great American Train Story," is an entertainment special for the whole family, which recalls the romance and nostalgia of America's great railroads, airing on ABC, Friday at 10PM. Johnny Cash, through his songs, and an exciting account of railroading's fascinating legends and lore, shows us the growth and expansion of America as seen through the building of our famous railroads. The special is a combination of songs and re-enacted highlights of authentic history which blends dramatic recreations with old graphics, stills, and simulated newsreel events, to illustrate the feeling and atmosphere of the times.

The locomotive Tom Thumb and a horse are about to race in a recreated moment from the history of the American railroads in "Johnny Cash Ridin' the Rails—The Great American Train Story."

There will be the driving of the Golden Spike at Promontory Point, Utah, in 1869, the exciting race between a horse and the new-fangled iron horse they called the "Tom Thumb" engine, and the stealing of the Civil War engine, "The General." There'll be a reenactment of a train robbery, and cowboys on a cattle drive to the railhead. Viewers will hear about John Henry and Casey Jones and see the elegant turn-of-the-century parlor cars. "Ridin' the Rails" then brings us up to the present resurgence in the popularity of railroads and the new dome-top Amtrak trains. Interspersed through all the legends and facts are railroading songs sung by Johnny Cash—some very familiar, and some rare folk songs of the times.

COVER CLOSE-UP

'A DIFFERENT EXPERIENCE'

When ABC introduced That's My Mama (Wednesdays, 8-8:30PM) to the TV critics there were many comparisons with Sanford and Son and Good Times. While there is always a tendency to make comparisons, it has become obvious that That's My Mama is a different experience in black community life.

"Our Mama is universal," said Gene Farmer, who produces the series with Walter Bien. "The emphasis is first on family relationship." The series stars Clifton Davis as Clifton Curtis, a Washington, D.C., barber, and Theresa Merritt as Eloise Curtis, his mother. The family also includes Earl Chambers, the neighborhood postman who is Clifton's best friend. Theodore Wilson stars in that role. There is a daughter, Tracy, played by Lynne Moody, who, although she is a few years younger than Clifton, already is happily married to a young conservative executive, Leonard, who is on his way up the corporate ladder. Leonard, played by Lisle Wilson, is one of Clifton's problems. Not only can Clifton not stand the guy but Mama is always saying that Clifton should be more like him.

In addition to Clifton's immediate family, there are other neighborhood personalities who wander into "Oscar's Barbershop," which is named after Clifton's deceased father. Josh and Wildcat and Junior number among that group. Ted Lange plays Junior; Jester Hairston and DeForest Covan are Wildcat and Josh, two neighborhood cronies who make the barbershop their stomping grounds.

"The show has grown a lot since we started production," Farmer said. "The humor was always there and the warmth of the performer has always come through. What we've discovered more is the humanity in the stories." What Farmer refers to are moments in the show like "Clifton's Big Move" when the young barber and his mother faced a difficult decision and each were unable to express their true feelings to each other.

"The show works because of the variety of personalities that have come together in the cast," Farmer said. For example, both Theresa Merritt and Cilfton Davis have an extensive background in Broadway theater and music. Theresa started out in "Carmen Jones." She appeared with Sammy Davis in "Golden Boy" and also appeared in "Tambourines to Glory."

Clifton won a Tony Award nomination for his portrayal of Valentine in "Two Gentlemen of Verona." He also won a gold record for the song he wrote, "Never Can Say Goodbye," for the Jackson 5. He has also written "Searchin' for A Dream," "Here Comes the Sunrise" and "Looking Through the Window."

The musical background extends to Theodore Wilson, who is currently trying to build his own singing career by developing material to record. The young actor has authenticated the character of Earl by researching his part as a mail carrier, including interviewing his local mailman, as well as visiting the post office to learn how to handle the mail. If the musical background were only limited to the three principals, the harmony of the cast would carry through—but Jester Hairston, the old-timer who plays Wildcat, has the most extensive musical credentials of the group. Hairston, an internationally-known choral conductor, arranger and lecturer, has been sent by the United States three times to Africa and twice to Europe as a good will ambassador. He holds three doctoral degrees.

Broadway stage backgrounds for other members of the cast include Ted Lange, who appeared in "Hair" on Broadway and Lisle Wilson, who started with Joseph Papp's production of "Hamlet" and appeared on Broadway in "The Death of Bessie Smith."

Lynne Moody started with the Goodman Theatre in Chicago when she was a model. She later became a stewardess for a major arline prior to getting her break in acting.

The solid support of actor DeForest Covan sounds like the history of movies. He has appeared in more than 300 films, beginning in the "Our Gang Comedies," when he played the role of "Farina."

Perhaps one of the best clues to why the series has become one of the successes of the new season is the line that appears on the cover of each script: "Produced With Love and Affection By Walter N. Bien and Gene Farmer."

FOR BILLY DANIELS

Did you ever experience anything in Australia like the situation Frank Sinatra got into? — Mrs. R. Evans, Sacramento, Calif.

● Not exactly. I've been "Down Under" 15 times, and even though I don't think Australian reporters intend to be rude, they do have a way of asking tricky questions. The best defense is a sense of humor. I was once asked by a young lady, "Why does an old fellow like you, with plenty of money, continue to sing?" I replied: "Because I've nothing better to do. My son takes care of my business; my landlord takes care of my property. They insist I sing and stay out of their hair."

FOR JULIE ANDREWS, star of "The Tamarind Seed"

How old were you when you first noticed you had such a marvelous voice?—Tami Stukey, Great Falls, Mont.

● Thank you, but a "freak" voice would be a better way of putting it. I was 12 when my parents found out I had a mature coloratura. Mum and Dad were entertainers, and until I let out my first powerful note, it had never occurred to any of us that I should follow in their footsteps. That's when they started seriously "thinking show business" for me.

FOR DINAH SHORE, star of the new show "Dinah!"

Why do you always wear sweaters on your shows? Isn't it warm under the lights?—Mrs. William Moore, Trenton, Ohio

● You're right! It is warm under those studio lights. But because my producers always have me do something with my hands (so that they're not free to smooth down my skirt), I find that a sweater over a blouse keeps the blouse in and I stay relatively neat. Also, I like wearing sweaters and feel comfortable in them.

FOR ALEX KARRAS, sportscaster and former football star

You played football in high school, college and in the pros. During your first year in retirement, did you miss playing?—T. A., St. Bonaventure, N.Y.

● No, because I never really liked playing the game. To me, it was just something to get me closer to the things I wanted in life.

FOR SECRETARY OF STATE HENRY KISSINGER

What will become of the historic letter of resignation that former President Nixon delivered to you?—D. Newcomer, Columbia, Pa.

● Mr. Nixon's letter of resignation—dated August 9—was sent to the National Archives on August 19, where it will remain.

FOR TONY BENNETT

Is it true that you are serious about painting in your spare time?—F. Goode, Glendale, Calif.

● Yes. I took up painting the way some people take up crossword puzzles—for relaxation. But it grew on me to the point where I enjoy it almost as much as singing. It surprises me that people care. When I sold a canvas of the New York skyline to a big company, it was reported by the weekly magazines and papers. Painting to me is an investment—something to fall back on if my voice fails.

FOR MARLO THOMAS, star of Broadway's "Thieves"

Do you mind being called "Danny Thomas's daughter," and does it bother your father to be referred to as "Marlo Thomas's father"?—L. Stern, Decatur, Ill

● All right by both of us. My dad and I have our individual identities, and we both worked very hard to get where we are. If we hadn't done it alone, there'd be no self-satisfaction. I'm enormously proud of my dad, and I know he feels the same way about me. We've never let our professional lives interfere with our private ones.

FOR HAROLD ROBBINS, author of "The Pirate"

How old are you?—G. B., Spartanburg, S.C.

● I'm 58. A lot of people think I'm older. That's because my first book, "Never Love a Stranger," was written 30 years ago, and as most people have "grown up" with me, it seems as though I've always been around. I'm the "Methuselah" of the publishing world!

FOR DANNY THOMAS

How do you feel about actors or actresses who turn their acts into political forums?—J. B., Amherst, N.Y.

● I think it's wrong—at least during a paid performance. Now in a talk show—that's different. I think then I should be able to say whatever I think. I have a right. I'm a citizen too. But when people pay money to be entertained, that's what they should get—entertainment.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I've always wondered if the people who endorse products really use them in private life. What can you tell me?—J. P., Nyack, N.Y.

● Years ago, personalities just gave their names to a product. Nothing more was required. Today it's different. Lucille Ball, who's endorsing Milton Bradley's "Crossup," is in real life a games and puzzles freak. George Montgomery was interested in building furniture long before he became known for his Johnson's Wax commercials. One of the requisites of the Polident ads is that personalities must have a complete set of dentures. Guy Lombardo was rejected because he has all his own teeth! Annette Funicello, who endorses Mennen's Baby Magic, has used it on her own baby. However, there are exceptions: Groucho Marx, who endorsed a leading Scotch whiskey, was once overheard at a party given by the sponsors to say, "Scotch? Never touch it!"

Book of Days

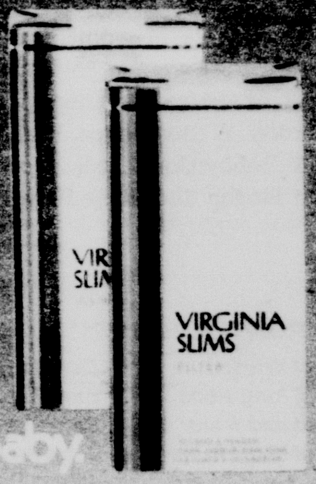
Good-bye, Columbus.

In the Virginia Slims 1975 Book of Days, Columbus Day is Queen Isabella Day.

Okay. Columbus sailed the boat, but it was the lady who came up with the cash.

In the hardbound Book of Days, you'll find more facts, near-facts and anecdotes about what a time of it women have had. And there's room on every page to keep track of the time you have in 1975.

That's a lot of history for just ten pack bottoms from Virginia Slims, regular or menthol.



You've come a long way, baby.

Mail to: Virginia Slims Book of Days,
P.O. Box 7815, Westbury, New York 11592

Please send me one 1975 Virginia Slims Book of Days Calendar. I enclose 10 pack bottoms from Virginia Slims (Regular or Menthol).

Offer void to persons under 21 years of age. Offer good in U.S. only except where prohibited, licensed or taxed. Please mail as soon as possible and no later than December 7, 1974. Allow 3 to 6 weeks for delivery. One order per envelope. Offer good while supply lasts.

Golf's Greatest Pick Golf's Greatest:

The Hall-of-Fame Super-Panel's Report

By Larry Bortstein

Who are the greatest golfers of all time? All golf fans, and even other golfers, have their opinions about the best practitioners of "The Royal and Ancient Game." FAMILY WEEKLY recently had a unique opportunity to poll some of the greatest links performers who ever lived on their choices for "bests" in the various phases of the sport. The panelists taking part in the FAMILY WEEKLY poll are all charter members of the World Golf Hall of Fame, which was dedicated last September 11 at Pinehurst, North Carolina.

The great male golfers who took part in our poll were Gene Sarazen, Sam Snead, Byron Nelson, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus. Patty Berg, who along with the late Mildred Didrikson "Babe" Zaharias, was inducted for greatness in women's golf, chose the greatest women golfers. The other Hall of Fame inductees were Harry Vardon, Walter Hagen, Francis Ouimet and Bobby Jones, all deceased; plus Ben Hogan and Gary Player.

1. Snead

2. Nicklaus

3. Hogan

Hagen

Jones

Player

Palmer

Sam Snead may be the best golfer who ever lived—at least according to our panelists from the World Golf Hall of Fame. Based on a weighted ratings system which credited golfers with points for superiority in different phases of play and the number of mentions they received overall, Snead emerged as leader in Family Weekly's Golf Hall of Fame interviews. Jack Nicklaus, who has dominated the PGA tour in recent years, finished second. Third was Ben Hogan, almost unanimously cited as the best driver of all time. Grouped behind them were Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones, Gary Player and Arnold Palmer.

Also invited to share his opinions with FAMILY WEEKLY and the panel of Hall of Famers was Fred Corcoran, president of the International Golf Association, which conducts the annual World Cup tournament. This year's World Cup is being played later this week, November 21-24, in Caracas, Venezuela. During his 60 years in golf, Corcoran has known all of the greats of the game and is a former tournament director of the Professional Golfers Association and a former manager of Snead and Mrs. Zaharias.

President Gerald Ford, an avid golfer himself, was the featured speaker at the dedication ceremonies for the World Golf Hall of Fame the afternoon of September 22, and at the award dinner the same evening. The World Golf Hall of Fame is situated behind the fourth green of the famous Pinehurst Country Club course, scene of the richest event on the men's PGA tour.

The Diamondhead Corporation of Mountainside, N.J., owns the entire resort town of Pinehurst in North Carolina's Sandhills, having purchased it from its original owners, the James Tufts family of Boston, almost four years ago. Diamondhead has spent $2.5 million for the golf shrine.

Each of the inductees to the World Golf Hall of Fame received a medallion with his portrait on it. President Ford also received a set of the medallions, which are manufactured and sold by the Hamilton Mint of Arlington Heights, Illinois.

Here's How the Panelists Voted:*

BYRON NELSON, 62

Best driver	Ben Hogan
Best long irons	Sam Snead
Best mid-irons	Sam Snead
Best short irons	John Revolta, Jimmy Demaret, Lee Trevino
Best fairway woods	Paul Runyan, Lee Trevino, Johnny Miller
Best wedge	Gene Sarazen , John Revolta, Deane Beman
Best bunker player	Gary Player, Julius Boros
Best putter	Paul Runyan, Horton Smith, John Revolta, Ben Hogan, Billy Casper, George Archer

Comments: "John Revolta was one of the most underrated players of all time, a star in the 1930's who played a great short game. Ben Hogan was a sensational putter from four or five feet. George Archer is a beautiful putter. He's 6-foot-6, but he can bend down low and sink those putts, short and long. He has very little wrist action, very delicate. Of course, as far as putting is concerned, you can't forget Jack Nicklaus, who may not be in the class of some others for sheer putting skill, but who has probably made more clutch putts than anyone else."

GENE SARAZEN, 72

Best driver	Ben Hogan, Sam Snead
Best long irons	Sam Snead, Jack Nicklaus
Best mid-irons	Sam Snead
Best short irons	Jack Nicklaus
Best fairway woods	Jack Nicklaus
Best putter	Sam Snead Walter Hagen

Comments: "Hogan was best of all from tee to green. He was a man who worked hard to become a great golfer. It took him about ten years. Walter Hagen's style of putting with a short swing was just great. I'm very proud of of the fact that I invented the Sand wedge back around 1931. It changed the whole game of golf. A good player can pick up one or two strokes a round with good use of the sand wedge."

SAM SNEAD, 62

Best driver	Arnold Palmer
Best long irons	Jack Nicklaus
Best mid-irons	Jimmy Demaret, Horton Smith
Best short irons	Paul Runyan
Best wedge	Jimmy Demaret, Walter Hagen, John Revolta
Best putter	Horton Smith, John Revolta, Bobby Locke, Billy Casper
Best strategist	Bobby Jones

1974 Bing and Grondahl Christmas.
"Swans and Church." Excellent investment opportunity, superb quality. $22.00

SOUNDS like a lot of money but its taken many fine quality porcelain companies such as Bing and Grondahl and Haviland more than a billion dollars to bring their porcelain to the degree of perfection it is today. In fact every plate shown in this ad is the result of many years of tradition and research to bring you the collector, the ultimate in fine porcelain.

Are Collector Plates Good Investments? Not all of them are but history will show that the majority of them are and we've been very successful in bringing our friends the very best from a large choice available to collectors. We select only the best quality, the most desirable, the most popular and limited and those we feel have most potential. While we urge you to only buy what appeals to your taste, it's a known fact that Collector Plates have risen in price.

For Example: Only last year we sold many 1973 Haviland-Parlon Christmas Plates at $40.00 – and they now bring over $135.00. We selected the Norman Rockwell "Butter Girl" as a good buy and though we sold them at $19.50, one recently sold at auction for $110.00 (on television). Last year's Santa Clara has doubled in price to around $50.00 already, and last year's Berta Hummel Christmas is up over 300% in one year. To go back a few years the 1971 Goebel Hummel now sells for over $300.00 (our price was $25.00) and the 1969 B & G Mothers Day is approaching the $400.00 mark, and we sold them for $9.00 (and are offering our buyers a 2000% profit over initial price!

Special Bonus: As an incentive for you to try Plate Collecting, if your order exceeds $20.00 and you order within two weeks – you may buy a 1972 Santa Clara Mothers Day for only $3.95 (limit one per collector) Excellent china with 24 Kt. Gold Decoration.

Extra-Special Bonus: Absolutely Free with any order is a Year's Subscription to the renown "Joy's Newsletter" showing large pictures of the Finest Limited Editions in color and giving pertinent facts and figures to help you make your mind up.

Money Back Guarantee: If for any reason you're not completely thrilled and delighted with your purchase from Joy's, it may be returned within 20 days for a full refund. Join the "Platey Generation" and while we can't guarantee that every plate will grow in value, we'll guarantee that you'll love the Plate Collecting Hobby.

Golf's Super-Panel

Comments: "I really admired the game of Paul Runyan, who was big in the 1930's. We called him 'Little Poison.' He really honed those cute short iron shots so fine. Arnold Palmer is a great power hitter and a go-for-broke gambler like I was in my young days. I obviously have to rate Ben Hogan as one of the greatest all-round players I ever saw, and one of the things I'm most proud of in my career is that I beat Hogan three-for-three in sudden-death playoffs. The biggest of these three victories was in the 1954 Masters."

ARNOLD PALMER, 45

Best driver	Ben Hogan
Best long irons	Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller
Best mid-irons	Jack Nicklaus
Best short irons	Julius Boros
Best fairway woods	Gary Player
Best wedge	Gary Player
Best putter	Bob Charles, Billy Casper
Best swing	Sam Snead, Gene Littler

Comments: "The younger men like Johnny Miller will have to keep from letting their nerves get to them as they get older, especially while putting. From personal experience, I know that my putting has given me more trouble as I get older than any other part of my game. Julius Boros is about the only older golfer I know who's still as sharp with his putting as he always was, and I think the fact that he's a fast putter, steps up and hits it, helps him stay a good putter. Gary Player is such a good sand iron player that it's no disadvantage to him at all to hit into sand. Bob Charles, the lefthander from New Zealand, is a great putter, and Billy Casper has made more long putts than anyone I've ever seen."

JACK NICKLAUS, 34,

Best driver	Lee Trevino
Best long irons	Tom Weiskopf
Best short irons	Johnny Miller
Best putter	George Archer, Dave Stockton

Comments: "The one area where every tour golfer is strong is putting. Otherwise they couldn't be on the tour. Twenty or 30 new pros join the tour each year, and the ones who make it are the ones who work at their game the hardest. Maybe the best overall player is a guy few people think of in that category–Lee Trevino. Even after he won the U.S. Open in 1968, coming out of total obscurity, not too many people took him seriously. But of all other golfers I could wish to be if I weren't Jack Nicklaus, I would want to be Lee Trevino."

WHO ARE THE GREATEST WOMEN GOLFERS?

Patty Berg

Here's what Patty Berg says . . .

Best driver	Mickey Wright, JoAnne Carner
Best long irons	Mickey Wright, Shirley Englehorn
Best mid-irons	Kathy Whitworth, Sandra Haynie, Carol Mann
Best short irons	Sue Berning, Donna Young
Best fairway woods	Judy Rankin, Sandra Haynie, Louise Suggs
Best wedge	Carol Mann
Best bunker player	Betsy Rawls, Sandra Palmer
Best putter	Carol Mann, Kathy Whitworth, Louise Suggs
Best swing	Mickey Wright Babe Zaharias
Best competitor	Kathy Whitworth, Sue Berning, Sandra Haynie

Comments: "More and more young women are entering golf as a career now. I was one of the first fulltime pros among the women when I started playing professionally in 1940. I've seen and played against every top woman player of the past 40 years. Babe Zaharias was my biggest competition during my early pro years, but the girls that have come up in the past 10 or 15 years are so outstanding, and there've been so many of them–Kathy Whitworth, Carol Mann, all the rest."

FRED CORCORAN

Best driver	Ben Hogan
Best long irons	Sam Snead, Arnold Palmer
Best mid-irons	Tom Weiskopf
Best short irons	Julius Boros
Best fairway woods	Bobby Jones
Best putter	Horton Smith, Arnold Palmer
Best stylist	Harry Vardon

Comments: "My favorite pro of all was Walter Hagen. He did more to popularize golf than any other person. He was one of the most well-liked sports personalities of his time, the 1910's and 1920's. I would have to say that Ben Hogan was the best golfer who ever played. He won his first tournament in 1940, when he was already 28 years old, but then he also won the next two straight tournaments after that. To cure a natural hook, he probably hit more practice shots than anyone who ever lived." FW

The bountiful harvest reaps recipes from East, West, North and South: Creamy Guacamole, Golden Turkey with Savory Walnut Stuffing, Ginger Baked Squash, Pink Cranberry Mousse, Raspberry Sauce, Potato Rolls and Walnut Sweet Potato Pie.

For Thanksgiving we've planned a menu that reflects seasonal foods and flavors from all across the U.S. You supply the turkey. We'll suggest the other dishes to make this your finest Thanksgiving ever!

Savory Walnut Stuffing

1 cup butter or margarine
1 tablespoon ground sage leaves
2 teaspoons ground thyme or thyme leaves
2½ cups thinly sliced celery
1¼ cups chopped onion
1 chicken bouillon cube
¼ cup boiling water
1¼ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
⅓ cup grated Parmesan cheese
⅓ cup chopped parsley
1½ cups coarsely chopped walnuts
4 qts. day-old bread cubes (2 loaves 1-lb. size)

1. In large skillet heat butter until melted. Add sage, thyme, celery, and onion, sauté 5-7 minutes until onion is tender.

2. Add bouillon cube and boiling water, stir to dissolve. Stir in salt, pepper, Parmesan cheese and parsley.

3. In large bowl combine walnuts and bread cubes. Stir in herb-celery mixture, mix well. Makes 2-3 qts.
Ample for 18-22 lb. turkey

MARSHMALLOW TREATS

¼ cup regular margarine or butter
1 pkg. (6 to 10 oz.) regular marshmallows, about 40, OR 4 cups miniature marshmallows
5 cups KELLOGG'S RICE KRISPIES cereal

1. Measure margarine into large saucepan; melt over low heat. Add marshmallows and cook, stirring constantly, until marshmallows are melted and mixture is very syrupy. Remove from heat.

2. Add Rice Krispies cereal; stir until well coated.

3. Spread warm mixture in buttered 13 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Using waxed paper or buttered spatula, press firmly into an even layer. Cut into squares when cool.

Yield: 24 squares, 2 by 2 inches

Note: For thicker squares, press warm mixture into buttered 9 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Best results are obtained when using fresh marshmallows. About 2 cups marshmallow creme may be substituted for marshmallows. Add to melted margarine and cook over low heat about 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Proceed as directed in step 2 above.

Sweet Potatoes And Squash– New Ways To Fix 'Em!

WALNUT SWEET POTATO PIE

1⅓ cups toasted walnuts, recipe below
1 10-inch unbaked pie shell
1 can (1 lb.) sweet potatoes or yams in syrup
½ cup syrup from sweet potatoes
3 large eggs
⅔ cup brown sugar, packed
1¼ cups milk
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
¾ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt
Orange Walnut Topping, recipe below
Walnut halves for decoration
1 can (9 ozs.) aerosol whipped cream

1. Preheat oven to 425°F. Sprinkle ⅓ cup toasted walnuts into bottom of pie shell. Reserve remaining walnuts for orange walnut topping set aside.

2. In medium bowl, mash sweet potatoes smoothly, then add reserved liquid and beat with electric mixer until fluffy. Add eggs, beat again until blended.

3. Add brown sugar, milk, orange rind, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt, beat at low speed, then at medium speed until blended. Pour into prepared pie shell.

4. Bake on lowest rack of oven about 50-55 minutes, or until filling is set. Cool thoroughly on rack.

5. Spoon Orange Walnut Topping around outer edge of pie, making a ring about 2 inches wide. Decorate center with walnut halves, cut into wedges to serve, topping each with a whipped cream rosette.

Makes 1 (10 inch) pie, 10 servings

TOASTED WALNUTS: Drop 1⅓ cups walnuts into 1 qt. boiling water and boil 3 minutes. Drain well and spread on baking sheet. Toast at 350°F. 10-12 minutes; until lightly browned. Turn out at once to cool.

ORANGE WALNUT TOPPING: In small saucepan, combine ⅓ cup orange marmalade and ¼ cup brown sugar, packed. Stir over medium heat until sugar dissolves. Bring to a boil and simmer slowly 2-3 minutes. Stir in 1 cup reserved toasted walnuts. Spoon onto pie while topping is warm.

GINGER BAKED SQUASH

3 medium acorn squash, halved and seeded
¼ cup water
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons brown sugar, packed
2 tablespoons sherry or water
½ teaspoon ground ginger
½ teaspoon salt

1. Preheat oven to 400°F. Place squash halves, cut side down in baking pan. Add water. Bake for 20 minutes.

2. Meanwhile combine all remaining ingredients in small saucepan and stir over low heat until well blended. Simmer 5 minutes, uncovered.

3. Turn squash cut side up, fill hollows with ginger syrup. Bake 25 minutes longer until fork tender, basting cut surface with syrup during last 5 minutes of baking. Makes 6 servings

POTATO YEAST ROLLS

1 pkg. active dry yeast
¼ cup very warm water (110°F.-115°F.)
½ cup boiling hot milk
⅓ cup shortening or margarine
¼ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
1 cup unseasoned mashed potatoes
2 eggs, beaten
3½-3¾ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
½ cup yellow cornmeal

1. Soften yeast in very warm water, set aside.

2. Pour boiling hot milk into a large mixing bowl over shortening, sugar and salt. Stir until shortening melts. Stir in potatoes and eggs, and cool to lukewarm.

3. Stir in yeast, then stir in half the

"I hate large parties! You can never talk to anyone. Somebody is always pulling on your sleeve, saying 'The ice maker broke down.'"

By Bob Newhart
In conversation with Helen Dorsey

I've never been a great fancier of food. When I was a kid growing up in Oak Park, a Chicago suburb, I was raised on Midwestern fare. My mother used to make spaghetti and meat loaf. I don't know why, but she was a compulsive baker of brownies! One day she said, "I don't know why I keep making all these brownies. Nobody ever eats them." We just let them stack up until they got so stale she had to throw them away!

I used to take pills to put on weight because I couldn't have cared less about food. But now I've developed a taste for it. I'll never forget the first meal my wife Ginny ever prepared for me. It was a thing called "baked steak"—the kind you put on the bottom of the broiler rack and bake instead of broil. I didn't dare tell her how awful it was!

Now, Ginny has become a very good cook. She gets recipes from her friends or cuts them out of newspapers or magazines. There are still many things I don't like. I still love meat loaf, but I'm particularly fond of Ginny's Italian dishes like spaghetti, lasagna or manicotti. We entertain informally at home. Luckily, we have a small dining room because I hate large parties! You can never talk to anyone. Somebody is always pulling on your sleeve, saying, "The ice maker broke down." What's the point of having people over unless you can talk to them?

Do I cook? Never! I'm much more interested in cooking up comedy routines. I've always found some of the best comedy comes from life. For example, I could do a whole routine just about the time I took my family on a camping trip! We took one of those mobile houses. We didn't know it at the time, but Ginny was pregnant and had morning sickness every day. We also took along our dog, who got carsick. We made about 18 miles a day. The kids always wanted peanut butter and jelly sandwiches. But just at the very mention of the words "peanut butter," Ginny got violently ill. So I had to make the sandwiches.

We had fun stopping to fix steaks along the way. But it's kind of like going in the army If I ever go again, I'll know whole lot more what to do. wouldn't have traded that experience for anything. But won't do it again. Next time I' get a camper and drive by da then stop off at a motel at nigh

SPAGHETTI WITH MARINARA SAUCE, NEWHART

1 pkg. spaghetti
2 cups chopped onion
1 large clove garlic, pressed
3 tablespoons fine-grade olive oil
4 cups canned Italian plum tomatoes-
2 tablespoons tomato paste
Salt to taste
Freshly ground black peppe to taste
1 teaspoon dried oregano

of the Spaghetti I Loved as a Kid”

1 teaspoon dried basil
2-3 sweet or hot Italian sausages (cooked), cut in ½-inch-thick slices, optional
½ lb. lean ground beef, barely cooked in small amount of olive oil, optional
½ cup dry red wine

1. Sauté onion and garlic in olive oil.

2. Pour plum tomatoes into sieve. Mash with wooden spoon to remove seeds. Discard seeds.

3. Add pureed tomatoes to onion-garlic mixture. Add all remaining ingredients except wine. Cook slowly about 30 minutes, stirring often.

4. Add wine. Cook about 15 minutes longer, or until thick. Taste to correct seasonings.

5. While sauce simmers, cook spaghetti in 2 qts. boiling water until it is done “al dente.” Serve, with sauce poured over top.

Sauce recipe makes 3-4 cups

MANICOTTI

For the pasta:

6 qts. boiling, salted water
1 teaspoon olive oil
1 pkg. manicotti (contains about 16 manicotti)

1. Bring water to full rolling boil; add olive oil. Cook a few manicotti at a time for about 6 minutes, or until barely tender.

2. Plunge manicotti in cold water to rinse; drain on paper towels. Continue cooking remaining manicotti until all are done.

For meat filling:

1½ lbs. lean chopped beef
2-3 hot or sweet Italian pork sausages (parboiled or broiled) skins removed, minced
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 tablespoon olive oil
3 tablespoons chopped parsley
½ teaspoon dried basil
½ teaspoon dried oregano
2 cups marinara sauce (vegetarian version)
1 egg, beaten
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
Beef broth or milk to moisten
Salt to taste
Pepper to taste

1. Break up meat into small particles. Place in skillet with sausage, onion and olive oil. Cook until meat begins to brown.

2. Pour off excess fat. Mix meat thoroughly with remaining ingredients. Fill cooked noodles.

To assemble:

1 cup marinara sauce
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese

1. Line large flat baking dish with aluminum foil. Cover bottom of dish with few spoonfuls of sauce.

2. Arrange stuffed noodles side by side in dish. Spoon remaining sauce over all (use more if needed). Sprinkle cheese over top. Bake in preheated 350°F. oven about 30 minutes, or until cheese is nicely browned.

Makes 6-8 servings

GINNY'S CARROT MOLD

1½ cups grated carrot
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup soft margarine
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten

1. Combine all ingredients; mix well. Place in greased 5½-cup ring mold. Bake in preheated 350°F. oven about 45 minutes. Unmold. Serve on platter with cooked green peas in the center.

CRANBERRY MOUSSE WITH RASPBERRY SAUCE

3 cups fresh or fresh frozen cranberries, rinsed
1 cup sugar
1 qt. cranberry juice cocktail
3 envelopes unflavored gelatin
⅓ cup kirsch* or light rum
2 cups (1 pt.) heavy cream, whipped
1 pkg. (10 ozs.) frozen raspberries, thawed
1 jar (12 ozs.) raspberry preserves
¼ cup kirsch or light rum

1. In medium saucepan combine cranberries, sugar and 1 cup cranberry juice. Heat to boiling, reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes uncovered.

2. Stir gelatin into 1 cup cranberry juice to soften. Stir gelatin mixture into hot cranberry mixture. Add remaining cranberry juice and kirsch. Refrigerate until slightly thickened.

3. Fold whipped cream into slightly thickened gelatin mixture. Pour mixture into 2-qt. mold. Chill until firm.

4. Make Raspberry Sauce: Press raspberries and juice through a sieve, discard seeds. Stir in preserves and kirsch, mix well. Refrigerate, covered.

"I use this Mirro-Matic Popper to make the best popcorn in the world."

Orville Redenbacher's® Gourmet Popping Corn is the best in the world. He spent thirty-five years of trial and error making it that way. He came up with a popping corn that puffs up to 44 times its own volume and earned him the title of "Popcorn King of the World."

Naturally, a man who's devoted his life to perfecting popping corn is going to be mighty particular about the popper he chooses. That's why he uses a Mirro-Matic Pop'n'Serve.

He likes the unbreakable Lexan® cover, the automatic thermostatic control, heatproof base and non-stick, easy-cleaning Teflon II® coated aluminum popping surface.

Now Orville likes his popcorn straight — with just a touch of salt. But if you like butter on yours, the Mirro-Matic's unique Butter-Rite feature butters the popcorn after it's done.

The Mirro-Matic Pop'n'Serve comes with either a colorful red or green base and holds four full quarts. Its stylish low profile makes storage easy. Get this Mirro-Matic or any of the other three and four quart poppers at your Mirro dealer. And have some really great popcorn.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

Do the "Beautiful People" Really Have More Fun?

True or False: Beauty is as difficult to cope with as extreme wealth. (See number 3)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Good-looking girls make the best wives.

2. A handsome man or beautiful woman can get by on looks alone.

3. Beauty is as difficult to cope with as extreme wealth.

4. The better looking a person is, the more likely he is to develop his talents and abilities.

5. If a man is on the homely side, he'll make a better impression if his wife or girl friend is good-looking.

ANSWERS

1. False—according to studies conducted by investigators from two leading universities, which show that beautiful women do not fare as well in marriage as their plainer sisters. As one authority observes in commenting on these findings: "One might speculate that beautiful women may have gained altogether too much self-love and self-regard through admiration from others to become dutiful wives."

2. False. Psychological studies show that good looks, without a correspondingly interesting personality to back them up, are like an attractive cover on a dull book. Interest wanes as the reader gets into the pages.

3. True. Dr. Martin Grotjahn, professor of psychiatry at the University of Southern California Medical School, has made an exhaustive study of beautiful people—how they behave, how they relate to others, how they feel about themselves. "It has been a source of startling surprise to me," observes the psychiatrist—who is also in private practice in Beverly Hills, "to see the amount of depression, loneliness and deep unhappiness among beautiful people." His studies document how easily the blessing of being beautiful "can turn into a curse that splits an individual into two parts—one of which everyone admires and the other, hidden behind the beautiful surface, which is so often lonely, and feels unloved and occasionally engulfed in despair."

4. False. Studies show that men who are exceptionally handsome or women who are strikingly beautiful are much more likely to feel that they can get by on appearance alone and are therefore more inclined to coast through life. However, unattractive people realize that they must make the most of themselves and develop and enhance their good qualities and abilities.

5. True. In studies conducted at Virginia Commonwealth University, psychological tests show that an unattractive male is perceived in a more favorable light when he is paired with an attractive female. And an attractive female is liked more when she is associated with an unattractive male than when she is paired with an attractive male.

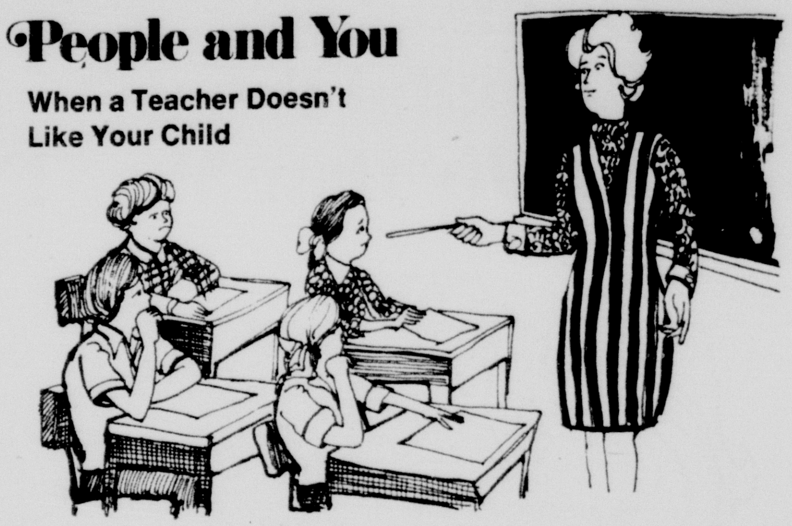
People and You

When a Teacher Doesn't Like Your Child



For years, parents have been asking questions like this: "Do you think I ought to take little Johnny out of Mrs. Jones' class? Mrs. Jones and my older son never got along, and now I'm afraid Johnny's going to have the same trouble." Science has now proved that questions like this are based on sound instincts. In a new in-depth investigation, psychologists discovered that teachers definitely expect little brothers and sisters to be like the older members of their family. The teachers don't even realize they have this attitude—apparently it's just human nature. If an older brother was a school discipline problem, the teacher is usually quick to think that the younger sister or brother will also be a troublemaker. If the older child did poorly scholastically, the younger child has a hard time convincing the teacher that he's an average student. Most important, studies have shown that children often live up to adults' expectations. If the teacher expects a child to be a problem, he may very well become one!

The Doctor Lets You In Those Hospital Review Boards: How Well Do They Really Work?

MEDICAL-REVIEW BOARD

One of the results of the publicized abuses of Medicare is the growth of something called the Professional Standards Review Organization (PSRO). This is a hospital board made up of doctors, who pass judgment on the work of other doctors. Prior to Medicare, doctors worked pretty much as free agents, admitting patients, treating patients—and billing patients—according to their own judgment. Now they often have to justify their work to other doctors. In many cases, this is a good thing. It makes you, the patient and bill-payer, feel more confident that you are getting your dollar's worth of treatment. On the other hand, it has its bad side too. It means that you may have a harder time being admitted to a hospital, even though there are plenty of vacant beds (the review board may not consider your illness serious enough); and, for the doctor, it means increased paper work and the fear of being criticized and "called to account" by jealous or bureaucratic colleagues. It is a form of Big Brotherism. Nevertheless, PSRO's are here to stay. In fact, eventually the review board philosophy will probably extend to dentistry too. At present, dentists answer to no one. But as complaints about high dental fees increase, a similar surveillance group is bound to be set up.

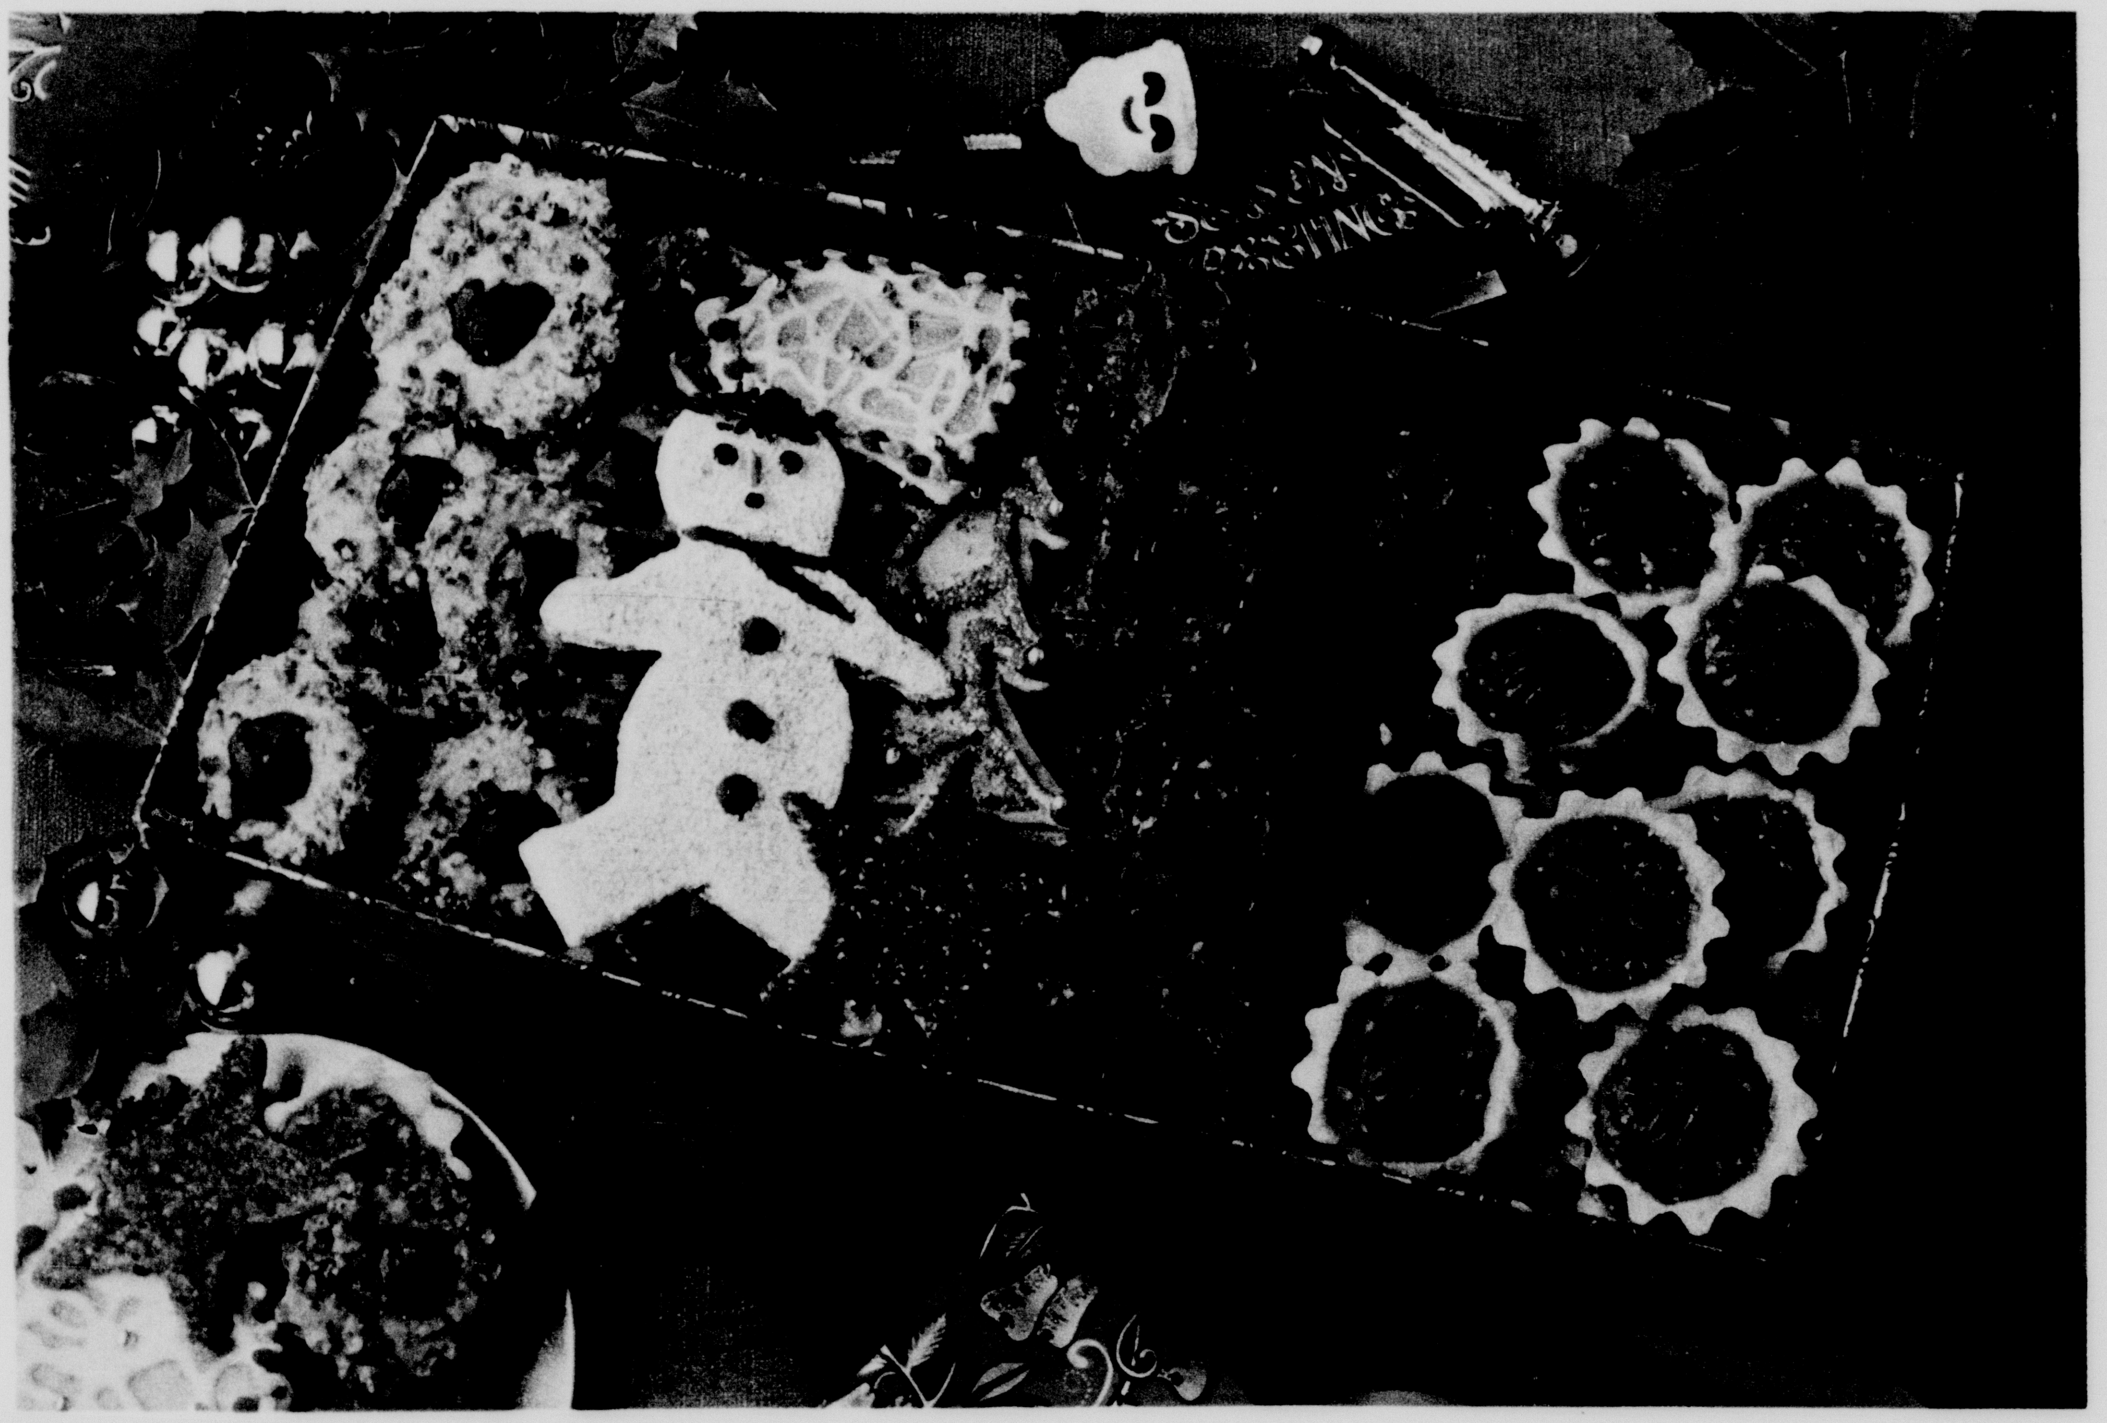
PECAN TARTS

Mix ½ cup Mazola margarine and ½ cup sugar. Stir in 2 egg yolks, 1 teaspoon almond extract and 2 cups sifted flour. Press evenly into tiny tart shells or muffin cups. Bake in 400°F. oven 8 to 10 minutes. Bring to boil ½ cup margarine, ⅓ cup KARO dark corn syrup and 1 cup confectioners' sugar. Stir in 1 cup chopped pecans. Spoon into shells. Top with pecan halves. Bake in 350°F. oven 5 minutes. Makes 4 doz.

Make a festive package from any type of box. A shoe box is ideal.



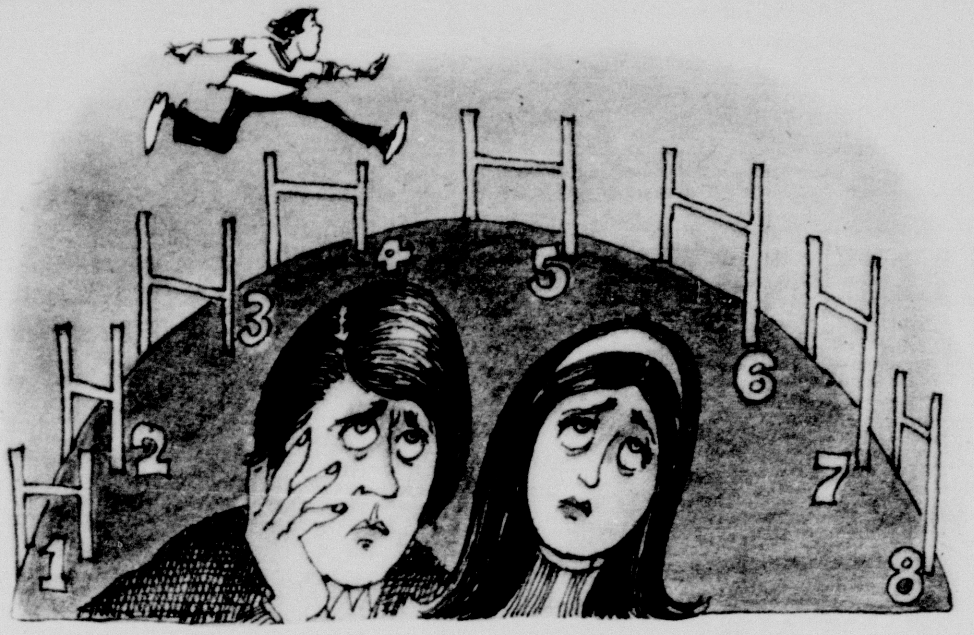
The Eight "Crisis Points" When Depression May Strike Us

By Katharine Balfour

Are there points in our lives when we are particularly susceptible to depression? Yes. Most emphatically, yes.

Psychiatrists say that certain points in our lives have a kind of built-in stress that can trigger depression. This does not mean that when you reach one of these points you will inevitably become depressed. But there is a good chance that a great many of us will suffer some degree of depression when we reach one or another of these crisis points.

What are these crisis points in our lives?



"There is a good chance that a great many of us will suffer some degree of depression when we reach one or another of these crisis points."

---

1. "Waiting" for College

Psychiatrists say that one of the first great crisis points these days is the stress experienced by adolescents (a very depression-prone group anyway because of the hormonal and psychological turmoil they are undergoing) when they start applying for college. Worried about their high school grades, fearful of rejection, anxious about the possibility of disappointing their parents, adolescents at this point often go into depressions. More often than not the depression blows over when they hear from the college of their choice. If they are accepted, then all is fine and dandy and the students visibly perk up. If they are rejected and must settle for a less desirable school, most of them get over their disappointment in fairly short order. But this period—while they are waiting to hear from the colleges—is one fraught with tension.

2. Going to College

The first year in college is also recognized as a crisis point—it even has a name, the "freshman blues." For many young people, this is the first real separation from home and parents. They are anxious about their ability to succeed in their studies, they are unsure of themselves with the opposite sex and they are uncertain about their ability to form relationships on an adult level. (In other words, this is not a time for parents to pressure students to achieve high grades or "meet a nice boy.")

3. The Last Year

The senior year in college, doctors say, can also be a crisis point leading to depression. The college has by now become home to the student and the thought of leaving this cozy, known world for the cold, indifferent outside world fills many students with enormous anxiety.

Many become depressed. Some, in an attempt to deal with their feelings, begin to get involved with drugs—even if until now they have avoided the drug scene. Others, in an unconscious attempt to avoid separation from college, begin to get such poor grades that they simply do not graduate. In both instances the students display symptoms of depression brought on by the inevitable demand on them to stand on their own two feet.

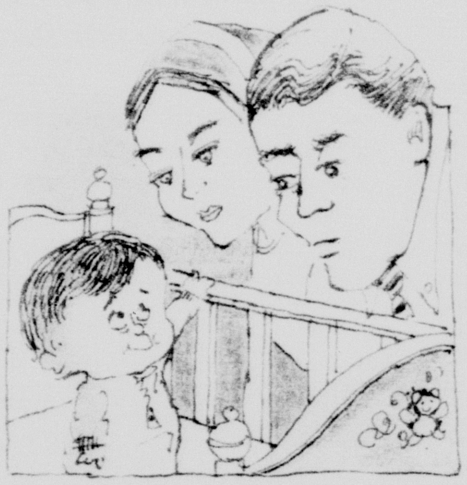
4. The First Baby

For both men and women, the birth of the first child–an event that is almost always joyful on the surface–can be a crisis point. The young husband may now really begin to feel trapped by the increasing demands of the growing family. He is now also aware that he is no longer the center of his wife's attention. He has a competitor – the new baby. And our society doesn't really allow him to voice his displeasure at being shoved out of the limelight.



The young mother, in turn, may suffer from postpartum "blues." But a rapidly increasing number of women face an added stress at this point–the conflict between career aspirations on the one hand and staying home and caring for the baby on the other. This conflict is more intense these days than it has ever been before and often triggers depression.

5. Turning Forty

In our youth-oriented society, men–and women in increasing numbers–realize that unless they've "made it" by forty, unless they are where they want to be or close to it, their chances of getting there are dismal indeed. Men at this point often begin to have incidents of sexual impotence. They become irritable and insecure, which only assures other such incidents. They fear that they will be passed over for job promotions or even fired in favor of younger men. At this point, their family obligations and financial responsibilities are at their height. These spiraling insecurities and pressures can lead to depression.

6. The Menopause

Traditionally women fear the menopause. They are convinced that their sexual attractiveness is fast diminishing and that their roles of mother and homemaker are no longer needed. Many have been raised on old wives' tales that all women must suffer during the menopause. In fact, millions of women go through this period easily and comfortably. Hormone therapy for those who need it is extremely helpful. But for those women for whom this therapy is contraindicated and who are suffering from "hot flashes," sweating, anxiety and other discomforts associated with this time of life, the menopause can be a rough time.

7. Male Climacteric

The male climacteric, which comes somewhat later in life than does the menopause in women, brings with it a waning of sexual desire and decreasing ability to perform well sexually. At this time in life many men suffer from insomnia, an inability to concentrate, a preoccupation with aches and pains, a general weakening of physical powers and an increasing, sometimes morbid, awareness of their mortality.

8. The Endless List

There are other events that can lead to depression–the loss of a loved one, divorce, the end of a love affair, the loss of a job, status or prestige, working under prolonged stress or fatigue, poor nutrition, diseases, moving to another locality, the necessity of giving up one's home and going into a home for the aged, the loss of a business opportunity. And on and on and on.

But enough. The point is, what can we do to help ourselves out of a depression?

The experts agree that one of the basic and most effective steps you can take in coping with depression is to get involved with other people.

Dr. Paul Gillete, coauthor of an informative book, "Depression, a Layman's Guide to the Symptoms and Cures," puts it this way: Get out of the house. Go to a movie, a concert, a ball game. Call a friend you trust and talk about some of your worries. Do something for somebody. Do something with somebody. Exercise, if you can. Physical activity is a good way of ridding yourself of tension. And, of course, if you can afford to, go on a vacation.

And now for a word of warning: If your depression hangs on for more than a few days or a couple of weeks at the most–play it safe, see a doctor. fw advertisement

The Amazing 5 Minute Body Shaper Plan.

Over 500,000 flabby people have chosen this easy way to shape up fast-at home

"We guarantee you will see and feel results in 3 days! You will reduce from 2 to 5 inches off your waist. Lose from 5 to 15 pounds (depending on your present condition) within 14 days, without giving up the foods you like. The Body Shaper Plan must work...or it costs you nothing!"

"It took me just 9 days to lose 7 pounds and 5¼ inches off my waist — following the '5' Minute Body Shaper Plan." Linda Simon

They saw and felt results in the first 3 days.

What Is This Ingenious Plan?

The Weider '5' Minute Body Shaper Plan is based on doing one continuous, coordinated rhythmic exercise—twice daily and cutting down about 20% of your food intake—but without giving up any of the foods you like.

This one, five-minute exercise is designed to slim and firm your flabby waistline and hipline (where fat accumulates quickest, giving your body a flabby, weak and distorted look), as well as take off excess body fat FAST by speeding up your metabolism, burning off stored calories, and releasing excess water. At the same time, it helps to re-shape your chest or bustline, waist or hips, firms your arms and legs—improves your total body! It's safer than strenuous gym workouts. No disrobing. Do it in the privacy of your own home—even while watching TV. The unit weighs about 16 ounces and fits any wallet-size case. You can carry it and use it wherever there is floor space—anytime. Even while watching television.

What The Experts Say:

Medical Doctors, Chiropractors, Athletic Coaches ...agree it's the most successful Waistline-Weight Reducer and Shaping Up Plan they have seen yet.

What Satisfied Customers Say:

Here are reported results from but a few of the thousands and thousands of customers who have used the plan. Each of the cases reported below, was certified, measured and weighed by experts. That's why we can guarantee that every result reported is absolutely accurate.

"I lost 25 lbs. and 5¾ inches in 14 days," G.C. "I lost 32 lbs. and 6½ inches in 21 days," M.F. "I lost 15 lbs. and 3 inches in 14 days," W.E. "I lost 22 lbs. and 6 inches in 21 days," M.B. "I lost 3¾ inches off my waist in 5 days," R.M. "I lost 10 lbs. and 6¾ inches in 14 days," C.J. "I lost 10 lbs., 6¼ inches off my waist and 3" off my hips in 14 days," P.O. "I lost 10 lbs. and 5 inches off my waist in 14 days," J.C. "I lost 7 lbs. and 5 inches off my waist in 14 days," S.D.

Results vary depending upon how much overweight you are and how much time you give to the Plan. These people have given from 5 to 10 minutes twice daily to our one simple exercise, lying on their backs in comfort, even while watching TV—(and just cutting down about 20% on the foods they eat—without giving up the foods they love). Naturally, their impressive results vary. But, we guarantee that you, too, can expect to lose from 5 to 15 pounds and from 2 to 5 inches off your waistline in 14 days—or your $9.95 will be refunded.

Money Back Guarantee!

Scientific researchers, medical and fitness experts agree—the only way to firm, shape and trim your body is by working off the inches. The Body Shaper is a simple way to do it. No gimmicks involved—you will not be ripped off as in the past by so-called "effortless exercisers"

So, we make you this unconditional guarantee: "Get it off fast"—and see measurable and firming results in 14 days or return the exerciser for your refund! Proven results are already verified. The guarantee is in writing. Now, can you think of a reason for not ordering your '5' Minute Total Body Shaper?

Now Revealed...Nature's Secrets of LONGER LIFE...HEALTHIER BODY (whether you're 35...55 or 75)

How nature's warning system helps fight against heart attacks, strokes, and high blood pressure

How many people do you know who were struck down, at the peak of their lives, by a heart attack that seemed to come out of the blue? How many do you know who suffer from high blood pressure, caused (they think) by today's pressures? How often have you, yourself, been concerned with your own body... with things like shortness of breath...or that tired feeling after minor exertion? Or just those vague feelings that you couldn't quite pinpoint?

NATURE'S HIDDEN MESSAGE

The important news today is that science has discovered Mother Nature's hidden signs of danger to yourself and your loved ones. These warnings often provide ample time to avoid serious consequences...if you can recognize what nature's "Early Warning System" is trying to tell you. The tell-tale signs are all there! Now science makes it all available to you in a remarkable new book which tells you in simple easy-to-understand language how to maintain a healthier body—for a happier, longer life.

THE COST OF PROGRESS

Science has both given and it has taken away. Where once man had to struggle with all his strength to survive, now science has given us creature comforts beyond the wildest imagination of kings! Press a button, push a pedal, move a finger...and we cross continents ...even travel through outer space in seconds! Yes! Our lives have been infinitely enriched today with civilization's trappings. Yet for so many it is a death knell!

For we eat too many noxious foods... drink things that strain the miraculous functions of our bodies. We take in pollutants and toxic substances into our systems day and night. We sin against nature...exercise the wrong way...even sleep wrong! And we end up with bloated bodies, clogged arteries, high blood pressure, and heart attacks that are so often fatal!

HELP YOURSELF TO BETTER HEALTH

We are not doomed to die early, or carry around 40...50...60 pounds of excess, dangerous weight. We don't have to resign ourselves to dangerous blood pressure that causes dizziness, feelings of fainting...nausea and unnecessary worry. Because there is plenty of new, valuable knowledge gathered by thousands of doctors, scientists, and dieticians. Information available to us right now — and that can make a great difference in our lives today! Information that is vital to men and women of all ages! We must heed this information...use it for our own good!

ANSWERS TO YOUR QUESTIONS ON CHOLESTEROL, FOODS, ETC.

Did you know your body actually needs a certain amount of cholesterol? That a drink or two can be beneficial? That smoking doesn't necessarily cause emphysema, lung cancer, or a heart attack? That you can eat those scrumptious, forbidden foods...when prepared a certain easy way? And most important of all...you don't have to wait around for the grim reaper to call, just because you're over 60 or 70. The truth is, men and women everywhere now function with clear minds and sound bodies. They enjoy themselves, are vigorous and active, totally involved with life...even into their 80's. You too can lead a healthier, longer life. But you must understand nature's message. You must respect nature, and above all, work with nature!

EASY HOME METHODS

These recent discoveries of science are now boiled down into a handy book entitled, "Arteries, Cholesterol and Blood Pressure." In 12 easy-to-understand chapters, this book tells you all you need to know about the functions of the circulatory system...Nature's Early Warning System on heart attacks... the dangers of the wrong kinds of foods... what you can do in the privacy of your own home to avoid certain crippling disease... how to help yourself to better health and increase your chances for a longer life with easy home methods.

EASY TO UNDERSTAND

This fearless book dares tell the truth about foods, diets, exercise, holding back premature old age, etc. It's beholden to no one. It pulls no punches on:

...the hidden danger in cow's milk
...the truth on eggs and how to prepare them
...meats that are best for you after fifty
...why certain frozen foods can kill
...the real facts on butter and other fats
...how to select the right doctor for yourself

But these are only a few of the many revealing truths in "Arteries, Cholesterol and Blood Pressure." Just one simple fact can help you prevent grave illness—perhaps save your life! It may add many wonderful, healthful, and happy years to your life. This book is just chock-full of facts—some of which you're not likely to find elsewhere, lil

...why some vitamin pills can be dangerous
...the meaning of yellow lumps under the eyelids
...a chicken part you should never eat
...miracle drugs that lower blood pressure
...foods that poison the system and shorten life
...new safeguards to help prevent heart attacks.

ANSWERS TO YOUR PROBLEMS

This great book also lists page after page of questions you may have asked without getting an answer. Now these most asked questions are answered clearly and concisely. Things like:

- ☐ Which seafood is healthful, which is dangerous?
- ☐ Which vegetable product is high in saturated fat?
- ☐ Which exercise can cause serious consequences?
- ☐ How to drink liquor without regrets? Plus much, much more.

Painful elimination is unnatural.

Many people have experienced the pain of dry, hard stools. And many have come to accept this, as if it were a natural part of elimination.

But there's nothing natural about it.

No matter what your age, you should have comfortable elimination.

And Serutan makes this possible.

Serutan is the effective laxative that forms a smooth gel in the lower digestive tract, where it combines with intestinal waste to give you comfortable relief.

There's no strain, and no cramps. That's because Serutan, with its natural ingredients, adds the necessary moisture and bulk to work with your system for smooth, easy results.

If you suffer from painful elimination due to constipation or dry, hard stools, try Serutan. You'll be very comfortable with it.

"Feminine Itching Was Making My Life Miserable."

"I was constantly worried about my itching problem. I tried so many things, and nothing really helped. Feminine itching was making my life miserable. Then I saw an ad in my local newspaper for Vagisil, telling about a new way to help stop feminine itching. I tried it on a chance and it really worked. I don't worry about this itching problem any more since I found Vagisil."

Mrs. S. T., Richmond, Virginia

If you suffer from the problem of external vaginal itching (medically known as pruritus vulvae), there is now a creme medication specifically formulated to bring you fast, temporary relief. It is called Vagisil™ and is available without a prescription.

Doctor-tested Vagisil is a soft easy-to-apply medication that is so effective, it helps stop external vaginal itching almost instantly. Yet Vagisil is gentle enough for tender, irritated membranes. Vagisil actually leaves a cooling, protective, lubricating film to help check bacteria, soothe the irritated membranes, and so speed natural healing.

Thousands of women are now discovering the fast, temporary relief this scientifically developed medication brings. So follow their example and end the misery of external vaginal itching. Get Vagisil creme medication today. Delicately scented. Greaseless. Non-staining. At drug counters. For trial tube, send 25¢ to Vagisil, Box 328 WF, White Plains, N. Y.

When your child can't sit still, is it nervousness or is it Pin-Worms?

Fidgeting, distraction, fitful scratching of rectal itch—many people don't know these "nervous habits" can be caused by Pin-Worms. These almost invisible parasites are so common, medical authorities have said 1 out of 3 children examined, and many parents, may have Pin-Worms.

They can infect anyone—young or old, rich or poor. Worst of all, Pin-Worms are highly contagious, so they can spread from person to person, until the whole family is infected.

Fortunately, there is an easy-to-take medication called Jayne's® P-W® tablets that gets rid of Pin-Worms. Your pharmacist will tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that drives Pin-Worms out of your system. Ask for Jayne's P-W tablets at your drug store.

What in the World!

STAN LEE AND "SPIDEY"
16 thousand stories

How did Stan (The Man) Lee become the father of Spiderman and hulks of other super-heroes for super-successful Marvel Comics? "I think it's because I never knew what I wanted to do," says fiftyish Lee, a slim, graying, distinguished-looking six-footer with a dancing smile. "When I was young I went to work on a theater project with Orson Welles. Then I quit to write publicity releases for a hospital, then I wrote obituaries for a news service, then I wanted to be a lawyer. There were so many things I wanted to do, and they all sounded like fun. The last thing in the world I wanted to do was be a writer. I'm too gregarious, I love to meet people, and a writer has to keep his head buried in a tablet. So what happened is—I became the world's fastest writer of comic books. I learned to write a whole comic book—five or six stories—in an hour. And I did that for 30 years. Marvel fans are always writing me to tell me when my old plots turn up on TV shows, which they still do, and fairly often." Let's see: 30 years, two comic books a week, five or six stories per comic book—it adds up to at least 16,000 stories. "Amazing!" as Spiderman might say. Now Stan Lee is in "big-time" publishing—as the author of "Origins of Marvel Comics" (Simon & Schuster, $5.95).

CHRISTINE ERSKINE
A headache, and then . . .

Four years ago, Christine Erskine, 21, went totally blind after an accident. Medical authorities said she was doomed to a lifetime of darkness. A few months ago, however, Chris suffered an excruciating headache that had a miraculous aftermath: Suddenly she could see again. Nobody can explain how it happened, but this is the way Chris describes her recovery: "I closed my eyes. There was a swimming sensation, but when I opened my eyes I could see perfectly." The first thing Chris saw was a clock—which marked the time she could see again after four years in the dark.

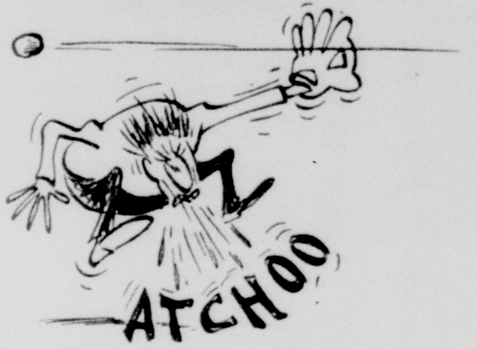
ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

By Richard Armour



THERE'S A CATCH TO IT

I cannot catch a ball that's thrown.
That kind of talent I don't own.
Be it a baseball, basket, foot,
My hands don't reach where it is put.
But I can catch a cold all right,
And keep it, too, can hold it tight.
You'd think a germ so very small
Would be much harder than a ball,
But no, without a glove or mitt
I'm very good at catching it.

If there were just a game I knew
Where catching germs of cold or flu
Would be applauded—this I know:
I'd be a star, I'd be a pro.

For their anniversary, my friend bought his wife an electric typewriter. Now he's looking for a chair to match.

—John C. Scroggins

Ad in a classified column: "Lost. Billfold. Would appreciate return of driver's license and other hard-to-replace items, including pictures of Washington, Lincoln, Hamilton and Jackson."

—Dorothea Kent

The law of the egotist: An I for an I.

—Frank Tyger

I know a family who are so poor that when you throw their dog a bone, the poor little fellow has to signal for a "fair catch."

I noticed one of the neighbor's boys, about five years old, sitting on a big motorcycle and asked him some questions about the bike—its throttle, clutch and various other things. I was surprised how much he knew. For a final question I asked him what the rearview mirror was for. In the same knowledgeable voice, he replied, "That's so you can tell when the guy behind falls off."
